McEowen donates book to Garst

GREENVILLE — Local genealogy buff Roger McEowen has donated another book to Garst Museum. This one focuses on his own lineage and known as "Ancestors of Roger L. McEowen."

He said he started on the book after he retired from Corning in 1996.

"I've been doing it off and on," he said. "The first four years I spent a lot of time researching. I even wrote letters to Scotland. I called and got death and birth certificates. When you get into genealogy, you usually start with mom and dad, grandmothers and grandfathers."

In his preface, he wrote, "I am very proud of my Scottish heritage and what it represents to me...Over 300 years of different blood lines probably puts my blood line in the Heinz 57 variety."

In his introduction, he outlines his direct line of McEowen ancestors and gives a brief history of each generation and their families.

A potpourri of 17th-, 18th-, 19- and 20th-century ancestral family names make up his mixed blood line.

Those names include, on the paternal side: Graham, Brokaw, Van Neste, Hageman, Potter, Millette, Bussard, Reigle, Black, Guitner and Ammerman; and on the maternal side: Black, Link, Slade, Roll, Hathaway, Cusic, Shiverdecker, Ward, York, Taylor and Lyons.

He said a cousin, Wendy Lowry of Michigan helped him out quite a bit. She's a high school math teacher.

"She so patiently and diligently arranged and typed all the information she and I had researched, collected and put in book form of my many McEowen and collateral family ancestors," he said.

McEowen has also donated the Guitner Family Genealogy, the York book and the Hathaway Family Genealogy, the latter which he dedicated to his mother, to the museum.

PREFACE

Over sixty-five years ago God introduced me to this great planet called earth. Born naked, innocent and helpless, I would start my journey through the many trials and tribulations of my lifetime. I would thank God that he provided me with a mother and father that would furnish me love, warmth, nourishment and protection from the elements during this early period in my life. The guidance, knowledge and support from my parents, grandparents, other family members and society as a whole have greatly influenced what I have experienced and accomplished over the years.

I am very proud of my Scottish heritage and what it represents to me. My ancestors married women of different nationalities such as Dutch, French, English, German, etc. Over three hundred years of different blood lines probably puts my blood line in the "Heinz 57" variety. Most people living today have very mixed blood lines. Later on in my "Introduction", I will outline my direct line of McEowen ancestors and give a brief history of each generation and their families

My "Reflections of Recollections" will be an attempt to record the many experiences, events and memories which have filled my life. I will make an honest effort to bring to life the many achievements, rewards, joys and sorrows which I have experienced to this point in my life.

The twentieth century has recorded so many great events, achievements and discoveries that it makes one wonder what is in store for the twenty-first century. Possibly, with the good Lord willing, I will live to see peace on this earth and more people make a greater effort to love their brothers and sisters of all races.

Dear Lord, please give me the inspiration, energy and wisdom to accomplish this great task I am about to pursue. My limited literary knowledge is somewhat of a handicap at this point, but I am committed to making an honest effort to portray and record in my own words, the experiences and events that have shaped my life to this point. He who does not put forth an honest effort in life, can never expect to attain any degree of success.

Roger L. McEowen Dec. 31, 1999

NOTE: My sincere appreciation goes out to my cousin Wendy Lowry; who so patiently and diligently arranged and typed all the information she and I had researched, collected and put in book form of my many McEowen and collateral family ancestors.

In the back of this book there is a general index of my many family ancestors; a set of my original lineage and pedigree worksheets; a list of my ancestors in the Revolutionary War; a list of some early prominent McEowen's of Somerset County, New Jersey; Darke County ancestors in the Civil War and Pioneer/First families of Darke County, Ohio.

IN MEMORY

Of my great-great grandmother Melissa (Millette) McEowen, my great grandmother Catherine (Bussard) McEowen, my grandmother Sadie (Guitner) McEowen and my mother Dortha (Hathaway) McEowen for the numerous dairies, notebooks, photo albums and McEowen family information they recorded over the many years before my time. I had the good fortune to have this information passed down to me and it has become invaluable in recording so much of my family history. Very fine job ladies. I LOVE YA ALL !

IN APPRECIATION

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to those many family members and old family friends who were kind enough to pass on their knowledge of early McEowen family history and genealogy. Also to the Garst Museum staff in Greenville, Ohio who ran many copies of early plat maps and biographical sketches from the History of Darke County published in 1914.

IN DEDICATION

To my children, grandchildren and all immediate family members; it is my hope this book may bring you pleasure and enjoyment as I try to portray the many experiences and events during this period of my life in the twentieth century.

Introduction. The Scottish Connection. My McEowen Family History and Ancestors. According to information found in various New Jersey sources, the original McEowen family came from Argyllshire, Scotland in 1736. The father Daniel and his wife Ann were accompanied by their four children: Daniel, Duncan, Alexander and Mary. The McEowen family and the Alexander Kirkpatrick family had sailed together on the same ship. After a stormy voyage of some thirteen weeks, they landed at New Castle, Delaware Co., IN the spring of 1736. Passing through Philadelphia, they wandered up through the state of New Jersey until they reached Bound Brook and then crossed over the mountains. The Kirkpatricks selected a site near a gushing spring now known as Mine Brook and built their cabin. The McEowens selected an adjoining site near Twin Lakes to build their cabin in this new promised land they would call home. The McEowens cleared the land and prospered in their new found home. Soon the three sons and daughter were married and the family grew in numbers. Family members spread to new locations in New Jersey and became involved in community affairs and public offices. The Revolutionary War saw a number of McEowens serving as patriots to secure their freedom and protect their country, family and homes. Soon after the war was over, new frontiers were opened and opportunities in other states and territories lured some of the McEowens from New Jersey. Eventually there were McEowens residing in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Texas and Vermont. Present day McEowen families and households number about one hundred and fifty and are spread far and wide over the United States. New Jersey is still home to a few McEowens today. For the past three years I have spent countless hours and many dollars researching my family history and genealogy. My ancestors experienced hard times from their very beginning in Scotland to my father's generation. In my early childhood, life was still a struggle just to survive the everyday rigors of life. In my own opinion, this American society, in the last half of this twentieth century, has become lazy, wimpish, morally unfit and poisoned by materialistic greed. Every generation seems to have the attitude their offspring should have it easier and better than they did. Well folks, it is about time to wake up to the fact that we are about to run out of "easier and better." I am very positive that the twenty-first century will bring some of the most catastrophic economical changes ever experienced in this country. Violence and anarchy is already rearing up its ugly head in our over-pampered youth of today. The handwriting on the wall stands out like a sore thumb. As I reflect my thoughts back over the last two and one-half centuries, I have this strong feeling of shame and betrayal for the millions of brave fighting men who sacrificed their lives to secure and protect a country that is making a mockery of what they fought for. They never had the opportunity to live a full life and enjoy the many advantages we take for granted. Most of the greedy materialistic "Big Business" pigs who try to monopolize this country should be making daily trips to military grave markers, getting down on their knees and giving thanks to the ones who made it possible for them to live in luxury and be able to waste our God-given natural resources at their own free will.

Acknowledgements. Cousin Steven Todd McEowen, without a doubt, has contributed more early McEowen history and genealogical information to me than any other source. His patience and drive to uncover past family history in libraries, museums, historical societies and over the internet never ceased to amaze me. He has traveled thousands of miles and spent countless hours doing research, viewing microfilm screens and taking photographs. Together, we were a team that uncovered more about our family history and ancestors than I ever dreamed possible. Steve had this dream of publishing a McEowen family book for the future McEowen clan members to identify with. Last Christmas Steve wrote to me advising he no longer had the time to pursue his dream. This is very saddening to me, but on the bright side he has enriched my life as well as many other family members he has made contact with. I'm sure, in time, he will come charging out of the closet again. Cousin Mary (McEowen) McGriff was another source of information on local family members for the last four or five generations in Darke County, Ohio. Her knowledge, records and photos never ceased to amaze me! Mary passed on to the dear Lord this last year (2001). May you rest in peace! Cousin Blanche (McEowen) O'Brien was another source of vast family information. She was one of the first to trace the McEowen family back to the revolutionary war, so she could be a proud member of the D. A. R. Blanche was one of the first women pilots in Darke County, O., and was acquainted with Amelia Earhart. Blanche and I have shared our family information for many years now. The list of family members I have contacted all over the United States runs into the hundreds. Each one has had information or photos to pass on to me. Most have shown a genuine interest and went out of their way to help me in any way they could. I cannot thank them enough!

In Memory of my great-great grandmother Melissa (Millette) McEowen, my great grandmother Catherine (Bussard) McEowen, my grandmother Sadie (Guitner) McEowen and my mother Dortha (Hathaway) McEowen for the numerous diaries, notebooks, photo albums and McEowen family information they recorded over the many years before my time. I had the good fortune to have this information passed down to me and it has become invaluable in recording so much of my family history. Very find job ladies. I love ya all!

In Appreciation. I would like to express my sincere appreciation to those many family members and old family friends who were kind enough to pass on their knowledge of early McEowen family history and genealogy. Also to the Garst Museum staff in Greenville, Ohio who ran many copies of early plat maps and biographical sketches from the History of Darke County published in 1914.

In Dedication to my children, grandchildren and all immediate family members; it is my hope this book may bring you pleasure and enjoyment as I try to portray the many experiences and events during this period of my life in the twentieth century. Roger Lowell McEowen, December 31, 1999.

Educational Shortcoming. My greatest shortcoming in education was never obtaining a full college degree in any chosen field. Although my self-education, training and on-the-job experience became vast over the many working years of my life, not having a college degree was a tremendous road block in any vocation or field of employment I pursued. Promotions were usually given to those who had obtained a degree. My vast experience would never compete with a four-year college education. It was very discouraging when I could outperform those around me and my salary was ten to fifteen thousand dollars less annually, because I did not possess that sheepskin. The greatest disappointment came when I tried to apply for a position and couldn't even get into the personnel office, because I did not have a degree. There were even those with whom I worked who considered me a second class citizen, because they felt superior with their educational background. They sang quite a different tune when they found I could run rings around them with my vast experience, knowledge and common sense. Obtaining a college and even higher education is a must if you are to survive today in this high tech society. The whole system has come to revolve around this fact of life. Believe me, I have been there!

Farmer gives up farm, now 'grafted' to Greenville. By Gary Lamburg, Publisher, newsdesk@dailyadvocate.com. Greenville - Roger McEowen had a problem. It came time for the orchardist and farmer to downsize and move into town. After planting and caring for over 800 fruit trees on nearly nine acres of land, he had to find a way to move his passion for tree fruit to his new digs on a small city lot in Greenville. At his orchard a few miles out of town on Highway 502, McEowen had painstakingly developed dozens of varieties of apples, pears, peaches, plums and other fruits. An engineer at Corning for many years, Roger planted the orchard as a hobby. Over the years his interest grew until he was caring for a sizable orchard and selling its produce by the peck and bushel to a growing number of customers. Raised on a farm, McEowen later had his own farm in Rossburg, where he raised a variety of crops, including tree fruit. In 1980 he moved to the corner of 502 and Greenville-Nashville Road and started planting another orchard. Now came the move to Greenville. The problem: How would Roger McEowen continue to grow tree fruit on his relatively small city plot? The answer: Grafting. Before relocating to his house in town in 1994, Roger contacted Eddie Rehmert at Rehmert's Nursery to move a few established trees to his backyard. Before the move he grafted several varieties of fruit onto the few trees he figured he had space for at his new home. After moving he planted more trees and continued grafting some of his favorite varieties onto small trees he found places for in his new yard. These days McEowen produces dozens of varieties on relatively few trees. Some trees have as many as 10 varieties of fruit growing on them. Three semi-dwarf apple trees in his backyard account for 18 different apple varieties. In one case Roger started with a Northern Spy apple tree. Using grafts he added Jonagold, Yellow Delicious, Cortland, Ida Red, Red Rome and Gala apple stock to the branches of the original Northern Spy tree. Today he can pick any of those favorite varieties from the successfully grafted tree. To understand how grafting works, it is important to understand that most fruit trees are made up of three parts; a rootstock to anchor the tree and largely determine the winter hardiness of the plant, a stem that delivers the tree's height characteristic, and fruiting wood, also known as a scion, that determines the variety of the fruit. Assembling a fruit tree involves combining characteristics of all three parts. Grafting on a hardy rootstock might help a tree survive winters far beyond the fruit's normal cold hardiness. Using a semi-dwarf or dwarf stem will reduce the size of a tree, and, perhaps, help a tree bear fruit sooner than it would using a standard size stock. Any related fruit wood can be grafted onto a tree's stem to produce the actual variety, or in McEowen's case, multiple varieties. To graft a scion to a tree clean cuts are made to a branch of the tree and to the scion on an angle. The two pieces are put together so that a maximum surface area is touching. The pieces are bound together with grafting tape, similar to electrical tape. If all goes well the two pieces will graft together after three to six weeks and the tape can be removed. With luck the graft will be successful. Fruit trees are not the easiest of flora to grow. The challenge starts with planting. An old fruit grower once said that a ten dollar tree should be planted in a twenty dollar hole. Soil preparation and planting are only the first step. Fruit trees must be meticulously pruned, regularly sprayed and occasionally fertilized if you expect them to produce. In most parts of the country water is an issue. It takes plenty of water to get tree fruit to size up. In 1980 Roger McEowen planted his orchard. For the next 14 years he labored to produce many varieties of fruit to sell to a growing number of customers. It was a labor of love. Unfortunately, Roger McEowen's orchard project had to come to an end. Forced to face the reality of giving up his orchard for a house in town, he sold the place. After being raised on a farm and working the land all those years, it was a tough decision. Since then the orchard has changed hands more than once. A couple of years ago a new owner decided that they no longer wanted fruit trees on the place and had practically all of them cut down. Only one row of pear trees remains to remind people passing by on Highway 502 of Roger's former orchard. Life goes on and so did Roger McEowen. Planning for the move Roger began grafting multiple fruit varieties onto individual trees. After moving a few select trees to his new place in Greenville he watched as the grafts took hold and eventually produced the many varieties he enjoys in his much smaller orchard today. Since then McEowen has found room for a few more trees. When possible he grafts new scions to these trees to produce a maximum number of fruit varieties in the limited space available in town. No, it is not the same as a fu

Dayton Daily News, June 12, 1958. Photo caption: "Lowell McEowen mans wheel for spin around his field. Butch Link helps Clarabelle Rice into Craft for some 'corny fun". 35-acre "Lake" Area Cornfield Draws Boaters. By Joe Fahnestock, Daily News Correspondent. Rossburg, June 12 - "If you can't beat 'em -- you just join 'em" is the way Lowell McEowen and Butch Link have been looking at their 35 acres of cornfield planted just a week ago and now under nine feet of water, thanks to the recent storms. "So we figured that it wouldn't do any further damage to our corn to just invite the fellows from the surrounding communities to fetch in their boats and give the public a free ride on Rossburg's new lake," they said. For unlike the fabled Mahomet having to go to the mountain because the mountain wouldn't come to Mahomet, Rossburgers don't have to go to the lake any more to float their boats and water ski simply because the lake has come to them - at least for a few days. All of which explains those big crowds of folks who've been gathering down along the Rossburg-New Weston rd., west of town, the past few days. "There are folks in this crowd all the way from New Weston, Greenville, Union City, Ansonia, Burkettsville, and even Versailles (as if they didn't have enough water at home) here to try out their boats and watch the free show," explained Don Smith, just as his son, Jerry, towed behind his grandfather's boat, skimmed across the water on his skis, showering the "beach party" gathered thereby. For everyone, it seems, got in on the act of "christening" or being "christened" at Rossburg's new "cornfield reservoir" - the menfolk taking the womenfolk and all the kiddies free boatrides, complete with all the capers, while those too "afear'd" to get into a boat were nevertheless generously sprinkled by those who did, skimming over the water's edge nearby. "No use pinning over our corn," philosophized farmers McEowen, who owns the field, and Link, who thought he had planted it, although between the both of them, they declare they'd never had a "crop" "come up" so quickly as this one had in the past few days. "Besides this field - er I mean 'lake' is perfectly safe for motorized racing and skiing - no stumps or obstructions whatever. Why I can't touch bottom with my car anywhere out there," mused McEowen. "Maybe in a couple weeks I'll try plantin' it all over again; handy lake here at Rossburg, anyhow," Link said.

My father, Lowell McEowen, was admitted to Coldwater, Ohio Community Hospital Sept. 28, 1976 for a mass or growth under his arm. Surgery was performed Sept. 29 to remove the growth and have a biopsy taken to check for malignancy. Removed his spleen Oct. 6. Dr. Feliciano gave the family the bad news that my father had Hodgkin's disease or cancer of the lymph glands. The rest of the family and the doctor decided that Roger would be the bearer of bad news to my father, as he wasn't aware of his situation. This had to be one of the toughest challenges of my lifetime. I was also instructed by the doctor to convince my father he should be admitted to the Columbus, Franklin Co., OHIO University Hospital under the care of a cancer specialist. My father was quite upset and said he wanted some time to consider if he wanted to undergo radiation, chemo, and all the other procedures he would be faced with in the University Hospital. The next day he had decided to go to Columbus and start treatments as soon as possible. Over the next two years he would make about forty trips to Columbus for various scans and cancer treatments. He became deathly sick after each treatment and over the next two years became weaker and weaker. He made it known to his family that he never wanted to be put back in the University Hospital again. He was scheduled to return to the hospital Nov. 15, 1978 for some more treatments and a checkup. At about five am in the morning he was upstairs getting ready to make the trip to the hospital. I am sure he decided they would try to keep him at the hospital and he wanted no part of it. He always kept a loaded semi-automatic 22 calibery Ruger handgun in his bedroom. My mother was downstairs getting ready when she heard this loud bang. She ran upstairs and found my father lying on the floor with a bullet hole in his forehead. I soon received a phone call from my hysterical mother trying to tell me that my father had shot himself. I rushed to their home and called the rescue squad. When I went upstairs my father was still alive but breathing very heavily. The rescue squad and sheriff's deputy were soon on the scene and transported my father to the Coldwater Hospital. The emergency doctor instructed the emergency crew to immediately transport my father to the St. Rita's Hospital in Lima, Ohio as they were not equipped to handle the situation. My father died that same evening at 7:20 pm in the Lima Hospital from the gunshot wound. My mother and aunt Mildred always felt my father did wrong by taking his own life. It is my own personal opinion that you should never judge another person's actions until you have walked a hundred miles in their shoes.

On December 7, 1941, the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and the United States became involved in World War II. A friend and neighbor, Lloyd Rhynard left for the service in March of 1942. He was eventually stationed in Alaska. Lloyd and his father Tom Rhynard approached my father about taking over Lloyd's farming operations while he was in the service. Tom could not handle all the work involved. As I recall, Tom and my father had an agreement my father would handle all Lloyd's farming operations while he was gone. In turn, my father would receive a share of the crops and Tom was to co-sign for my father to secure a farm of his own.

My father was quick to grasp this opportunity and found an eighty acre farm he purchased from Russell "Poss" Hiestand who lived in Rossburg, Ohio. This farm was located on the south side of Rossburg-Lightsville Road one-half mile west of Rossburg. The farm came complete with a five room house, a summer kitchen, a large barn with a lean-to on the east end and another building with corn cribs built in each side. This was a great break for my father, as he had a home for his family and could start his own farming operation. He had his "H" Farmall and enough equipment to begin farming on his own. Lloyd's Oliver "70" Row Crop tractor and farming equipment would also be at his disposal for use anytime it was needed. Together, there was ample equipment to handle the McEowen and Rhynard farming operations, which was well over two hundred acres. Lloyd and his father Tom, had beef cattle on different farms my father also fed and took care of.

This endeavor kept my father very busy during planting, hay making and harvest seasons. He had to work long hours to keep up. He could only run one tractor at a time and had to hire some help at times to handle all of the work involved. There were cows, hogs, young chickens and laying hens to be taken care of at home. My mother, myself (then eight), brother Robert (then six) had to pitch-in and take care of the livestock at home during the busy seasons.

The Selective Service Board notified my father he would have to take a physical and if he passed it, he would be eligible to be called at anytime. He passed his physical and made it known he wanted in the Air Force if he was inducted. Ha! Tom Rhynard contacted the Selective Service Board to see if my father was eligible for a deferment, since his son and son-in-law (Gordon Eberst) were already in the service. He felt there was a need to keep the farming operation going and there was no one else available at that time. The Selective Service gave my father a deferment, but made it clear he could be called at anytime. He was never called and kept farming during the war. All during the war my father worked day and night at times and was constantly moving farm equipment from one farm to another. I remember he built a rubber tired tool trailer to haul the disk, cultipacker, rotary hoe, drag and any other equipment that would fit on the trailer. It was almost impractical to pull this equipment on the road long distances, as it was slow, hard on the equipment and road surface. With a rubber tired tool trailer, he was able to load some equipment, hook the trailer to the tractor and run the tractor in road gear at about twenty miles per hour. This saved time and also wear and tear on the equipment and road.

He purchased a one row, New Idea corn picker and no longer had to rely on someone else to pick his corn. His Allis-Chalmers combine was rather small for the acreage he was farming, but he made it do at that time. Later on, he traded it for a larger Case combine. Everything was going well and he was becoming very efficient in the farming operations. One day, my father had a very close call at the Rhynard farm. He had loaded the disk and drag on the tool trailer and was attempting to back-up the Oliver to hitch up the trailer. When he pushed the clutch pedal on the tractor, the clutch rod broke. Before he could do anything, tractor was backing up on top of the disk, flipping over, and throwing my father to the ground. The tractor came down just inches from his legs. Luck was with him again, as this was the second time he upset a tractor and received just minor scratches.

In 1944, Lloyd was medically discharged from the service, due to arthritis caused by the conditions he was exposed to in Alaska. Lloyd eventually became well enough to resume farming. My father had to seek other ground to farm and do custom combining and picking corn to pay the farm expenses and keep his family fed and clothed. Jake Zacharias was looking for someone to farm seventy-nine acres he was living on. This farm was about four and one half miles north of our farm and located near the Beaver Pond School on the southeast corner of McFeely-Petry and Cocran Roads. Jake and my father came to terms and we farmed this farm for a number of years. Jake and his brother William "Willie" Zacharias owned a number of farms in the area and my father had the job of custom combining and corn picking on some of the other Zacharias farms.

MY THIRD RESIDENCE

Sept. 12, 1942, my father purchased an eighty acre farm on the south side of the Rossburg -Lightsville Road located about one half mile west of Rossburg, Ohio. On this farm was a two story, five room home with a small root cellar under the kitchen area, a summer kitchen, a corn crib and a large barn with a lean-to shed built on the east end. This farm was purchased from Russell "Boss" Hiestand for six thousand dollars. The photo shown below to the left was probably taken about 1947 before the house was remodeled. Note my fourteen compartment martin house mounted on a catalpa pole taken from the catalpa grove on a second farm my father had purchased in 1945. Martins were plentiful back then and there were always six or seven pair that nested in this house each year. Note the grape arbor in the foreground. It had a large crop of purple concord grapes each year my mother would make into juice and jam.

This was the home I lived in for the next twelve years until I was married Oct. 2, 1954. Many improvements were made to this house over the years. A large living room was added, a basement and coal bin was dug under the house, a furnace was added, a bathroom and plumbing was added, the kitchen was remodeled, the breezeway to the summer kitchen was enclosed and the house was rewired.

Out in the barnyard two new brooder houses were built, a new hog house was built, a new henhouse was built with running water, a cement floor was added in the shed on the barn, a cement floor was poured in the stockyard and all of the outside buildings were wired for electricity. Many new fences were built around the barnyard and in the fields.

Below in the photo to the right is the same house August 26, 2000, after being remodeled a few times over the years. The old farm home is now owned by my brother Robert and occupied by his daughter Jennifer.

Notes for Rita Joan McEowen:

13 June 2000. To my sister Rita: Where have all these years gone? Yesterday we were mere tykes and our worries were few. Life was fun and games until we reached the stage of responsibility and adulthood. I don't think we are ever fully prepared for all the heartaches and responsibilities this world has to offer. Now some sixty fast years have passed and we still wonder what life is all about. We still daydream of those carefree days of growing up, but they are only dreams and those days are gone forever. Life in these later so called "golden years" is not so golden. Try to make it a point to live from day to day, smell the roses and look at all the beautiful things God created for us to enjoy. You are proud of your family, children, and grandchildren as I am mine. We can only hope in the future they find happiness and contentment in this rat race society. It is my sincere wish you will take time to reflect on some of the good times in your life and have a very happy birthday. You deserve some happiness after all these years. Love, brother Roger.

Mr. Elmer McEowen was one of eight children that were born to this household. He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters and two brothers, Flora Elizabeth McEowen, Martha Belle McEowen, Jesse Joshua McEowen and Orlanda Jay McEowen. He is survived by his wife, two children, Mr. Lowell McEowen, and Mrs. Mildred Schrader, both of Rossburg R. He received his education in the Hiestand school and he was a member of the Hiestand EUB Church. For a number of years he served on the school board of the Hiestand school. His life work was that of farming. He and his wife spent the last 33 years in the same home. On February 7, 1957 Mr. and Mrs. McEowen celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. This was a time of happiness and while the families joy fades in the sadness of this hour we can give thanks for the many happy years God gave to this faithful father and husband. Saying goodbye to our loved ones is never easy but when we can commit them safely into the hands of our gracious Heavenly Father some of the sting of death is removed. Now the laborer's task is o'er; Now the battle day is past; Now upon the farther shore, Lands the voyager at last. Father in thy gracious keeping Leave we now thy servant sleeping.

[Caption for photograph taken about 1905 of Elmer Henry McEowen driving a horse and carriage]: Grandad Elmer was really in style with his set of wheels and his beautiful horse. He was probably on his way to court Grandma Sadie. What a classy convertible to take your date for a ride in the countryside. I'm sure he was a safe driver and did not have to worry about getting any speeding tickets. No matter how hard he tried, I doubt if he ever burnt any rubber on that set of wheels. I'm sure he experienced some exhaust fumes occasionally, but they very quickly dissipated into the open air.

You were a handsome dude, Grandad, and probably caught the eye of many pretty young maidens in your courting days. I wish I could have gone back in time and spent a few days with you at this stage in your life. I'm sure it would have been an experience not soon forgotten. What a daydreamer! Some say we favored each other when we were about this same age. I take this as a very high compliment, since you were a very nice looking gentleman. Grandma Sadie used to tell me I always reminded her of "Elmer" in so many ways. Thanks for all the memories!

Grandfather Elmer was not a highly educated man, but I do believe he had more intelligence than many educated people I have been associated with over the years. He told me many times, "when you start operating way over your head financially, you will wake up some day as I did in the Great Depression." The stigma of the depression hung over him and grandmother Sadie like a dark cloud for the rest of their lives. "There will be another depression, maybe not in my lifetime, but mark my words, when a government runs in debt with everything on paper and nothing to back it up, there will be another day of reckoning in your, or your children's future. You can bet your life on it!" he would tell me. "If you can't pay cash for most of the small conveniences in life, then do without them like I have. I don't have trouble sleeping at night, like a lot of my neighbors do!" Well granddad Elmer, it hasn't happened yet in the year 1999, but the telltale signs are appearing everywhere I look. Our government is printing worthless paper money and shifting debts around as never before. Will I live to see the next one granddad, or will my children end up the unfortunate generation? Who knows for sure? You told me many times there is a Book that contains all the answers, and it would be prudent of me to take the time to understand the meaning of its words. I have not heeded your words of wisdom as yet, and there is no excuse for my behavior. I am beginning to realize, granddad, there is Someone far greater than I am, telling me how little I know about the creation of this great universe, and why man was created in His image.

[Caption for photograph of the William and Catherine McEowen children eating watermelon]: Raising watermelons and muskmelons was always a family tradition years ago. I can remember Grandpa Elmer hiding his melon patch in the corn field. He would leave a large bare spot in the best soil and here he would plant his melons. As the corn grew, the melon patch would be well hidden from everyone except grandpa. Grandpa was very serious about people staying out of his melon patch. He laid out the rules and the punishment for removing any melons before they were ripe. As I became older and started raising my own melons, I loved to go out to the patch early in the morning when the ripe watermelons were cool and covered with dew, break one open, tear out and eat large chunks until I had my fill. Just this last year I enjoyed this same experience with four beautiful watermelons raised in my garden.

When great, great grandad Henry, great grandad William, grandad Elmer and my father Lowell cleared and farmed the land in Darke County, they found many of the primitive tools that were exposed as they tilled the land. These were prized possessions, and many of my ancestors and their neighbors had large collections which they very proudly displayed on the walls in their homes. My grandfather Elmer introduced me to hunting arrowheads, spearheads, tomahawks, axeheads, grinding stones, skinning and scraping stones and the list goes on. I spent many hours walking over freshly turned soil just to find one of these treasures. They were becoming far and few between, as my ancestors and their neighbors had gleaned the greater part of these treasures from the land before my time.

Today, it is possible to find one of these Indian relics, but the huge farming equipment employed chips or breaks most of the remaining relics to the point they are worthless.

My great, great, great, great, great grandfather Daniel McEowen, who died in New Jersey in 1762, had a sorrel horse listed in his inventory worth eighteen pounds. I would venture to say he probably had a horse soon after his 1736 arrival in the U.S. The horse was used to clear the land for farming and as a mode of transportation. Farming was the occupation most of the early settlers had to employ to exist and would be a way of life for many generations to come.

My recollections of farming with horses came mostly in my earlier years watching and helping my grandfather Elmer and his neighbors, who were slow to change over to the tractor age. I do not remember much about my father's team of horses, as I was only four or five years old when he sold them and changed over to using a tractor. Grandfather kept farming with horses until the early 1940's, when he purchased a John Deere and converted over to tractor drawn equipment.

Grandfather had three horses he used for farming before he converted over to a tractor. I can only remember the names of two horses. They were Sam and Fan. Keeping horses was a never ending job and tried my grandfather's patience many times. If you were ever kicked by a horse, it was not a fond memory, as they could severely injure you. Great great grandfather Henry H. McEowen was kicked in the lower leg by a horse in the Civil War and his leg bothered him for the rest of his life.

Grooming, feeding, removing manure and keeping fresh bedding in the stalls was a seven day of the week job that never ended as long as you kept horses. Keeping shoes on the horses and keeping the harness in good repair was a challenge. Putting the harness on each horse and hitching up to the farming equipment was a chore in itself. My grandfather was a very patient and dedicated person and feeling of a wonderful time just to be alive. I start to roam over the spacious, open green fields, breathe the fresh clean air, and smell the fragrant sweet clover blossoms. The bees are busy gathering nectar for honey and pollinating at the same time to ensure next year's crop. Butterflies are abundant in numbers and beautiful colors as they flit from blossom to blossom. Birds are singing their happy little songs as they move through the fields and trees in search of food for their young. I move slowly, and keep a sharp eye for the opportunity to enjoy watching a mother bird feeding her fledglings. Soon I approach the woods. I enter the woods and see Mother Nature in all her glory. This is an experience not soon forgotten. The wild flowers of all shapes and sizes cover the woods floor as far as the eye can see. Their exotic shapes, beautiful colors and fragrant smell hold you captive as you gaze over the lush carpeted woods floor. A fox squirrel catches your attention with his scolding bark from a nearby tree. As you lift your eyes to the canopy overhead in search of this bushy tailed creature, you cannot help admiring the mighty oak, beech, ash, hickory elm and other varieties of trees in their best green dress and blossoming glory. Their large, stately trunks reflect a long healthy life, some of them over one hundred years old. The guard crow sends out his warning "caw, caw, caw" of an intruder in his domain. The wary red tailed hawk releases his eerie scream, echoing through the woods as he departs his perch high in an old oak tree. The woodpecker is nearby with his "rat-a-tat-tat" as he works on a dead limb. What beautiful sights and sounds to warm your heart and soul! As I move through the woods, I approach the creek with its glistening clear, cold running water. In the distance a groundhog stands over its den whistling a warning that danger is lurking nearby. The lush growth of wild roses, raspberries, hawthorn bushes and wild grasses adorn the steep creek banks. In the distance the deepthroated male bullfrog can be heard as he calls to his mate. A brown thrush lands near a pool of water to drink its fill and then departs as fast as it appeared. I head from the woods back toward the house. In the distance stands the old weather beaten barn. This large structure has endured over the many years of harsh weather. It has provided protection and safety for the numerous farm animals over the years. Food such as hay and grain, are stored in large quantities to keep the animals fed. There is a tobacco shed attached to the barn for the storage of the tobacco crop.

Source - Roger L. McEowen, December 10, 2000. A Different Time, A Different Setting. As I gaze at the above photo [panorama of the Elmer and Sadie McEowen farm], my mind wanders back over the years when life moved at a slower pace. The peace and tranquility of the surroundings reflect a warm

As I reach the barnyard it is humming with activity. The cattle are restless and mooing as they head for the pasture. The crowing of the proud rooster perched on the gate is a sight to behold. Nearby is a hen with a large brood of small chicks, scratching and searching the ground for food. The chicks cheep and scurry in all directions. The horses are in the stockyard. One is drinking from the livestock watering tank and the other two are rubbing against the straw stack. Soon they will be departing for the pasture. As I walk past the henhouse, several hens are cackling to announce they have laid an egg.

When I reach the house, I stand in awe of the windmill, with its large set of blades rotating in the light wind. The windmill is slowly driving the sucker rod on the pump up and down, to pump water to the livestock tank. The eccentric drive and pump squeak lightly as the blades rotate. This is beautiful music to my ears.

There are numerous fruit trees surrounding the house. Stanley plum, sour cherry, peach, apple and pear trees provide a bountiful crop of fruit each year. Flowers abound in all sizes and varieties every where you look. This is a large two story family home without plumbing, running water or electricity. The large summer kitchen and woodshed is located just behind the windmill frame. The summer kitchen has a work bench with a wooden vise and an area for storing tools. There is a brick flue and a wood burning flat top stove to heat water for washing and bathing. Large wooden tubs and a washboard are used for washing clothes. There is a kerosene incubator in one corner for hatching eggs and the eggs will soon be hatching. Many meals will be served in this kitchen before long, as wheat and oats threshing season will soon be here. The large numbers of family and neighbors helping will require a long table to serve everyone. The women cook the food in the large kitchen in the house and serve it in the summer kitchen. After the men and boys are through eating, the women will then sit down to their meal. Standing in front of this beautiful McEowen farm home and knowing the people who have and do live here makes me very proud to be a part of this great family.

As I gaze at the large dormer above the front porch, I can visualize myself waking in the early morning and feel the warm east sun shining through the window in my face. I get out of bed and look out the window at the beautiful scenery scattered over the countryside and I am ready for another wonderful day in my life. I put on my clothes and go downstairs and out to the privy. As I pick up the newspaper

Sadie was born September 28, 1887 in Darke County to Henry and Lucinda (Black) Guitner. She was the fourth child born in a family of eight children. Her four sisters were Clara May (Guitner) Myers, Minnie Ellen (Guitner) Haines, Cora Ann (Guitner) Michael, Dora Jane (Guitner) Gibbons and brothers Harry, Manuel and Daniel Guitner. Manuel and Daniel were twins. Sadie spent her entire life in Darke County, Ohio and was a farm housewife after her marriage to my grandfather Elmer McEowen until he died March 28, 1957. She then rented the farm and moved in with her children until she broke a hip and had to go to the hospital in Richmond, Wayne Co., Indiana and then to a nursing home in Richmond. Somehow she fell out of her bed and suffered a cerebral vascular accident and died within thirty minutes, according to her death certificate. Sadie died October 11, 1972 at the age of 85 years, 13 days.

I spent many happy days at grandma Sadie's house. Every time I visited we had some bread and butter or cookies. She drank sassafras tea and I had a glass of milk. Several times I spent the night with her and grandpa Elmer. She always kept a box of Kellogg's corn flakes for my breakfast the next morning. There was coffee, butter and toast, eggs, ham or bacon if you so desired. Grandma did not have a lot of visitors and looked forward to my visits. She usually had some chores I could do to make some extra spending money. Later in life, I did not spend as much time as I should have with Grandma Sadie and I regret this very much. I know she was a true believer in God, and He has provided a special place in His heavenly kingdom just for her.

Looking back in time when I was a young lad, there are many fond memories of grandmother Sadie raising her Barred Rock and Rhode Island Red cockerels and pullets in a brooder house located behind the henhouse. She was very proud of the brood of chickens she raised each year. My grandparents had a kerosene operated incubator in the summer kitchen. It held about two hundred chicken eggs. After the baby chicks were hatched, they were moved to the brooder house. The brooder house was heated with a kerosene brooder stove, which kept them warm until they had feathered out enough to keep themselves warm. When they became old enough, they were turned out in the barnyard. After the cockerels weighed three to four pounds, it was time for fried chicken. Grandma Sadie butchered her own chickens and prepared them for cooking. The chicken was always fresh and it tasted so much better than the commercially raised chicken bought from the market today. Most of the cockerels ended up on the table as fried chicken or canned for later use in chicken pot pie or chicken and noodles. For many Sunday dinners the main course was fried chicken. After the pullets reached maturity, they started laying eggs on the ground and in the brooder house. The pullets were then moved into the hen house, where they had nests provided for them to lay eggs in. Grandma sold most of the eggs she did not use for cooking and looked forward to the egg money for needed income. Sure do miss you Grandma Sadie! You were the best!

Grandmother Sadie McEowen had a cuckoo clock hanging on the wall in her livingroom similar to the one shown above in the photo to the right. Every hour the doors at the top of the clock would open and this little bird would announce the time with the proper number of "cuckoos." The little bird came out at all hours of the day and night and never ran down as long as the clock was wound. Two hanging chains were suspended on a counterweight system to wind the clock instead of using a key. By pulling up and down on these chains, the clock was rewound. Yesterday is a thing of the past, but the hands of time keep right on moving!

My Aunt Mildred McEowen Schrader, Generation No. 8. (Source: Roger L. McEowen, July 2005).

Aunt Mildred was born on Christmas Day December 25, 1919 in Allen Twp., Darke County, Ohio. She was the daughter of Elmer and Sadie McEowen. Her older brother Lowell (my father) was born August 26, 1914. They were the only children of Elmer and Sadie. Mildred was almost fifteen years old when I was born. Many times she would babysit for my father and mother when they wanted to go somewhere without their four children. She would always play games with us and read stories from books to keep us entertained. I am certain we tried her patience many times, but when we got out of line too much she would say "your father will hear about this!" We knew my father would not tolerate much nonsense and some rear ends would be smarting, so it was prudent to behave when she said so. As Mildred was growing up, she shared many of the farm chores with my grandparents and my father. She learned to cook, sew and wash clothes and accept all the other responsibilities that came with running a farm household. So called modern conveniences did not exist and everything had to be done by hand. Leisure time was a luxury and came only when the work load was caught up. Mildred attended Brown Local School about one and one half miles west of Rossburg, Ohio. She walked across the fields one mile to this school every week day when school was in session. She attended Hiestand U. B. Church every Sunday with her family and relatives. Learning to play the piano was one of her ambitions and one of many ambitions she accomplished quite well as she grew up. As I recall, one of her piano teachers was Vera Randall. Later on, when I was old enough to attend school, Vera was my teacher the first four grades of elementary school at Rossburg, Ohio. There were a number of cousins that visited her often. Florence, Doris and Beatrice McEowen were cousins and close friends. They kept in touch with each in later years by mail, as the above cousins lived out of state. Another close cousin was Christine Haines. Later in life, I had the good fortune to meet and talk to some of these cousins when they visited the family. Time flew by and Aunt Mildred left the nest and made her own way in the world. About 1939 she went to work for Ken and Mary Whittington in Ansonia, Ohio. Ken ran a huckster wagon and made scheduled stops at most of the farms around the Ansonia area. Mary and Mildred ran the store and packaged the dry goods for the huckster wagon. She would also babysit for Ken and Mary's children. There was a boyfriend by the name of Lloyd Rhynard, who lived southwest of Rossburg, Ohio. On December 7, 1941, war was declared and World War II began. Lloyd left for the service in March of 1942. Mildred moved to Dayton, Montgomery Co., Ohio and worked as an inspector in a military plant. She came home once in a while on weekends in her 1935 Ford coupe. This coupe seated three people in the cab and two people in the rumble seat in the trunk area. Aunt Mildred took all four of us kids many rides in her coupe. After the war, she came back home to the farm to live with her father and mother. The relationship with Lloyd Rhynard had come to an end by this time. The next man to come into her life was Charles Schrader. He was a neighbor who lived about one mile east on the same road as the McEowen farm. On December 25, 1946, Mildred and Charles were united in marriage at 10:30 am in the Rossburg Methodist Parsonage by the Rev. Henry Millikan. She was married on Christmas Day and her twenty-seventh birthday. Mildred and Charles set up housekeeping on the Schrader home farm of eighty acres. They raised corn, oats, wheat, soybeans, hay, turkeys and chickens. Milking cows and caring for laying hens were daily chores. Another Schrader tradition was raising strawberries for extra income. Charles also worked at Frigidaire in Dayton, Montgomery Co., Ohio, for a number of years. He later quit working in Dayton and pursued the electrical wiring trade and kept farming the eighty acres. Many times I ran the Allis-Chalmers tractor, plowing and working ground to help with the grain farming. Aunt Mildred called me at times to help feed and water the turkeys and other livestock, while Uncle Charlie was working in the fields or doing electrical wiring. Uncle Charlie was a dedicated fisherman and there were times when fishing seemed to have priority over the farming operations. Aunt Mildred was very upset a number of times when fishing came ahead of the farm chores. Charlie took me on several overnight fishing trips. They always paid me a fair wage and helped keep me in spending money. Aunt Mildred became pregnant in 1947 and June 10, 1948, gave birth to her first child. Martha Marie Schrader was born at Wayne Hospital in Greenville, Ohio with Dr. Browne in attendance. Mildred spent more time in the house and less time doing farm chores. I still found time to help as much as I could, but there were many chores to be taken care of at home. Then, May 20, 1950, a second daughter, Mary Jean Schrader was born at the Wayne Hospital in Greenville with Dr. Brown in attendance. December 23, 1951, son John Charles was born at the Greenville Hospital with Dr. Weidimeir in attendance. Aunt Mildred's work load would now keep her very busy from daylight to dark every day. Mildred, Charles and their children were members of the Rossburg Methodist Church. I have no record of when she transferred her membership from Hiestand U. B. Church to the Methodist Church. She in time became the pianist and organist at the church and was in attendance every Sunday possible. Her deep religious faith in God gave her strength to endure many hardships and pain she encountered in her lifetime. She saw that her children knew of God's teachings and became upstanding citizens in the community. Her children married and blessed her with seven grandchildren. The grandchildren loved to stay at grandmother Mildred's house. She gave them her undivided attention and moral support with the everyday problems young people encounter while growing into adulthood. Mildred was always available for advice and helped anyone in the church or community that would reach out to her. I wish my father and aunt Mildred could have resolved their differences and had a closer relationship with each other. What prompted their cool relationship is still a mystery to me. The years fly by so swiftly in this rat race society, that we never take time to stop and consider some of the really important people we have neglected. My one wish to this day is that I would have shared more time with family members instead of chasing that ever elusive pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. The love, warmth and companionship within a family is worth more than all the gold in this world. Aunt Mildred died March 25, 1995 from the effects of heart problems and a stroke. She had worked hard all her life and there comes this time in life when the body becomes totally worn out. I attended her funeral services and listened to the many people who gave her praise for being a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother and an understanding person to those who sought her help in their times of need. I am certain God had a special place reserved for her in heaven, as she was truly one of His children. Mildred is buried in the Sunset Memorial Gardens four and one half miles north of Greenville, Ohio.

In my early years I can remember my grandparents in Rossburg having their milk delivered to their door. There was always cream at the top of the milk bottle. Grandad (Pa) told me that cream was lighter than the milk and tended to always rise to the top of the bottle. He also told me about the creamery that was in the front part of his home before my time.

Pa, Ma and aunt Mary (Hathaway) Lambert ran the creamery. Milk was delivered to the creamery by some local farmers, the family bought the milk, and then processed it . to separate the cream, make cheese, cottage cheese, butter and other milk related products. The cream separator they used was similar to the one shown in the lower left photograph. This hand cranked device had a large reservoir at the top to pour the milk in. The milk flowed out the bottom of this reservoir into a piggy back container with a spout at the upper level and a spout at the lower level. This container was mounted over a hand cranked centrifuge which separated the milk from the cream. The cream being the lighter of the two, would flow out the upper spout into a container. The milk, being the heavier, would flow out the lower spout into another container. To the lower right is a photo of the five gallon can or container, sometimes used for holding the separated milk and/or cream. Pa and Ma sure had a lot of different vocations in their lifetimes!

My grandfather "Pa" Hathaway repaired clocks for many years. Most of the clocks he repaired were similar to the one shown in the above photo to the left. It was always music to my ears to listen to the different clocks chime every hour. The mechanisms to make one of these clocks run always looked rather complicated to me. Pa was very handy , with repairing complicated mechanisms, and it didn't take him long to find the problem when a clock quit running. Most of the time it took longer to order replacement parts than it did to repair the clock. Working on clocks was necessary to supplement his income. He was also very handy at repairing shoes and did this part time also.

Pa and Ma's big white house had a large picture window on each side of the front door. In Pa's retirement years, he sat next to one window in his big easy chair, with an ottoman to prop his feet on. There was a spittoon next to his chair to spit in, as he always chewed tobacco. He watched television and waved at all the people passing by. Across the room Ma sat in her rocking chair. The following was written in Pa's obituary: We'll miss that hearty welcome with a wave of his hand when we go to Pa's place. That easy old chair by the front window will be vacant, we'll miss that kind smiling face. We'll miss the good times we had with Pa but God has called and Pa in return has answered the call. He was always so kind and understanding when anyone needed a helping hand. We always went to Pa for advice for we knew Pa would understand. He didn't fail to do his best, his heart was true and tender. He worked so hard for those he loved and his kind deeds will always be remembered. And when we leave Pa's place we'll miss those good old words, "Now don't wait so long next time, hurry back." But now his life's work is over, he has crossed the great divide. And we know Pa will be happy with his loved ones on the other side. The Hathaway Family.

9. Catharine Bussard was born 08 Nov 1853 in Brown, Darke, Ohio, USA. She died 02 Jan 1924 in Allen, Darke, Ohio, USA. She was the daughter of 18. Joshua Bussard and 19. Rebecca Riegel.

Notes for Catharine Bussard:

It is not death to die, To leave this weary road And amid the brotherhood on high To be at home with God. It is not death to close The eye long dimmed by tears And wake in glorious repose To spend eternal years. Catharine Bussard, daughter of Joshua and Rebecca Bussard was born near Rossburg, Ohio Nov. 8, 1853. She was educated in the local public school and in the Ansonia High School. For several years she taught in the public schools of this community. She was converted in early life and joined the Webster Chapel M. E. Church. she was active in Sunday School and church work. In addition to her work as Sunday School teacher she was secretary Sunday School Missionary and Bible Society and made a house to house canvass of Brown Township selling and giving away Bibles. At the close of her canvass of the township there were few if any homes that were not supplied with the Bible. She was united in marriage with Wm. H. McEowen Jan. 1, 1880, and together they began providing a home for themselves and family. Their first born daughter Florence Elizabeth died in infancy. Ora J. a promising youth passed away in 1905. Martha Belle their eldest daughter, after a long illness passed triumphantly from her mortal body Dec. 1, 1913. Some years after their marriage they transferred their membership from Webster Chapel M. E. Church to the Hiestand U. B. Church, where she worshipped with her family as long as her health permitted. For years she was the honored and [??] teacher of the Woman's Bible Class of her church. As a mother she was very faithful in the moral and religious training of her children, who today "rise up and call her blessed." Twelve years ago her health began to fail. For the past ten years she has been unable to care for herself. Her patience and Christian fortitude during all her long years of suffering will never be forgotten by those whose priviledge it was to care for her. She endured her affliction sustained by faith in her Lord knowing that when her earthly house was dissolved she had a building of God, a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens. Her hope was realized Jan. 2 1924 when she joined the fellowship of the redeemed in Heaven. She lived here 70 years, 1 month, 24 days. She has gone to that land of pure delight where saints immortal reign. She is survived by her devoted husband, one daughter Orpha Idore, wife of Mr. F. T. Hiestand of Rossburg, O., four sons, Jesse Joshua of Indianapolis, Marion Co., IN., Elmer Henry, Everett Russell of Rossburg, Ohio, Vergil Thompson of Fort Wayne, Allen Co., IN., two brothers, John W. Bussard of Dayton, Montgomery Co., OHIO, and A. J. Bussard, pastor of M. E. Church, DeGraff, Ohio, ten grandchildren and many other relatives and friends. She has gone to life and not to death From darkness to life's native sky From sickness and from pain To health and immortality.

- iv. Martha Belle McEowen was born 19 Apr 1887 in Allen, Darke, Ohio, USA, died 01 Dec 1913 in Rossburg, Darke, Ohio, USA.

Notes for Martha Belle McEowen:

(Handwritten date Dec. 1, 1913). Obituary. McEowen. "Leaves have their time to fall And flowers to wither, at the north wind's breath And stars to set — but all Thou hast all season for thine own O Death"

Martha Belle, daughter of William H. and Catharine McEowen was born April 19, 1887, near Rossburg, Ohio.

She completed the Common School course of study with honor.

As a dutiful and affectionate daughter early in her teens she began to relieve her mother of as many cares and tasks as she could, and delighted herself in doing the things that made others happy. As soon as she was old enough her parents taught her the Lord's Prayer, The Commandments, The Catechism and such other spiritual truths as were necessary to produce in her a real Christian spirit that manifested itself in her preference for the pure, the noble and the true. Her faithful and efficient services in the church were expressions of her appreciation of God's love for her.

Her health began to fail about a year ago, and her hopes she had cherished of making parents sisters and brothers happy in their new home began to vanish.

She enjoyed the visits and spiritual counsels of her pastors and was baptized by the Rev. Plack the present pastor of their church.

She often requested those about her to sing the gospel songs she loved so well and her spiritual joy refreshed her.

There are no words that will describe her departure from her earthly home, enjoying the melody of "Nearer My God to Thee" and "What need I fear since Thou art near" holding her father's...

..."There fell upon...sudden gloom A shadow on those features...and thin, And softly from that...darkened room Two angels issued, where but one went in."

Her earthly life of 26 yr. 7 mo. and 12 days ended Dec. 1, 1913.

If Christian hope did not sustain us we would cry out in our despair.

"Death lies upon her like an untimely frost Upon the sweetest flower of all the field."

"Her sun has gone down while it is yet day Upon this world of mingled joy and sorrow to rise and shine forever in that land where beauty cannot fade, nor sorrow dim the eye Where true love shall not fail nor be dismayed And none shall ever die."

Her bereft parents, sister and brothers and many other relatives and friends mourn because they will "miss the touch of the vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still".

Knowing that for her to die was gain, we pause in God's sanctuary to worship and be comforted.

We will lay her body away till resurrection morn while "Faith and Hope like prophets bid By Christian garves on either side, And with assured undoubting reason Point upward, confident serene. Declaring death will conquered be, By Life and Immortality.

Funeral services were held at Hiestand Church Dec. 3 at 2 p.m.

- v. Orlando Jay McEowen was born 15 Dec 1889 in Allen, Darke, Ohio, USA, died 25 Jun 1905 in Rossburg, Darke, Ohio, USA.

Notes for Orlando Jay McEowen:

Obituary. Orlando Jay, son of William H. and Catharine McEowen was born December 15th, 1889, near Rossville, Darke Co., Ohio, and met with death, through accident Sunday June 25, 1905.

He so impressed the noble qualities of his character upon all with whom he associated that in his sudden death all who knew him have wounded and bleeding hearts.

Leaves have their time to wither and fall, Flowers have their season to fade and die, But thou, O death! hast all times for thine own.

The Christian influences of home and church were already bearing fruit in his kind and amiable disposition, and as the bud is the promise of flower and fruit, we humbly bow to this event in God's kind and unerring providence, saying in our hearts "Thy will be done", and cast our eyes longingly toward Heaven, knowing that "the time of harvest is not yet", but draweth nigh.

In his fifteen years, six months and ten days of life here on earth he won many friends, and his sudden death seals their friendship with bonds of love that death nor time can sever.

His bereft parents, four brothers, two sisters, numerous other relatives and friends have the sympathy of all who know of their sad bereavement.

We cannot comprehend the ways of providence, but we know that God makes all things work together for good to those who love Him.

The funeral services, conducted by Rev. Arthur at the Hiestand Church, was largely attended. The body was laid to rest in the Webster Chapel cemetery, to await the Resurrection Day.

"Not now, but in the coming years It will be in the Better land, We'll read the meaning of our tears 'Tis there and then, we'll understand. We'll catch the broken thread again And finish what we here began; Heaven will mysteries explain, Up there in Heaven, we'll understand."

Ora McEowen, 15 1/2 yrs. old, son of Wm. McEowen, who resides near Rossville, was drowned last Sunday in a gravel pit on the Replogle farm, east of Lightsville.

23 September 2004. Dear Wendy: Take a close look at the enclosed county teacher's examination your great-granddad Virgil and cousin Hershel had to pass to receive their Elementary School Teacher's Certificate. How many students at the college level could tackle this exam with positive results? Whew! It would require a few weeks' prep on my part to even understand some of the questions, let alone provide accurate answers. After reading the examination, give me some feedback on your first thoughts that come to mind. Please find another binder on some closer relatives I thought might be of interest. The next installment will be the Vermont Branch which will come pony express in a couple weeks. Ha! Ha! Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen.

The Way We Were

A Chronicle of Historic Darke County

Ancestral pride is alive in Darke County

Henry Hageman McEowen was my great-great-grandfather. He was born July 21, 1823, in Warren County, Ohio. His mother died in 1830, when he was seven years old. He went to live with his uncle, Henry Hageman, who owned a sawmill near Pitsgah, Ohio.

At 19, he would learn the wagon maker's trade, and several years later he took a plane maker's apprenticeship. He moved to Darke County in 1850, and opened a wagon shop in Ithaca, Ohio.

There he met a local girl named Melissa Millette, who was born in Ithaca and became his bride Sept. 13, 1851. Over a span of 27 years, they would become the parents of 11 children.

In 1857, the family moved to Greenville, where Henry engaged in the manufacture of wagons and pumps.

It wasn't long before the United States was to engage in one of the most bloody wars that ever took place in this country.

Henry enlisted in the Union army at Greenville, Ohio, Aug. 1862. He was assigned to Company "G" 44th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. Henry saw a lot of action and was a veteran of the fighting at Strawberry Plains, Tenn. Jan. 4, 1864, he transferred to Company "G" 8th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. While fighting in the cavalry, Henry twice had his horse shot from under him at Martinsburg, W.Va.

Henry's company was captured Jan. 11, 1865, by the Rebels at Beverly, W.Va. They were sent to Libby and Pemberton prisons in Virginia. After suffering the hardships of prison life, Henry was released and mustered out at Clarksburg, W.Va., May 30, 1865.

Henry returned back home to Greenville, Ohio, and resumed his business in wagon and pump making. In 1870, he purchased a 100-acre farm on Hiestand Road. This was located in Allen Township, Darke County, Ohio, about two and one half miles northwest of Hagerman (now Rossburg) Ohio.

He engaged in farming, wagon and pump making until his health would no longer allow heavy physical labor. In 1896, at the age of 73, Henry and Melissa moved to the Village of Hagerman (Rossburg), where he would reside until his death Jan. 11, 1912, at the ripe old age of 89.

The following was written in retrospect to grandfather Henry after his death and I quote:

"Man's life unfolds, like the rose, from within. For mind is the source of it all. It is said in the holy writ: 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is.' As the seed is, so is the flower, as the spring is, so is the stream; as the tree is, so is the fruit; and as the state of man's mind is so is his life. Man is the master weaver of destiny. Out of the mind come every word, action and achievement that make up one's character and life. He who can control his thoughts can control his destiny. And his destiny will be as grand as his soul deep thoughts.

Grandfather Henry's thoughts lay along the straight and narrow path of life, he was master of his mind and his ideals were noble, pure and righteous. These were his attributes, and when the shadows fell - Shall we say we are proud - Nay, rather let us say we are glad - we rejoice in the belief that our dear departed Grandfather sleeps within the bosom of the dear Lord and Savior whom he loved and followed so well. It has been said that man is the noblest work of God, if so, he was one of God's nobleman - True to his fellow man, his country and his Creator."

Grandfather Henry: It is my sincere hope that you can look down upon me and in your humble manner, say that you are as proud of me as I am of you.

Civil War... a letter to the wife and family

By Roger L. McEowen

Of all my ancestors who served in the military, Henry Hageman McEowen stands out more than any other. He was my great-great-grandfather. During the Civil War, Henry enlisted in the Union Army as a private at Greenville, Ohio, Aug. 5, 1862, at the age of 39. He was assigned to Company "C" 44th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry.

Henry saw a lot of action and was a veteran of the fighting at Strawberry Plains, Tenn. Jan. 4, 1864, he transferred to Company "C" 8th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. While fighting in the cavalry, Henry twice had his horse shot from under him at Martinsburg, W.Va.

Henry's company was captured Jan. 11, 1865, by the Rebels at Beverly, W.Va. They were sent to Libby and Femberton prisons in Virginia. Henry was released and mustered out at Clarksburg, W.Va., May 30, 1865.

Grandfather Henry wrote many letters to his devoted wife and family during his service in the Union Army. While he was fighting on the war front, his wife, Grandmother Melissa, was fighting her own war on the home front, trying to take care of the farm, keeping the family fed, warm, healthy and clothed.

I personally have 14 copies (eight originals) of the letters he wrote home to grandmother and the family. Below is a handwritten letter Henry wrote 11 days after the April 14, 1865, assassination of President Abraham Lincoln.

I have made an attempt to transcribe his handwritten letter (periods and capitals added for ease of reading):

Weston, W.Va., April 25, 1865.

Dear Companion and family, threw the kind providence of God I am permitted to inform you that I am well at present and hope those few lines may reach you safe and find you well. I received your kind letter of the 20 last evening and was glad to hear from you all, but sad to hear of the death of John Henry Bercaw and the cold treatment of his mother to words Alexander after he has done so much for them. I hope the Lord in his mercy may soften his heart for the better world. Well, you speak of the rejoicing of the people over the victory of our army and the prospect of peace in our country. It was the same here but O soon was the joy of our hearts turned into mourning by the hand of a murderer who has filled the hearts of the people with mourning. Well the business was all stopped here to and crape hung on the doors and a funeral discourse was preached here to. The pulpit and the altar is draped in mourning. Everyone seems to realize that they have lost a friend. But Sward was not killed as we thought but is getting better the last we heard. Well the weather is cold here. It spit snow here a Sunday and there is frost here this morning. Well Sam has come back to the company and Berley is in the band. Mat is at Joe's house the last we heard and they are all well. Well our duty is life here we only com on guard once a week. We have a good shanty here but there is a talk of moving the camp on a nother road. If they dew it will give our some trouble to fix up a gain. Well I must bring my letter to a close so good bye for this time. Yours truly, H. H. McEowen

Henry's father was Alexander McEowen (1778-1863). According to biographical sketches in "W.H. Beers History of Darke County 1880," Alexander was one of the patriots of the war of 1812, and was also one of the minutemen of the Northwest Territory, and as a young lad, served as a wagon boy for Gen. "Mad" Anthony Wayne. His father, Hugh McEowen of Somerset Co., N. J., was a member of Gen. George Washington's Revolutionary Army and had died c 1793.

Henry Hageman McEowen

A fork in the roadways

By Bill Booker

You wouldn't recognize this scene today because it has undergone radical alterations, especially quite recently. It's the original intersection of U.S. 36 and Ohio 571 at Greenville's eastern edge. Note the filling station with service bays on both sides and also the now vintage automobile chugging along from the direction of Piqua and Covington. It would certainly appear that 571 was not paved at the time this fine photograph was snapped. Ownership of the station varied from time to time, but today it would be perched squarely on the U.S. 127 bypass. In 2006, the intersection is a "T" formation with no passing allowed and traffic control signals now in place.

McEowen & family-1901

What a proud day this must have been for great, great grandfather Henry H. and great, great grandmother Melissa McEowen. Eight of their eleven children would live to celebrate this golden wedding anniversary. Twentyeight grandchildren were also present for this grand occasion as well as a few guests. There are no longer any of these people alive today, but there are many descendants who are proud to carry on the family name of McEowen. The clan is still alive and thriving great, great grandad Henry and I know you would be proud of all your descendants.

Ancestors of Roger Lowell McEowen

Generation 5 (con't)

Camp Clark, Springfield, Clark Co., Ohio, in October, 1861. On the 14th, it moved via Cincinnati to West Virginia, and Company G, Capt. John M. Newkirk, were soon in active service on picket and on detail. After several expeditions, the regiment built winter quarters, provided comfortable shelter, drilled daily, and so passed five months. On May 1, 1862, the command moved up to Gauley Bridge, and was brigaded with the Thirty-sixth and Forty-seventh, under Col. Crook. The brigade moved to Lewisburg, and from there the Forty-fourth and another regiment advanced to Dublin Station, on the railroad, destroying part of the track. Returning to Lewisburg, the brigade was attacked May 23, and turning upon the enemy routed them, captured three guns, many prisoners, and had the rebel dead to bury, their wounded to care for. They fell back to Meadow Bluff, and threw up works, and, August 15, set off toward the Kanawha. It was learned that a heavy body of the enemy was moving against the brigade, which had two regiments on each bank of the river. On September 9, the Forty-fourth and its associate regiment, being assailed, fell back on Gauley, and having made a stand to secure safety of the train, began their retreat. The Forty-fourth marched in the rear a day and the greater part of the night, and covered the retreat to Charleston, where the persistent foe again attacked on the 13th. The Union soldiers, greatly outnumbered, disputed the ground firmly, and finally crossing an affluent of the Kanawha, cut down the suspension bridge and cut off the pursuit. The regiment was now sent to Kentucky, and encamped for some time at Covington. Moving to Lexington, it was placed in the second Brigade, Second Division, of the Army of Kentucky, under Gen. Granger, and took part in various scouts and marches until December 20, when, moving to Frankfort, it was there mounted and thence saw constant duty, advancing, retreating and skirmishing, and almost living in the saddle. The regiment dismounted, accompanied Burnside on his advance into Tennessee, and shared in the rigors of the campaign; working in fortifications at Knoxville, and occupying the wet ditches day and night. The enemy were pursued eastward, and returning, then men went into camp at Strawberry Plains. January 1, it was proposed that the command re-enlist, under promise that the men would be armed and mounted as cavalry. Within four days, 550 of 600 men had accepted the proposal. Their arrival at home was an occasion of enthusiastic and joyous greeting. On March 28, 1864, the veterans with numerous recruits were organized at Camp Dennison, as the Eighth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. Delayed in the receipt of arms and accouterments, six companies, not mounted, were ordered to West Virginia on April 26, and on May 8 the rest of the regiment was ordered to Cincinnati, to be transported to Charleston. Early on the 10th, without saddles or bridles, the men, each leading two or three horses, set out for the city, which was reached in a heavy rain, but by dark they had embarked and were on their way. At Charleston, they were supplied with carbines and saddles, and, on the last of May, sent to Lewisburg over a familiar road. They were assigned to Gen. Duffie's brigade, and started with Averill on the raid to Lynchburg. On the night of the third day, camp was made in Warm Springs Valley. At Staunton, a junction was made with Hunter's command. A futile attempt was made to surprise the rebels at Buckhannon, where the Eighth remained till the 15th, when it crossed the ridge toward Lynchburg. Two companies skirmished with the enemy near Otter Creek Bridge, and, at noon next day, the enemy was met in force. The ground was disputed with uncertain result, and the rebels were forming for a charge, when infantry came up and secured the position. The night brought aid to the enemy, and by dark next day the Union army was retreating rapidly, followed closely by the rebels. At Liberty, the Eighth was ordered to reenforce the rear guard, and in an action with a far superior force, lost seventy-one in killed, wounded and prisoners. Subsequently, the enemy having attacked and partially despoiled the train of artillery, the Eighth dismounted and recovered the guns. They retired to White Sulphur Springs, where the regiment was divided - the Colonel proceeding with the footmen to Charleston, while the mounted men, under the Lieutenant Colonel, went to Beverly. A march of 600 miles, occupying thirty-three days, brought the mounted men temporary rest. Twice ordered to the Shenandoah, they each time returned, under counter orders, to Beverly. Four companies - A, C, H and K - were captured in August. On the morning of October 29, a body of rebels rode into camp, just as the men were falling in for roll-call. As the shots were heard at the picket line, the men formed, carbine in hand, behind the horse racks, and held the enemy temporarily in check. A hand-to-hand fight occurred, the men battling singly and in groups, and, in some cases, without weapons. Finally the rebels were routed, with a loss of seventeen killed, twenty-seven wounded, and ninety-two prisoners, while the Eighth lost eight killed, twenty-five wounded and thirteen prisoners. Scouting and skirmishing kept the men busily employed till December 1, when Col. Moore rejoined the regiment with his force. They had been in the cavalry charge at Winchester, had fought at Fisher's

Hill, barely escaped capture at Cedar Creek, and followed Early on his retreat. Things put on a new aspect at this time. Five companies were well mounted, and four of these were ordered to Philippi, and 300 men of the Thirty-fourth came to replace them. On January 11, 1865, about 3 a.m., the camp was surprised; a few escaped, twenty-five were killed and wounded, most were captured. In seven days, they were hurried 163 miles, wading through streams, traveling through snow, and half starved. At Staunton, seventy men were placed in each of a train of stock cars and conveyed to Richmond. They suffered much in Libby and Pemberton till paroled, February 15. Some returned to Clarksburg, and some were mustered out as prisoners of war in June, and in August the regiment was mustered out at Clarksburg, VA, and was paid off and discharged at Camp Dennison, Ohio.

Forty-fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. This regiment rendezvoused at the Fair Grounds near Springfield, Clark Co., OHio, during the summer and autumn of 1861; and on the 14th of October, being fully organized, it moved, via Cincinnati, to Camp Piatt, West Virginia. On the morning of the 19th, having reached its destination, the regiment disembarked and pitched its tents for the first time on disputed ground. Two weeks after its arrival, five companies were ordered to Gauley Bridge, and assisted in driving Floyd from his camp, and engaged in all the skirmishes during his retreat. Before their return two hundred men from the regiment crossed the Kanawha, marched to Platona, captured the place, and moved on against Colonel Jenkins at Logan C. H., but the Colonel decamped before their arrival. After being absent six days they returned, bringing in seven prisoners, some horses, and one hundred head of cattle. After these expeditions the command remained in camp for five months, quietly drilling. Winter-quarters were built and the men were comfortably sheltered. During the month of November Captain John M. Bell, of company K, with an Orderly-Sergeant and six men, were drowned while crossing the river in a skiff to relieve the picket on the opposite side. This sad accident cast a gloom over the whole regiment, and it was felt that a serious loss had been sustained. During the winter the officers of the regiment were ordered before an examining board, and to the credit of the regiment, the great majority of them passed. During the latter part of the winter companies A, B, and K were stationed on the opposite side of the river from Camp Piatt, for the better security of the camp. On the 1st of May, 1862, the regiment moved up the river to Gauley Bridge, and was brigaded with the Thirty-Sixth and Forty-Seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry, under Colonel George Crook. The brigade moved to Lewisburg, and from there the Forty-Fourth and another regiment penetrated as far as Dublin Depot, on the Jackson River Railroad, and destroyed a portion of the track. Hearing that a large force of Rebels were endeavoring to intercept their retreat, the two regiments withdrew to Lewisburg, where the enemy appeared on the 23d of May, and was not only repulsed, but routed, leaving most of their dead and wounded to fall into the hands of our troops, together with three pieces of artillery and many prisoners. The forces occupied the place for a short time after the fight, and then fell back to Meadow Bluffs, where they encamped until the middle of August, engaged in fortifying, scouting and drilling. On the 15th of August the regiment took up the line of march toward the Kanawha, halting a week at Camp Ewing, and then falling back to Camp Tompkins. A force of six thousand Rebels was advancing against the four regiments in the valley; and, on the 9th of September, the two regiments on the right bank (the Forty-Fourth and another one) were attacked, and fell back on Gauley, where a stand was made until the teams could be removed from danger, when the retreat began in earnest. The Forty-Fourth marched in the rear all day and almost all night, covering the retreating column until it reached Camp Piatt, where it was allowed a short respite. The National forces fell back upon Charleston, and on the 13th the Rebels made the attack, and were firmly met. Superior numbers finally forced the National lines back, but every inch of ground was hotly contested. Our forces withdrew across a deep tributary of the Kanawha, and, with a few blows of an ax, severed the hawsers that held the suspension bridge, and it fell with a crash into the stream. The retreat now continued in safety to Racine, on the Ohio River, and from that place the troops were taken by steamer to Point Pleasant. Transportation was procured, and they were sent forward to Kentucky.

Copy of Francis M. Kline's affidavit: I have been well and personally acquainted with Henry H. McEowen for thirty-four years, for eight years immediately subsequent to the war. I lived close neighbor to him and worked with him and for him on his brothers farm for about five years of that time and I have known him to frequently complain of his right leg. He claiming it was affected with erysipelas and burned and smarted so that he could hardly work at all. I know that sometimes he was not able to stand on his leg at work on the farm, and he would work at home at the wagon making trade, and sometimes when I would be there while he was at work he would have to sit down to work on the account of the disease of his leg. At one time I was cut by accident, and became crippled in one of my legs. He said to me you and I will have to go to the hospital both being crippled in our legs. I know that he has been affected with this disability every since the war and up to the present time and with old age completely disabled. When did you first see the claimant after he returned from the army and how did you fix the date? Answer. When he first came home from the army in the fall of sixty-five of what disability did he complain and how was he affected? Answer. Erysipelas in his right leg it burned and smarted and also complained of the piles. How frequently have to seen him since your first acquaintance? Answer. Very frequently. If he has costumed to refer with such disability please describe the symptoms which were present to you and state to what extent he has been disabled from manual labor during each year? Answer. About half over his time by the smarting of his right leg and other disabilities. My means of knowing the facts over the case are there. I worked on the same farm with him for eight years after the war daily since then I have seen him frequently yearly until of late years not so often as his age will not permit it. Statement of F. M. Kline in his own handwriting.

Daw Folkerth Statement. That he has known the said Henry H. McEowen personally for about 40 years. That affiant and the said Henry H. McEowen are both members of company G 44 Regt. Ohio infantry in the war of the rebellion. That we served as mounted infantry from Jan. 1 1863 until Aug. 1 1863. When we were dismounted that the said Henry H. McEowen's affiant and these said Company started as foot soldiers on a march from Danville Kentucky on the 17 of Aug. 1863 to Knoxville Tenn. and arrived at the latter place Sept. 5 1863 having marched continuously almost this entire time that to affiant's personal knowledge the said Henry H. McEowen had good health and stood duty as soldiers well prior to said 17 day of Aug. 1863. But the oppressive heat forced marches and exposures during said march to Knoxville was too much for the said McEowen that his health was impaired that he was unable to do duty as a soldier after said march. That shortly after our company reached Knoxville our company and regiment was sent back to come by land to cut off a detachment of rebels that the said Henry H. McEowen could not march with us on the expedition on account of bad health and was sent to the hospital that to affiant's personal knowledge the health of the said Henry H. McEowen was permanently impaired since the said 5 day of September 1863 and he often heard the said McEowen complain of erysipelas. Affiant further says he knows personally that the hearing of the said Henry H. McEowen was good up to the said start from Danville, that he has known him continuously since the close of the war, that his general health is very bad, his hearing is very poor and he is totally unable to labor physically on account of his poor health.

Daniel Erisman. I knew Henry H. McEowen to be a hearty man up to time we left Danville Kentucky on the 17th day of August in 1863 I knew Henry H. McEowen to be excused from duty on account of erysipelas. Our regiment was ordered to Cumberland gap Henry H. McEowen was not able to go on the march from Danville Kentucky to Knoxville Tennessee was too much for him we had to carry 5 day rations 2 pair of blankets 1 suit of clothes and 60 rounds of ammunition from this exposure he got erysipelas. Knew the said Henry H. McEowen to get kicked by a horse in May 1864 at Charleston West Virginia we were getting ready to go on a raid to Lynchburg Virginia east of ? 1864 and he could not go on account of the kick from the horse. I heard him frequently complain after he was kicked until we were mustered out of service I would further say that the said Henry H. McEowen's hearing was good up to the time of Cedar Creek battle I was not there but heard the said Henry H. McEowen complain of his hearing after that. It was on account of heavy canons being shot off close by him. I further say that I have seen the said Henry H. McEowen since the war complaining of erysipelas and where he was kicked and of his hearing and would further say that he is now 76 years old and is totally disabled for manual labor of any kind.

Statement. Wm. Shields aged 53 years. A resident of Greenville says that he was a member of same Co. and Regt. was mounted infantry and on or about the first of Aug. 1863 they were dismounted and their horses taken and in a short time they were on a march to Knoxville Tenn. arriving there about 2 Sept. 1863 and soon after they were the regt with other troops went from Knoxville to Cumberland Gap but claimant in this case was not able to go on that march on account of being disabled by erysipelas in his right leg caused by as affiant believes they heavy march from Kentucky to Knoxville Tenn. Claimant was in hospital at Knox with said Erysipelas and the fatigue from heavy march to Knoxville in the spring of 1864. Claimant was kicked in his diseased leg by a horse and was disabled that he did not go on raid to lynchburg and was in the cedar creek fight supporting a battery and from the bursting of shells and the heavy cannonading his hearing was badly affected in both ears. Thursday afternoon of old age.

He was born in Turtle Creek township, Warren Co., O., on the 21st day of July, 1823, and at the time of his death was nearing the ninetieth milestone of life's journey.

Mr. McEowen was one of Darke county's oldest and most highly respected pioneer citizens, having been a resident here for over sixty years. When he first removed to Darke county in 1850 he located at Ithaca where he opened a wagon shop, subsequently he removed to Allen township, where he purchased a farm of eighty acres upon which he lived for several years, and then purchased a home in Rossburg and retired from active work. During the war of the Rebellion Comrade McEowen enlisted in Company G, Forty-fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and served until the close of the war in mounted infantry and calvary forces. He was once taken prisoner and twice had his horse shot from under him at the battle of Martinsburg, VA, and was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic at the time of his demise.

He was a staunch member of the M. E. Church, having joined that denomination when but nineteen years old.

He is survived by several children, many grandchildren and great grandchildren, other relatives and a very large circle of friends.

Funeral services at Rossburg, O., Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in the large compartment mausoleum at Ansonia, where relatives have a family tomb.

No date in obituary, but a handwritten date is included—1912.

CLOSED OUT HIS ACCOUNT. As far as this world is concerned, that old veteran, H. H. McEowen, a pioneer of Darke county, died at Rossburg, Allen Township, last Thursday evening, aged ninety years. He came to this county in 1850 from Turtle Creek township, Warren county, Ohio. He applied his energy to the northern part of old Darke, and helped to develop it into a useful portion of our county. He was a farmer and one of the kind that tried to improve the conditions of farm life. He was a soldier, a member of Company "G" 44th O.V.I. He saw active service, was once taken prisoner, and at the battle of Martinsburg, Virginia, his horse was killed.

This old patriot of the Civil War carries with him the sympathy of all good citizens. He was a church member. He believed in the immortality of the soul, and that one shall be judged according to the deeds done in the body. Several children and grandchildren survive him. Funeral services were conducted last Sunday at Rossburg, Ohio, and he was buried at Ansonia, Ohio.

No date in obituary, but a handwritten date is included - 1912.

OBITUARY - MCEOWEN. Henry Hagerman McEowen, an aged and highly respected citizen of Rossburg, this county, died at his late home in that village Thursday January 11, 1912, at about 3 o'clock from paralysis and infirmities attending old age. The deceased was born in Turtle Creek township, Warren county, Ohio, July 21, 1823 where he lived until 1850 when he moved to Darke county, settling at Ithica. Later he moved to Greenville where he engaged in the manufacturing of wagons and pumps. In 1862 he enlisted in the 44th O. V. I. Co. G and went to the front. He was captured and was a prisoner of war being confined in Libby Prison for a number of weeks.

The deceased was married September the 13, 1850, to Melissa Millette, to which union were born eleven children, 3 sons and 8 daughters. Three daughters having preceded him to the beyond. He is survived by his faithful and aged wife, who is 78 years old, three sons and five daughters, twenty-nine grandchildren, six great-grandchildren, one half brother and many other relatives and friends.

Uncle Henry was a devout Christian and at the age of nineteen he became a member of the Methodist church, continuing same until death. He joined the order of Odd Fellows at Greenville years ago.

RETROSPECT. Man's life unfolds, like the rose, from within. For mind is the source of all. It is said in holy writ: "As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is." As the seed is, so the flower; as the spring is, so is the stream; as the tree is, so is the fruit; and as the state of a man's mind is so is his life. Man is the master weaver of destiny. Out of the mind come every word, action and achievement that make up on'es character and life. He who can control his thought can control his destiny. And his destiny will be as grand as his soul-deep thoughts. Uncle Henry's thoughts lay along the straight and narrow path of life, he was master of his mind and his ideals were noble, pure and righteous. These were his attributes, and when the shadows fell - shall we say we are proud - nay, rather let us say we are glad, we rejoice in the belief that our dear departed Uncle, sleeps within the bosom of the dear Lord and Savior whom he loved and followed so well. It has been said that man is the noblest work of God. If so, he was one of God's noblemen - true to his fellow man, his country and his Creator. Sleep on dear one, you have been master of your own destiny and ruler of worldly environments, your reward belongs to them of whom it is said: "Blessed are they who fall asleep in the Lord." Henry H. McEowen. There is in the life of every individual a period free from care - happy childhood days; then comes the period of labor and responsibility which falls to the lot of every individual. The years pass and man's duties are manifold and often of an onerous nature; but if his labors are wisely directled and his energies guided by sound judgement, he may again reach a stage in life in which he can enjoy rest from the cares of former years, having acquired a competence which enables him to put aside the heavier burdens that were his in the prime of life. Such has been the career of Henry Hagerman McEowen, who is now living retired in Rossville.

He was born in Turtle Creek township, Warren county, Ohio, on the 21st of July, 1823, and has therefore passed the seventy-seventh milestone on life's journey. The family is of Scotch lineage. The grandfather of our subject was a native of Scotland, and now lies buried near Trenton, New Jersey. Alexander McEowen, the father of Henry H., was born in New Jersey in 1778, served as a wagon boy in General Wayne's army, and died near Greenville, Ohio, in 1864. He married Miss Ollie Hagerman, also a native of New Jersey, the marriage taking place about 1813. The father had been previously married, and by the first union had two daughters and one son — Eliza, Mary and Ord. After the death of his first wife the father married Miss Hagerman, and they became the parents of seven children, as follows: Alexander, who was born in 1810, and died in 1880, leaving a widow; Harriet, who became Mrs. Atkinson and died leaving five children; Jane, who became the wife of Peter Bercaw and died in 1882, while of their family of seven children on daughter and two sons survive; Batie who died at the age of twelve years; Henry H., the next younger; Charity Ellen, who became Mrs. Reppetowe, and died in Piqua about 1850, leaving one son; and John, who died at the age of eighteen years. After the death of the mother of these children, the father was a third time married, and had one son by that union, Jacob R., who is now residing at Dawn, Darke county.

Mr. McEowen, whose name introduces this review, was bereft of a mother's care when only nine years of age. He then went to live with his uncle, Henry Hagerman, a farmer of Warren county, Ohio. At the age of nineteen he began learning the wagonmaker's trade, serving a three-years apprenticeship. He followed that pursuit as a journeyman for less than one year, and then began learning the planemaking trade, for which he served a three-years apprenticeship. In 1850 he came to Darke county and opened a wagon shop in Ithaca. Subsequently, however, he turned his attention to agricultural pursuits for seven years, residing upon a farm of eighty acres in Allen township. He then located in his village home in 1896, where he is now enjoying a well earned rest. His has been an energetic and industrious life, and his indefatigable efforts have brought to him a comfortable competence.

On the 13th of September, 1851, Mr. McEowen was united in marriage to Miss Melissa Millette, who was born in Ithaca in 1834, a daughter of John and Sybil Millette. Their marriage was blessed with eleven children, three sons and eight daughters, and they lost one daughter in infancy. Florence Emily, the eldest child, was born September 28, 1852, and is now the widow of Ezra Heistand, by whom she had four children, of whom three are living. John, a farmer in Greenville township, is married and has two sons. William Henry, a resident farmer of Allen township, had eight children, of whom five sons and two daughters are yet living. Ollie died at the age of nineteen years. Sarah Ann is the wife of Tobias Heistand, and has ten children. Jennie is the wife of Jacob Replogle. Nellie May, who was a pianist and music teacher, died at the age of twenty-eight years. Charles W. engaged in the operation of the home farm of eighty acres, where he lives with his wife and two sons. Lillie Pearl is the wife of William Howard, of Greenville township, and has only one son. Mattie is the wife of Richard Kineson, of West Alexandria, and has two children.

During the civil war Mr. McEowen loyally responded to his country's call for aid, enlisting on the 5th of August, 1862, at Greenville as a member of Company G, Forty-fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. He served until the close of the war in mounted infantry and cavalry forces, was once taken prisoner and twice his horse was shot from under him, at Martinsburg. He was incarcerated one month at Richmond, Wayne Co., IN the Pemberton building, and then released. Always found at his post, he faithfully defended the old flag and stood by the Union cause until its supremacy was established. He now holds membership in the Grand Army of the Republic, and finds much pleasure in recalling memories of tented fields in the midst of his old army comrades. In politics he is a Republican, but has never been an aspirant for office. At the age of nineteen years he joined the Methodist Episcopal church, and has since been one of its consistent representatives. He has served as a class leader, and he has always endeavored to mold his life after the teachings of the denomination with which he is connected. His has been a useful and honorable career, such as commands the respect and confidence of all.

Mrs. Malissa McEowen, 91, a pioneer lady of Darke County, and one of the best beloved Christian mothers of that vicinity, died Sunday night at midnight at her home in the village of Rossburg. Her death was due to the infirmities of old age.

Great, great grandfather Henry Hageman McEowen was born July 21, 1823 in Warren County near Lebanon, Ohio and died in Rossburg, Ohio January 11, 1912. His wife Melissa Millette was born January 15, 1834 near Ithaca, Ohio and died in Jackson Township, Darke County, Ohio January 8, 1928. They were married September 13, 1851 by Justice of the Peace J. B. Campbell. They were the parents of eleven children as follows: Florence Emily, John Alexander, William Henry, Aladay Ann, Sarah Ann, Ida Jane, Nellie May, Charles William, Cora Serena, Lilly Pearl and Martha Elizabeth.

Great, great grandfather Henry's mother died when he was seven years of age. He went to live with his uncle Henry Hageman who farmed and owned a saw mill near Mason, O. At nineteen years old he learned the wagon maker's trade, and several years later he took a plane maker's apprenticeship. He moved to Darke County in 1850 and opened a wagon shop in Ithaca, Ohio. There he met a local girl named Melissa Millette, who was born in Ithaca and was soon to become his bride. Later they moved to Greenville, Ohio where he engaged in the manufacture of wagons and pumps.

It wasn't long before the United States was to engage in one of the most bloody wars that ever took place in this country. Henry Hageman McEowen enlisted in the Union Army at Greenville, Ohio August 5, 1862. He was assigned to Company G, 44th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. Henry saw a lot of action and was a veteran of the fighting at Strawberry Plains, Tennessee. On January 4, 1864, he transferred to Company G, 8th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. While fighting in the cavalry Henry twice had his horse shot from under him at Martinsburg, West Virginia. Henry's company was captured January 11, 1865 by the rebels at Beverly, West Virginia. They were sent to Libby and Pemberton prisons in Virginia. After much suffering and hardship of prison life Henry was released and mustered out at Clarksburg, West Virginia May 30, 1865.

Henry returned back home to Greenville, Ohio and resumed his business in manufacturing wagons and pumps. In 1870 he purchased a 100-acre farm on Hiestand road. This was located in Allen Township, Darke County, Ohio about two and one half miles northwest of Hagerman (now Rossburg), Ohio. He engaged in farming, wagon and pump making until his health would no longer allow heavy physical labor. In 1896, at the age of seventy-three, he moved to the village of Hagerman (now Rossburg), Ohio, where he would reside until his death in 1912.

Great, great grandmother Melissa's parents were John Jr. and Sybil (Potter) Millette. They were living in Tomkins County near Ithaca, New York before moving to Darke County, Ohio. Her father named the small town where they settled "Ithaca," as he was justice of peace and postmaster at the time. Melissa was the mother of all eleven children. She outlived four daughters and one son. Daughter Aladay (Ollie) Ann was born April 11, 1860 and died May 19, 1879 at age nineteen of an abcess on the lung. Daughter Nellie May was born May 11, 1868 and died August 10, 1896 at age 28. She was a pianist and music teacher. Daughter Cora Serena was born December 23, 1872 and died March 11, 1873 at age two months. Daughter Sarah Ann (Sadie) was born November 6, 1862 and died in 1926 at age seventy-four. Son John Alexander was born January 10, 1855 and died December 7, 1920 at age sixty-five of face cancer.

Melissa's children were all born in Darke County. She had to be a very strong person to endure all the hardships she would encounter in her lifetime. Her deep religious faith in God was indeed a blessing through many trials and tribulations. She and husband Henry were staunch members of the Methodist church for most of their lives. He became a member at the age of nineteen. During Henry's service in the Civil War (August 5, 1862 - May 30, 1865) Melissa became the head of household and had to function as a single parent during this very trying time in her life. While he was fighting the war on the battlefield she was fighting the war at home to keep her family fed, warm, healthy and clothed. After the war they fought a never-ending battle with the government trying to receive a pension for Henry's service in the war. He had become physically handicapped because of an injured leg and loss of hearing during the war. Going through the red tape to get a pension back then was slow and required an incredible amount of paperwork. When he finally did receive the pension in 1890 (25 years after the war), it would amount to ten dollars per month. Seventeen years later in 1907 it was raised to twenty dollars per month. After Henry's death in 1912, Melissa received fifty dollars per month until her death in 1928.

Henry became progressively worse in health over the years to the point he could no longer walk. Melissa cared for him until his death in 1912 at age eighty-nine. She would live sixteen more years and died in 1928 at age ninety-four. Her death certificate shows she died in Jackson Township, Darke Co., OH. This would have been at the home of her daughter Ida Jane (Jennie) Replogle.

Henry and Melissa were originally buried in the Ansonia, Ohio Mausoleum and when it became deteriorated their remains were relocated to the Webster Cemetery two miles west of Rossburg, Ohio on the south side of the Rossburg-Lightsville Road.

In my own opinion, Henry's middle name was Hageman. His mother's maiden name was Alada Hageman, who died in 1830. He went to live with his uncle Henry Hageman after her death. In three of his obituaries in 1912, his name is recorded as Henry Hagerman McEowen. Possibly this was an error, as he lived in the town of Hagerman, Ohio, named after John Hagerman, who owned the land the town was eventually built on.

[Caption from photograph of Henry and Melissa, standing with two others in front of their house at Rossville (Rossburg)]: Information passed down through the Hiestand family by Florence Emily (McEowen) Hiestand (Henry's eldest daughter) and her descendants reveal that great-great-granddad Henry was 6 feet 7 inches tall. Must be where some of the tall McEowens inherited their height.

[Caption from photograph of Henry (in wheelchair) and Melissa in front of their home at Rossburg]: Great-great grandfather Henry had become disabled and confined to a wheel chair by 1909. He would die of lobar pneumonia and the effects of a paralytic condition caused by a cerebral hemorrhage which occurred May 29, 1909. The old warrior of the Civil War was 88 years, 5 months, 19 days old. A salute to the man who fought many battles in his lifetime. Great-great grandmother Melissa died at age 93 years, 11 months, 23 days. Their home was located on the east side of State Route 118, south of an open ditch, which is now covered and runs under the Smith Chevrolet Show Building.

[Caption from photograph of Golden Wedding Anniversary at Rossburg, Ohio, 1901]: What a proud day this must have been for great, great grandfather Henry H. and great, great grandmother Melissa McEowen. Eight of their eleven children would live to celebrate this golden wedding anniversary. Twenty-eight grandchildren were also present for this grand occasion as well as a few guests. There are no longer any of these people alive today, but there are many descendants who are proud to carry on the family name of McEowen. The clan is still alive and thriving, great, great, granddad Henry and I know you would be proud of all your descendants.

This Biographical sketch from Wilson's 1914 History of Darke County, pp. 288-290. John A. McEowen. It is gratifying to the biographer to find a subject like John A. McEowen, for in his career is given the successful attempts of a man who entered upon his life work without any particular training, or inherited riches, and yet through native ability and earnest perseverance gained the goal he had in view from the beginning. His work has been directed along agricultural lines. He has not tried to accomplish the impossible, but in doing his duty each day, has become the owner of a large acreage and established himself in the confidence of the people with whom he is constantly associated. Mr. McEowen is conveniently located on the West Milton turnpike and also owns a fine property on the Jaysville road, both farms being in Greenville township.

John A. McEowen was born in Darke county, January 10, 1855, a son of Henry H. and Melissa (Millet) McEowen. Henry H. McEowen was born in Warren county, Ohio, but came to Darke county in young manhood. A mechanic by trade, he was profitably working at his trade when he responded to the call of his country and enlisted for service during the Civil war in the Forty-fourth Ohio volunteer infantry and re-enlisted in the Eighth Ohio cavalry. After a faithful service, Henry H. McEowen received his honorable discharge and returned home to engage in farming within the confines of Allen township, Darke county. A man of more than ordinary intelligence, although his educational opportunities were confined to the country schools of Warren county, he developed into one of the prominent men of Darke county, and his influence was felt during his day.

Owing to his father's superior attainments, John A. McEowen was given better advantages than many of his associates, for he not only was sent to the local rural schools, but those of Greenville. While he was attending school, he was taught to make himself useful on the farm and in this way gained a knowledge of the work which he was to follow all his life. When he was twenty-three years old, he began farming for himself, for the first three years thereafter conducting his uncle's property. Recognizing the worth and possibilities of this land, he purchased another farm of one hundred and two acres on the Jaysville road, joining his other farm, making three hundred and eighty-four acres in all, at the expiration of the three years, and has since devoted it to general farming and stock raising. His homestead comprises two hundred and twenty-five acres, while his other farm contains one hundred and thirty-five acres, and all of the land is very fertile, while the improvements are strictly modern, carrying out the latest ideas with regard to sanitation and conveniences calculated to assist in the work.

John A. McEowen married Angeline Emrick, a daughter of Henry Emrick, who came to Darke county from Preble county. Mr. and Mrs. McEowen have two sons: Hugh E., who married Edna Palmer, has two children, John and Mary; and Orville, who married Ada Hunt, has one child, Roy. Fraternally, Mr. McEowen is a Mason and finds pleasure in his connections in this direction. While not a member of any religious denomination, he is in Sympathy with the work of all churches, and gives them material assistance. Not only is he serving on the public school board, but for the last twelve years he has been acting as director of the Children's Home, and is a man of public spirit, who discharges his responsibilities ably and conscientiously.

Greenville Daily Advocate, Friday, April 17, 1998. April Bed and Breakfast Month. Inns growing part of lodging industry, by Linda Yoder, Staff Writer. Ohio Governor George V.

Ancestors of Roger Lowell McEowen

Generation 5 (con't)

Voinovich has proclaimed April as Bed & Breakfast Month in recognition of the significant contributions that bed & breakfast businesses bring to the travel and tourism industry. During April, Ohio Bed & Breakfast operators will take the opportunity to raise the awareness among Ohio residents and travelers to the number of bed & breakfast facilities around the state. Bed & Breakfast inns provide a unique lodging alternative and are a growing part of the lodging industry.

The City of Greenville is fortunate in that it has three bed & breakfasts readily available to visitors of this city. They include the Waring House, 304 W. Third St., St. Clair Bed & Breakfast, 224 E. Third St., and the Apple Blossom Inn, 5842 Ohio 571 E.

The Apple Blossom Inn, owned by Don and Marilyn Shellabarger, has a unique rural setting surrounded by fragrant apple trees. The house was built in 1918-19 as a private home, according to Roger McEowen, present-day descendant of the family who built it. It remained in the McEowen family until 1955 when it was purchased by the Riegles. Later, it was sold to Harry Randall, followed by Richard Buchy. The Shellabargers bought it from Buchy a few years ago.

McEowen, an avid genealogist, says Alexander Hugh McEowen (b. 1810) arrived in Darke County in 1844, by way of Warren County. He was a native of Somerset County, NJ.

Over the years, Alexander Hugh's farm grew to 225 acres.

Following his death in 1880, a nephew, John Alexander McEowen, became owner of the farm. John and his wife, Angeline Emrick, parented two sons, Hugh Ellsworth and Orville. It was Hugh Ellsworth who built the house for his aging parents. After his father's death in 1920, he and his wife, Edna Palmer, and their two children moved into the house to care for his mother.

The last of the McEowen owners was John A., son of Hugh Ellsworth.

A well proportioned brick home, it provides comfortable accommodations for travelers. There are two adjoining bedrooms and private bath upstairs and one bedroom with private bath downstairs. The downstairs bath was added to the back of the house and its inside walls are covered with the vines that grew outside on the original brick wall, complete with bird's nest.

Mrs. Shellabarger says her guests are expected to cook their own breakfasts.

"I do the shopping and keep fresh eggs, ham, coffee, milk, fruit and all the other favorite breakfast foods at hand," she said. "Our guests like preparing their own breakfasts. That way, they can sleep as late as they like. Guests also share the living room and dining room areas. There is a television set in the living room as well as in each bedroom."

Mrs. Shellabarger says she is booked months in advance. Currently, she is accepting bookings for the Darke County Fair. She also has repeat bookings for auto racing fans who come to attend races at Eldora.

"I have one group of 10 people who come back year after year," she says. "Our guests pay one fee, which included breakfast and snacks. We have few rules, no smoking, no alcohol and no pets."

The Apple Blossom Inn offers rate adjustments for those who book in for a week or more, she says. Sharing the house with the guests is Randy Rice, caretaker.

A cry for help in the early morning. I was awakened March ¹³31, 1941 about 3:00 a.m. by the loud screams and hard knocking on the front door by my great-great aunt Laura McEowen. "Lowell, oh Lowell!" she sobbed. "Something is very wrong with Charles, please come quick, I think he is dead!" My father Lowell got up and told aunt Laura to wait just a minute until he could get dressed and they would get in the auto and go back to her house. Her house was about one quarter of a mile west on the same road we lived on. My father and aunt Laura got in the car and rushed back to her house. Great-great Uncle Charles had died of a severe heart attack. I was going on seven years of age and this is one memory I will never forget. I never really knew Uncle Charles well and in the past couple of years I have made a concentrated effort to learn more about his life and family. I would have the opportunity later on to get to know three of his sons quite well. They were Hershel, Hilton and Stanley. His fourth son was Fred, who would die three years later in 1944 of a heart attack. Never had a chance to know Fred. In 1997 Fred's daughter Mary (McEowen) McGriff shared some photos and family information with me while I was pursuing the McEowen family genealogy. She is very knowledgeable when it comes to the McEowen family history. Charles and Laura had four sons and no daughters. Laura moved back to Greenville after Charles died. After living in Greenville a few years, she went to live with son Hershel. Great-great Uncle Charles William was a brother to my great grandfather William Henry McEowen. They owned farms close to each other in Allen Twp., Darke Co., Ohio and shared in the everyday farming operations along with family members. They had an older brother John Alexander McEowen who had the good fortune of taking over the large farming operation of an uncle Alexander Hugh McEowen. This farm was located east of Greenville, Ohio on State Route 571.

As I stood next to the old weather beaten barn on the former Charles William McEowen homestead in the fall of 1999, my thoughts go back in time. What tales of good and bad times, (back over one hundred years) would this barn be able to pass on to me if it could only talk. My memories only go back as far as 1941, when I was a lad of seven. The house was no longer standing. All that remained was a few rotting timbers scattered over the ground. The old cistern was still there and the wooden cover was becoming very fragile. The barn, granary and corncrib were still in tact and in fair condition. The fish pond was still full of water and was a thriving haven for frogs, turtles and muskrats. As I recall, there were still a few bluegills that had survived over the years. A few years later the muskrats would dig into a drain tile and only about one foot of water was all that that remained in the deep end. There were numerous pear, apple and plum trees still producing a crop each year. Raspberries vines were all over the place. There was a large woods, a small ditch running through the farm and numerous fence rows that afforded wonderful cover for small animals and game birds.

My grandfather Elmer and father Lowell helped farm the land and stored hay and grain in the buildings for a short period of time after Charles died. Charles nephew, John Hiestand and son Don Hiestand eventually took over the farming operation of this farm and Charles' other farm on Hiestand Road.

Alexander McEowen, the father of Henry H., was born in New Jersey in 1778, served as a wagon boy in General Wayne's army, and died near Greenville, Ohio, in 1864. He married Miss Ollie Hageman, also a native of New Jersey, the marriage taking place about 1813. The father had been previously married, and by the first union had two daughters and one son, Eliza, Mary and Ord. After the death of his first wife the father married Miss Hageman, and they became the parents of seven children, as follows: Alexander, who was born in 1810 and died in 1880, leaving a widow; Harriet, who became Mrs. Atkinson and died leaving five children; Jane, who became the wife of Peter Bercaw and died in 1882, while of their family of seven children one daughter and two sons survive; Batie who died at the age of twelve years; Henry H., the next younger; Charity Ellen, who became Mrs. Reppetowe, and died in Piqua about 1850, leaving one son; and John, who died at the age of eighteen years. After the death of the mother of these children, the father was a third time married, and had one son by that union, Jacob R., who is now residing at Dawn, Darke county.

ALEXANDER MCEOWEN. Grandson to the Scottish McEowens. Born in New Jersey on November 29, 1778. (One reference says 1787, but it doesn't correlate with other information.) Alexander served as a wagon boy for General "Mad" Anthony Wayne when Wayne was making his raids through the Darke County, Ohio area. He also was a patriot of the War of 1812, and a minuteman of the Northwest Territory under Wayne.

It is presumed that Alexander was still quite young when he met up with Wayne. That may have even been his reason for coming to Ohio. The General must have played a big part in Alexander's life, because it appears that the young McEowen followed him for quite some time, and must have left his family for long periods to help patriotize this part of the country.

Alexander did find time to get married 3 times and have 11 children along the way. 3 by his first wife, 7 with Alada, and then 1 more with the third wife after Alada died. S. T. McEowen is a descendant of Henry H. McEowen, one of the children of Alexander and Alada.

Alexander died on December 12, 1863. He left some strong bloodlines and a terrific family tree.

Dear Roger,

Besides being a member of the Mason Historical Society, I am also a member of the Warren County Genealogical Society and the Warren County Historical Society. The Mason Historical Society has limited research resources which I am trying to build up primarily with resources available at the other Societies. I have reviewed your query to the WCGS (first thought I had really found a lot of information for you until I realized it was your information to begin with), and have done additional work at all three societies.

About the only information which I have been able to uncover was for Curtiss Otwell McEowen and his wife Melissa Cochran, question 6. I have sent some material which may help you some but if not just discard it. It shows some of the other resources that were used.

1. Have found no record yet of land purchased by Alexander McEowen; among references, I have included the "Early Ohio Settlers, Purchasers of Land in Southwestern Ohio, 1800-1840" and a copy of the "1830 Tax Record" for Deerfield Township which does list Alexander with 1 "cattle".

2. Have found no death or burial site records for Alada Hageman McEowen. The main cemetery in Deerfield Township is Rose Hill Cemetery, which was started in 1874. There were some remains reinterred in Rose Hill from the smaller cemeteries but no McEowens included. I have checked the records of the earlier cemeteries with no luck - these include the Unity (Gilbert), Union (Dogstreet), Muddy Creek (Keltner), Fox/Cline (Kassemeyer), Corrington (Honerlaw) and Apgar. Most of the records for these cemeteries, however were put together in the 1960's, 1970's or 1980's from people recording the information from the tombstones. I have included the complete "McEowen" printout from the Rose Hill Cemetery which does give a partial answer to question 6 regarding Curtis Otwell (Otto) McEowen (McCowan) and his wife Melissa Cochran McEowen (McEwen).

3. Birth records for Henry Hagerman McEowen, b 21 July 1823 in Deerfield Twp. - still have not found any references or records yet (official records not available until 1867).

4. John H. McEowen, b 7 Feb. 1830 in Deerfield Twp.; d 14 Mar 1850 in Deerfield Twp. - still have not found any references or records yet.

5. Ballachee H. McEowen, b 2 Nov 1818, NJ, d 10 July 1830 Deerfield Twp. - still have not found any references or records yet. I looked at the Western Star Newspapers for 1830 and 1850 but could find no obituaries for the McEowens.

Additional information included are as follows: "A Genealogical Index of Miami Valley Pioneers, Ohio" by Lindsay Brien. This book lists early settlers for four counties: Montgomery, Miami, Preble and Warren - there were no "McEowen" entries for Miami County and Warren County and just the two listed for the other two counties which are not the ones you want.

You already had the 1850 census but here's a copy of our record which shows some added comments to some entries but as usual, no additional info for the McCowen's.

Also included is a copy of the 1840 Census Index; I wondered why you only included the 1830 and 1850 census listings. Hamilton, Preble and Darke counties are close by so they may have been living in one of these counties then and moved back to Warren County by the 1850 Census.

"Ohio Wills and Estates to 1850" - no McCowen, McEwen, McEowen entries for Warren County.

6. Curtiss Otwell McEowen - At least I was able to find some information for you, including the Rose Hill Cemetery (cited above) where Curtiss and his wife are buried. Also included are the 1900, 1910 and 1920 Census records for Curtis "Otto" and Melissa Cochran. If I read some of the numbers right, it looks as if this is the second marriage for Melissa and that she had two children of which only one was still living.

I did find a copy of an article in the Western Star for 20 Jan 1916 as follows:

"Man Killed by Train. C. O. McEowen, aged 54, driver for the Mason Lumber Company was struck and instantly killed by the southbound C L & N train due at Mason at 5:36 last Thursday evening. The accident occurred at the Main Street crossing. No one saw the accident, but Mr. McEowen evidently had no thought of any impending danger for the horse was also killed and the wagon was completely demolished. His body was horribly mangled. The train was in charge of Conductor Collins and Engineer Rodger Williams. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. Baldwin assisted by Rev. Thompson."

7. Henry Hagerman (Alada Hagerman McEowen's brother). References from "Around Mason, Ohio: A Story" by Rose Marie Springman. p. 17 (1828): Henry Hagerman and his wife, Rhoda Stout Hagerman, came to Deerfield Township from New Jersey with a wagon and team. It was a 21 day journey for the Hagermans and their young children. He was 30 years old and she was 23. Most of the couple's ten children were born in Deerfield Township. Hagerman built a saw mill and farmed in Section 33, south of Palmira (Mason) for the next 30 years. p. 29 (1845) In Socialville the Methodist Church congregation had erected a church for $800 on the lot purchased from Henry Hagerman for $40 on August 12, 1844. p. 45 (1857) Ralph Stout Hagerman, age 20, was the new teacher at Students Hall in the fall of the year. Hagerman, who had been born to Henry and Rhoda Hagerman nine years after they moved into the area from New Jersey, had attended the district schools and by the age of 16 had been licensed to preach... p. 47 (1859) Henry Hagerman was paid $150 for an acre of land in Section 33 by the Board of Education of Lick School on April 25. p. 49 (1861) Henry Hagerman, who had built a sawmill in the Socialville area when he first came to the township in 1828, bought another sawmill along Muddy Creek in Mason from R. H. Cunningham. Hagerman paid $1,000 for the site on East Street on January 11. He was 62 years old. One of his employees was William McVey, age 36. In a tragic accident on October 29, McVey was killed at the sawmill. Hagerman died 18 months after his purchase and his heirs sold the property and business. p. 103 (1893) On February 17 Rhoda Hagerman died at the age of 87. She was the widow of Henry Hagerman who had died 31 years before. Among her children, some of whom were born before the Hagermans came to Deerfield Township in 1828, was Rev. Ralph Stout Hagerman.

Plus an article by historian Marion Snyder in the Western Star about Hagerman's Crossing.

Do you have any references that would indicate that Alada was this Henry's sister? If so, there's quite an extensive listing for the Hagemans. Have been rambling on but don't know how much I have helped you. I can think of several other items to check out but will wait until I hear from you that at least some of this is in the right direction.

Sincerely, Chuck Griffen, Mason Historical Society, 207 W. Church Street, Mason, OH 45040.

From "History of Darke County", page 372:

THE FOURTY-FOURTH OHIO VOLUNTEER INFANTRY was organized and mustered into United States service at Camp Clark, Springfield, Clark Co., OHio, in October, 1861. On the 14th, it moved via Cincinnati to West Virginia, and Company G, Capt. John M. Newkirk, were soon in active service on picket and on detail. After several expeditions, the regiment built winter quarters, provided comfortable shelter, drilled daily, and so passed five months. On May 1, 1862, the command moved up to Gauley Bridge, and was brigaded with the Thirty-Sixth and Forty-Seventh, under Col. Crook. The brigade moved to Lewisburg, and from there the Forty-Fourth and another regiment advanced to Dublin Station, on the railroad, destroying part of the track. Returning to Lewisburg, the brigade was attacked May 23, and turning upon the enemy routed them, captured three guns, many prisoners, and had the rebel dead to bury, their wounded to care for. They fell back to Meadow Bluff, and threw up works, and, August 15, set off toward the Kanawha. It was learned that a heavy body of the enemy was moving against the brigade, which had two regiments on each bank of the river. On September 9, the Forty-fourth and its associate regiment, being assailed, fell back on Gauley, and having made a stand to secure safety of the train, began their retreat. The Forty-fourth marched in the rear a day and the greater part of the night, and covered the retreat to Charleston, where the persistent foe again attacked on the 13th. The Union soldiers, greatly outnumbered, disputed the ground firmly, and finally crossing an affluent of the Kanawha, cut down the suspension bridge and cut off the pursuit. The regiment was now sent to Kentucky; and encamped for some time at Covington. Moving to Lexington, it was placed in the Second Brigade, Second Division, of the Army of Kentucky, under Gen. Granger, and took part in various scouts and marches until December 20, when, moving to Frankfort, it was there mounted and thence saw constant duty, advancing, retreating and skirmishing, and almost living in the saddle. The regiment dismounted, accompanied Burnside on his advance into Tennessee, and shared in the rigors of the campaign; working in fortifications at Knoxville, and occupying the wet ditches day and night. The enemy were pursued eastward, and returning, the men went into camp at Strawberry Plains. January 1, it was proposed that the command re-enlist, under promise that the men would be armed and mounted as cavalry. Within four days, 550 of 600 men had accepted the proposal. Their arrival at home was an occasion of enthusiastic and joyous greeting. On March 28, 1864, the veterans with numerous recruits were organized at Camp Dennison, as the EIGHTH OHIO VOLUNTEER CAVALRY. Delayed in the receipt of arms and accouterments, six companies, not mounted, were ordered to West Virginia on April 26, and on May 8 the rest of the regiment was ordered to Cincinnati, to be transported to Charleston. Early on the 10th, without saddles or bridles, the men, each leading two or three horses, set out for the city, which was reached in a heavy rain, but by dark they had embarked and were on their way. At Charleston, they were supplied with carbines and saddles, and, the last of May, sent to Lewisburg over a familiar road. They were assigned to Gen. Duffie's brigade, and started with Averill on the raid to Lynchburg. On the night of the third day, camp was made in Warm Springs Valley. At Staunton, a junction was made with Hunter's command. A futile attempt was made to surprise the rebels at Buckhannon, where the Eighth remained till the 15th, when it crossed the ridge toward Lynchburg. Two companies skirmished with the enemy near Otter Creek Bridge, and, at noon next day, the enemy was met in force. The ground was disputed with uncertain result, and the rebels were forming for a charge, when infantry came up and secured the position. The night brought aid to the enemy, and by dark next day the Union army was retreating rapidly, followed closely by the rebels. At Liberty, the Eighth was ordered to re-enforce the rear guard, and in an action with a far superior force, lost seventy-one killed, wounded and prisoners. Subsequently, the enemy having attacked and partially despoiled the train of artillery, the Eighth dismounted and recovered the guns. They retired to White Sulphur Springs, where the regiment was divided - the Colonel proceeding with the footmen to Charleston, while the mounted men, under the Lieutenant Colonel, went to Beverly. A march of 600 miles, occupying thirty-three days, brought the mounted men temporary rest. Twice ordered to the Shenandoah, they each time returned, under counter orders, to Beverly. Four companies - A, C, H and K - were captured in August. On the morning of October 29, a body of rebels rode into camp, just as the men were falling in for roll-call. As the shots were heard at the picket line, the men formed, carbine in hand, behind the horse racks, and held the enemy temporarily in check. A hand-to-hand fight occurred, the men battling singly and in groups, and in some cases, without weapons. Finally the rebels were routed, with a loss of seventeen killed, twenty-seven wounded and ninety-two prisoners, while the Eighth lost eight killed, twenty-five wounded and thirteen prisoners.

33. Alada Hageman was born 1788 in New Jersey, USA. She died 22 Aug 1830 in Warren, Ohio, USA. She was the daughter of 66. Joseph D. Hageman and 67. Ada Ammerman.

Notes for Alada Hageman:

Wednesday September 14, 2005, The Daily Advocate (Greenville).

Ancestral pride is alive in Darke County. Henry Hageman McEowen was my great-great-grandfather. He was born July 21, 1823, in Warren County, Ohio. His mother died in 1830, when he was seven years old. He went to live with his uncle, Henry Hageman, who owned a sawmill near Pisgah, Ohio. At 19, he would learn the wagon maker's trade, and several years later he took a plane maker's apprenticeship. He moved to Darke County. In 1850, and opened a wagon shop in Ithaca, Ohio. There he met a local girl named Melissa Millette, who was born in Ithaca and became his bride Sept. 13, 1851. Over a span of 27 years, they would become the parents of 11 children. In 1857, the family moved to Greenville, where Henry engaged in the manufacture of wagons and pumps. It wasn't long before the United States was to engage in one of the most bloody wars that ever took place in this country. Henry enlisted in the Union Army at Greenville, Ohio, Aug. 5, 1862. He was assigned to Company "G" 44th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. Henry saw a lot of action and was a veteran of the fighting at Strawberry Plains, Tenn. Jan. 4, 1864, he transferred to Company "G" 8th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. While fighting in the cavalry, Henry twice had his horse shot from under him at Martinsburg, W.Va. Henry's company was captured Jan. 11, 1865, by the Rebels at Beverly, W.Va. They were sent to Libby and Pemberton prisons in Virginia. After suffering the hardships of prison life, Henry was released and mustered out at Clarksburg, W.Va., May 30, 1865. Henry returned back home to Greenville, Ohio, and resumed his business in wagon and pump making. In 1870, he purchased a 100-acre farm on Hiestand Road. This was located in Allen Township, Darke County, Ohio, about two and one half miles northwest of Hagerman (now Rossburg) Ohio.

He engaged in farming, wagon and pump making until his health would no longer allow heavy physical labor. In 1896, at the age of 73, Henry and Melissa moved to the Village of Hagerman (Rossburg); where he would reside until his death Jan. 11, 1912, at the ripe old age of 89. The following was written in retrospect to grandfather Henry after his death and I quote: "Man's life unfolds, like the rose, from within. For mind is the source of it all. It is said in the holy writ: 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is.' As the seed is, so is the flower, as the spring is, so is the stream; as the tree is, so is the fruit; and as the state of man's mind is so is his life. Man is the master weaver of destiny. Out of the mind come every word, action and achievement that make up one's character and life. He who can control his thoughts can control his destiny. And his destiny will be as grand as his soul deep thoughts.

Grandfather Henry's thoughts lay along the straight and narrow path of life, he was master of his mind and his ideals were noble, pure and righteous. These were his attributes, and when the shadows fell - Shall we say we are proud - Nay, rather let us say we are glad - we rejoice in the, belief that our dear departed Grandfather sleeps within thee. bosom of the dear Lord and Savior whom he loved and followed so well. It has been said that man is the noblest work of God, if so, he was one of God's noblemen - True to his fellow man, his country and his Creator." Grandfather Henry: It is my sincere hope that you can look down upon me and in your humble manner, say that you are as proud of me as I am of you. Roger L. McEowen; Greenville.

In Memoriam. Whereas, It has pleased our heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst by death our beloved Bro., Alexander H. McOwen, who departed this life October 10th, 1880. Bro. McOwen became a charter member of Concord Grange, 437, at its organization; at the time of his death was Chairman of the board of Trustees, during which time he proved himself to be an ardent coworker and zealous in the cause of Patrons of Husbandry; therefore, Resolved, That the Grange has lost an honored and useful member, the wife a loved companion, the community in which he lived a most worthy citizen, the church a good member. Resolved, That while we deeply mourn the loss of one who was cut off in his usefulness, we mourn not without hope. We have the assurance that he has joined the great angelic throng with his Master above, who doeth all things well. Resolved, That we deeply cherish the memory of our departed brother for his many excellent qualities of mind and heart, and that we extend our heartfelt sympathy and condolence to the heart stricken sister and relatives in their sad bereavement and sorrow. We commend them to the God, who is able to wipe the last dropping tear of sorrow from our eyes and bring us safely to that heaven where the gentle zephyrs of divine love is poured upon us, and joy will speak its rupture (sic) in hosannas of never ceasing praises.

Then it was rented to different parties for years, some of them were Mahlon King and John McClure Partners, Wash John s. Cyres Cable, Jackson and Bunkman partners, T. J. Light and Frank Jenkinson. Then the roller process come into vogue then the Burr mill was of the past. Then the mill was torn down junked in piles and sold by auction to the highest bidder. ...

Lightsville founded on $200 plat. When William H. Light first traveled up to Darke County from Clermont County in 1849 to settle a 160-acre plot of land he acquired from the government for $200, the neighbors, according to William's son John, "were few and far between." In fact, the elder Light had to first clear some land before he could build a log cabin. To get to Darke County, Light loaded up a two-horse covered wagon, John Light said. Among the early neighbors of the Lights were George Riegel, Phillip REpogle, John Grisson, John B. Anderson and John Bowers. The living was rough. "They had a tough time to make a living, with corn bread hominy and sow belly, as it was called that day. And later on when the land became more developed they raised buck wheat and had maple molasses then we feasted on cakes and lasses," he wrote in A History of Lightsville, Ohio. A man named Denmory opened the first store in Lightsville, a grocery, but it didn't last long. William Light was named Postmaster with his office being his home. The post office was on the route called The Seven Mile Prairie. It ran from Greenville to a line near Mercer County. Abe Keltner was the first mail carrier, followed by Vinton Walls. Light hired John Wherry, a Greenville engineer, to lay out Lightsville in lots to be sold, John wrote. As the town expanded, the elder Light joined with Aaron Crumrine to build a saw mill. They ran that mill until it burned in the late 1800s. Light rebuilt the mill and ran it until it burned a second time. J. Mx. Freymuth was the village blacksmith along with Lewis Dubois. A gristmill was built by Abraham Seachrist and J. McEwoen. The mill was made obsolete after several years when the roller process came into vogue, according to John Light. George Hofferbert build the wagon and paint shop and a tiles and shingle factory was built and run by Andy Weaver, F. M. Replogle and Lyness Whitney. Thomas Lytle "occupied and run a drug store," the history reads. A lengthy list of doctors servicing Lightsville was recorded. The men of medicine included Mundhenk, Chen, Ed Rhynard, Ira Landis Zetlers, Corwin, Elmer Landis, Replogle, Harry Riegel and one dentist, Dr. Matthews. Two shoe shops had a trade in Lightsville, one was run by Abe Hawkins and Tim Buckley. Late Harry Miller ran another. Ed Fowble and John Bowers were barbers, while James Barnhart was a photographer. There was a butcher shop run by Pete Haber and a general store. "One saloon was of short duration," was mentioned by Light. Lightsville was something of a livestock center. William Light purchased a set of scales and many buyers would have their stock drove to Lightsville, as many as "500 to 1000 hogs or sheep." But the advent of the automobile meant Lightsville would be passed by by the farmers. "Since the auto came to stay and the roads all find the farmers jump in their car and are off to the larger towns and are back in a jiffy and the small towns and places are of the past," Light wrote. As of 1936, when Light wrote his piece for the Directory of Darke County, Lightsville had seen 10 fires. Light was six months old when his parents packed up and moved to Mississinawa Township and founded Lightsville. "I attribute my good health, long life to moral and social living, by abstaining from all impurities. I never darkened a saloon door to take a drink, never smoked a cigarette or cigars, never chewed a dime's worth of tobacco and I don't remeber of ever swearing an oath," he said. "My parents were strictly Methodists, and I joined the Methodist church at the age of 10 years and I always aimed to be at my place in church to help advance the cause of Christ and his Kingdom," Light concluded.

Handwritten letter: Nov. 8, 1878. Mr. Wesley Millett, Ansonia, Oh.

Respected cousin I feel it my duty to drop you a few lines this morning with the sad news that your father was buried yesterday after a sickness of four days. I did not hear of his being so very bad until they came here after the coffin. I went out right away to come back that evening and tried to send a telegram to you but there was no office at your place so I could not send it. We did not get any of the children here except Dock & Jo & Elmira. I telegraphed Jo and he got here in time for the funeral, he will stay here till Monday. He will give you the particulars when you see him. Hoping this will find you all well. I remain as ever your friend and cousin. John Millett, Portland, IN. P. S. My family is all well - J.M.

Research of Roger L. McEowen.

John Jr. and Sybil (Potter) Millette were living in Tomkins County near Ithaca, New York before moving to Darke County, Ohio. [John] named the small town where they settled "Ithaca," as he was justice of the peace and postmaster at the time.

Another researcher sent Alice Allen a typed copy of a document that was supposed to have been written by this John Millett.

On the back: Memories of our Family; on the front: 1878 Aug. 24. Memories of John Millett 2nd. My father's name was John his father's name was Jonathan the son of Jonathan Millett and East India trader, had large property in that trade had large amount of real estate in New London and elsewhere in the colonies and old countries. Some years before the revolutionary war he went to the East Indies on a trading voyage as his business was, left his wife and son Jonathan in New London in CT. He did not return at his proper time. She heard from him by a vessel just from there, she made up her mind to go and see what detained him, she soon got an opportunity to go in a trading vessel. She put her son Jonathan and all the estate in the colonies into the hands of a man by the name of Steward to be handed over to Jonathan when he come of 21 years of age. About the time he was 21 the revolution broke out between the colonies and old England. Young Jonathan listed in the Army for during the war, when the war was over he made some exertion to get his property, but the old Steward supposed had squander it and the younger one new nothing about it, and it was supposed that the papers and recrods had all been removed to England when King George had declared the property of all rebels confiscated to the Crown. Everything seemed to be lost and so it remained and still is. This my father has told me. I will give the names of my father's brothers and sister. My father's name was John, [brothers] Andrew, Samuel, Daniel, Jonathan, Wm. Alexander [there is no comma between Wm and Alexander but there were a number of spaces], sisters' names Barbary, Hannah, Nancy, Anna, all married and gone to different parts. I remember the brothers and sisters, I have seen them all. John Millett 2.

SKETCH OF DAVID WARD

This sketch was narrated by Mrs. Rhoda Reed, a daughter of David and Elizabeth Ward, in 1907. The story of Margaret Swacsac, contained in it is further substantiated by a monument to her bravery, in Hoover Cemetery, southwest of Versailles, Ohio, near the graves of David Ward, nephew David Ward and wife Elizabeth Taylor Ward and their infant children.

George Ward was of Welsh descent, and a native of old Virginia. He was the father of David Ward, the subject of this sketch. His mother, Margaret Swacsac (or Swizsic) was of German descent. George had a brother, David, and both were soldiers of the Revolutionary War. David was with Wayne, who afterward became the famous Indian fighter in the Northwest and was known as "Mad Anthony Wayne". He was present at the storming of Stony Point. Wayne had secured valuable information regarding the strength of this fortress. He asked the American commander for five hundred men to undertake the capture of the fort and David was one of the first to volunteer, and the fifth to scale this supposedly imregnable position.

During the last days of his life he made his home with his nephew, David, where he died, and was buried at Hoover - then known as the Baptist Cemetery, near the mouth of Swamp Creek.

George Ward died in midlife, leaving his widow Margaret with three children: George, David and Mary. They lived in one of the border counties of Virginia. One evening Margaret took the children to the home of a neighbor, expecting to remain for the night. The man was busy making a powder horn, his wife was churning and the visitors were enjoying the hospitality of their mends, when roaming Indians came to the door. When the settler extended the hand of friendship and peace, the savage yell was given, and the marauders sought to destroy the entire party. The neighbor and his son were shot to death, the wife made a prisoner and little Mary Ward fell victim to the tomahawk. Mrs. Ward seized her two small sons and escaped with them thru a small window in a rear room, but not before David had received a wound from the tomahawk, a scar which he carried to his grave.

The three fugitives fled in terror for a distance of five miles, wading a river twice in order to evade their pursuers. The mother who saw her husband and son murdered, later made her escape from the Indians and returned to the white settlement.

Mrs. Ward, the mother of David, was a very large woman and possessed great muscular strength. About 1790 she migrated to Ohio, the "Buckeye State", then the gem of the Northwest Territory, settled on the bank of Wolf Creek, in what is now Montgomery County. Here she married Jacob Riffle, and to this union three children were born: Jacob, Solomon, and Nancy. Jacob and Solomon married sisters whose family name was Vanscoyk, and Nancy became the wife of Thomas Hathaway. Riffle, the second husband of Mrs. Ward, died in Darke Co. and was buried near Beamsville, in that county. She was again married; this time to Rev. John Wintermuth, a Baptist preacher who was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Jacksonville (now Versailles). This church stood on an elevation on the north bank of Swamp Creek on the site of what was known as the Dr. Gordon property - (at the time of this sketch). Among the additions to this church during the pastorate of Rev. Wintermuth were the Yorks, Bakers, and Holes. and according to the requirement of their faith, they were baptized in the waters of the stream nearby. The Rev. was a popular preacher and performed many of the marriage ceremonies among the early pioneers of Darke County, among them - Miss Rhoda Ward to Mr. J. C. Reed.

After the death of Rev. Wintermuth, Margaret went to live for a time with her son David Ward, but later to live with her son Solomon Riffle, near Ansonia, Ohio, where she died at the age of 90 or more. She was buried nearby, (but the grave is not known).

The son David who was born in Hardy Co., VA 9 Apr 1785, at the age of 20 years, married Elizabeth Taylor, near the present site of the Soldiers Home at Dayton, Montgomery Co., OH Elizabeth was born near Jamestown, VA, 26 Aug. 1787. Her parents emigrated to Marietta, OH, when she was quite a young woman.

The Taylor family was of English birth. Her grandfather, his brother and their families were forced to leave England because of treasonable utterances of the grandfather who was a member of the House of Lords. He became interested in the welfare of the poor and the common people. and made a speech in their interest in the House of Lords, which was objectionable to the King. They were so harassed by the emissaries of the King that they lost all their property by confiscation, except their gold which they concealed in freshly baked cakes and breads which they carried through without detection.

They had been of the wealthy class, and having lived in luxury and affluence, the hardships of pioneer life bore heavily upon them. They found it difficult to swing the ax, fell the trees and till the soil; but the new world offered no other occupation, and they were forced to do the best they could. They settled near the site of Jamestown and are supposed to be among the earliest settlers of the first colony.

The first child of David and Elizabeth was Anne, the first white child born in Madison Twp., Montgomery Co., OH. They lived in the same settlement until the seventh child, Jemima, was born. When she was but one day old, her father left on horseback for Chillicothe where the V.S. land office was located, and there entered a quarter section of land in the SW Qtr. of Sec. 17, Town 10, Range 4 E. in Wayne Twp., Darke Co., OH. Early in their marriage he had volunteered as a soldier from Montgomery County, for service in the War of 1812, but being somewhat crippled in the elbow of his right arm (the result of the tomahawk?) he was unable to handle a rifle with sufficient skill, he was made a teamster. In that capacity he hauled military supplies to Fort Meigs, passing thru the fertile lands which he later purchased. It became a fine and valuable homestead.

David and his family came to his new quarter section on Swamp Creek in 1816, among the first settlers in that community. A few others were, scattered along the creek and its tributaries, among them the Brandons, Holes, Atchinsons, Bakers, and Greens. They were scattered three to four miles apart, through deep, dense forest. There was also a small settlement on the banks of the Stillwater. They braved all the dangers and suffered the privations of pioneer life, annoyed by wolves. They would gather around the cabin door, and at times when the mother was busy making maple sugar, they would come so close to the children that she often threw fire-brands among them to frighten them away. Roaming bands of Indians were numerous, constantly begging or trying to steal anything of value. Many times she was compelled to stand at the cabin door and guard their simple belongings. Bears, wildcats and wild hogs were numerous; and game abounded everywhere. Deer and small game could be shot from the dooryard, without hunting for it. Venomous snakes were a constant menace to the settlers in their labors. The undergrowth was very dense and there was an abundance of very fine timber. Giant trees, tall and widespreading, grew almost everywhere. Beautiful specimens of oak, walnut, hickory, ash, elm, beech and sugar maples were felled for fuel and constructing the rude cabins in which these hardy men and women sought shelter for themselves and families against the inclemencies of the weather, and protection from the wild beasts.

David's selection of land was a well situated, fertile piece, and here with the help of his hard-working wife he built his house, a cabin of round logs with one room and no flooring. He began the task of clearing his land, and in a few years, out of the dense wilderness he had developed a comfortable home. He later built a large comfortable house and there he reared his large family of fifteen children. The wife, who had assisted so materially in the 'prosperity of the family, whose courage, patience and industry had inspired the husband in his struggle with the forces of the wilderness, died in 1852, and was buried in the old Baptist Cemetery, (now Hoover).

David later married a Mrs. Atwood, a widow who was the mother of four daughters. For a time they lived on the old homestead, but later moved to Covington, OH, where the second wife died. He married a third time to a Mrs. Butterfield, and lived with her in Covington, until his death November 25, 1879. He had reached the age of 94 years, 6 months and 16 days when the Grim Reaper called him from his labors. He was buried in the Baptist Cemetery, beside Elizabeth, companion of his youthful struggles. There amid familiar scenes, the land for whose conquest he had toiled and striven, gave his body sepulchre.

Dear Mrs. O'Brien: I am in receipt of your recent letter regarding research on your ancestor Hugh McEowen and more in particular, the surname of Hugh's wife, Mary. I will be very happy to carry out the research, gasoline permitting! I am especially interested in your statement (from the Darke County, Ohio History) that you Hugh was buried near Trenton, N. J. In conjunction with this, you list First Christ Church burial ground records, Trenton, N. J., as one source you have not used. Am I to assume from this that Hugh McEowen may be buried there? The genealogical Society of New Jersey has copied a vast number of the earlier burial grounds in our state, and may possibly have this one recorded, as well as several others "near Trenton" in which Hugh, and possibly his wife, Mary, are interred. A tombstone of Mary McEowen's giving her age at death, indicating her year of birth, would be very nice indeed, especially if it matched with Mary Van Neste, born circa 1744! At any rate, I have checked the "History of Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, (N. J.)" by James P. Snell (1881), which is in my personal library, and though there is a brief, but comprehensive history of Dr. Hugh McEowen on page 599, there is nothing else on those of the family. I will endeavor to check the other sources you list in the near future. As I noted in my letter to you on November 28, 1973, I charge $4.00 an hour for research, with expenses being extra (transportation, xeroxing, etc.). I will await word from you as to whether I should proceed. If so, please let me know the answer regarding the possible burial place of Hugh McEowen. Sincerely, Fred Sisser, III.

Dear Mrs. O'Brien Sr, I am the custodian of the old records of the Basking Ridge Presby. Church. The Session records of the Church have not come down to us. Good records started with 1795. We have one Trustees book which dates from 1763. The pew listing probably comes from that. We have had two surveys of the stones in our graveyard and the only McEowen names are for Catherine, wife of Dr. Hugh, d Dec. 23, 1851 in 71st year and Dr. Hugh McEowen died Nov 25, 1817 in 52nd yr. You state you are not interested in these people but the uncle of Hugh. Regret I cannot find any trace of the man you want. We have a set of cards kept by a lady, now dead, and on one card "Hugh McEowen", son of Alex and Mary Cross McEowen, married Catherine Vail. At the bottom of the card it says "Hugh McEowen born in Scotland, studied medicine in Phila. licensed Aug. 19, 1786. Settled in Millington. Had a large field and later extended from Long Hill to Basking Ridge and Mendham." I notice yesterday in the N. J. Archives First Series XX Newspaper Extracts 1756 to 1761 page 185 in a footnote the following: "Daniel McEowen came to this country from Argyleshire, Scotland with his brothers Duncan and Alexander and his sister Mary in the spring of 1736 in the same ship with Alexander Kirkpatrick and his family. The Kirkpatricks located at Mine Brook, Somerset County and the McEowens not far away in Bedminster Township in the same county. The latter were accompanied by their mother and perhaps by their father and were all young Mary being only eight years of age. Daniel married Ann Graham of Somerset County Dec. 4, 1744. He subscribed 1 pound 16 s in 1756 towards the erection of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Pluckemin. No record has been found of his appointment as Judge or Justice of the Peace. honored mother Ann McEoen and to his six children Hugh, George, Daniel, Alexander, William and Mary. It was witnessed by Petr Penier, George Remer and John Castner Jun. His brother Duncan married Jannet, daughter of Alexander Kirkpatrick. His sister Mary, born in Argyleshire, Scotland Aug 1, 1728 married David son of Alexander Kirkpatrick March 31 1748, she died at Mine Brook Nov. 2, 1795; her husband died March 19, 1814. One of their children was Andrew Kirkpatrick born Feb. 17, 1756 who was chief justice of N. J. 1803-1824. William McEowen son of Daniel was a merchant at Pluckemin during the Revolution and bought flour for the American army. He died at Pluckemin March 10, 1817 aged 61." This reference in the Archives was to explain why Daniel McEowen was appointed as an inspector for the Lottery set up to benefit the Lutheran Church in Bedminster. I have quoted this from the Archives thinking the Hugh which you seek is the son of Daniel mentioned in his will. You say you and your husband looked at old records in Pluckemin but perhaps a further search could be made having in mind the father Daniel seems to have been closely affiliated with the Lutheran Church. I hope I have been of some help to you. I phoned Mrs. Eich and she is getting your letter from a D.A.R. member who received it from our Post Office. Sincerely, (signed) Arch W. Carswell.

July 22, 1997. Columbia County Historical Society. My name is Roger Lowell McEowen and I am searching for information on McEowen family genealogy. Enclosed is various reference material showing the first McEowens settled in New Jersey. Records show that a number of the family migrated to Columbia County and some other areas of Pennsylvania. I would be very interested in any records that you could provide me copies of that relate to the McEowen family. My main interest would be wills, obituaries, statistical death and birth certificates, burial sites, biographies, census records, military records, etc. during the 1700s and 1800s. Is there any record of who founded McEwensville, Pennsylvania (on Route 180)? Enclosed please find my personal check for $10.00 to cover preliminary research fees. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen. SASE Enclosed; P. S. You may keep the reference material for your files.

Tami B. Kline, Prothonotary and Clerk of the Courts of Columbia County, Bloomsburg, PA 17815. 6 October 1997. Dear Mr. McEowen: I am writing in regard to your letter, dated 1 October 1997, requesting death certificates/death record regarding various members of your family. Please be advised, that we cannot be of any assistance to you through our office, as our death records are from the years 1893 up to 1905. Although I notice that some of the deaths occur after 1905, we will need more information to even begin to search the records for the death. May I suggest that you contact: Bonnie Farver, 713 Race Street, P O Box 489, Mifflinville, PA 18631. Her telephone number is 1-717-759-2968. Bonnie is chairperson of our local historical society. and also does family members' searches for different people. She might be able to help you sooner and quicker than we can. If you need further information or if we can be of any further assistance, please contact my office. Yours very truly, Tami B. Kline, by Barbara N. Silveti, Chief Deputy.

Muncy Historical Society and Museum of History, 40 North Main Street, Muncy, PA. 28 January 1998. Dear Roger, Our apologies for our delay in responding to your query. As a small town Historical Society we rely on a small body of volunteers to keep our Museum running and the demand on their time is great. Unfortunately, we do not have any McEwen-related information in our library or files to be of assistance. Since McEwensville is on our neighboring county, we would recommend that you make contact with the following who should be able to help. Northumberland County Hist'l Society, 1150 N. Front Street, Sunbury, PA 17801 (717) 286-4083 and Northumberland County Court House, Sunbury, PA 17801 (717) 988-4100. We had hoped that we might be able to get to their courthouse for you but those plans have been stalled by Museum needs. We are returning your $10 check for research since we are unable to provide you with relevant informatoin. Best wishes in your pursuit of ancestral information. Sincerely, Linda Poulton.

February 4, 1998. Dear Bonnie, In reference to our phone conversation of February 3, 1998, I have enclosed a notebook of McEowen family genealogy identified as the Pennsylvania Branch. I have compiled the information in various sections for ease of identifying family members and their descendants. In each of these sections you will find an inserted sheet with questions on different family members. At this point there is some question in my own mind if I have compiled this information correctly. I am hoping you will have enough documented information to verify what I have compiled or correct any areas that may be in error. Please look this information over and give me an idea if you are willing to pursue this taks and what kind of costs would be involved. I have compiled two duplicate notebooks so you will have an exact copy of what I am working with. With your previous assistance and a lot of research there is a wealth of information to work with, but more documentation is needed to complete all areas and insure accuracy. Looking forward to your response. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen. SASE Enclosed.

February 26, 1998. Attached to this letter is my personal check to cover present charges and future charges required in obtaining any other informaiton that you may provide me. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen. Also checked Orphan's courts to 1813-1850; I copied everything. Unless you want other deeds or wills copied - all I can do is look for some obits. We do have some early papers - but can't say they'll give parents' names. I couldn't find marriages for: McEowens: Ella to Flug, ? to Seifert, Frank to Ella Davis, Bessie J. to Marr.; or Davis: Mary E. to Horn, Hildred to Buck, Velma to Shoemaker. These early births before 1813 (when Col. Co. was formed from Northumberland Co. (1772) - you might want to check with Northumberland Co. Historical Society 1150 N. Dear Roger. I've still forgotten the marriage cert. for George McEwen and Nora Fox - will get that next trip. Enclosing marriage & Wm. F. McEowen and Sarah Reese. Also his obit says very little - couldn't find anything more on it. Also we copied the 1st Presbyterian Church records of 4th & Market Sts. Bloomsburg. Enty of members: 1900-1918 Book McEwan, James Edward and wife Mary Jane. Both admitted Nov. 5, 1897, dismissed Nov. 3, 1909 to Washington Presbyterian. Also McEwen, Adaline and Lizzie Palmer McEwen both admitted May 8, 1904. I'll contact Rick Megargell for Laurel Hill Cem. & see if I can get month and day for Frank C. & Carrie and get obits.

There were cards in Genealogy Card file at Bloomsburg University for: Amanda E. McEowen, Columbian Newspaper, 7/23/1875, p. 2, col. 8 for a marriage. Roll of microfilm missing. Sarah McEowen, Democrat Newspaper, 6/21/1862, marriage film missing. Wm. McQuowen, Columbian Newspaper, 7/22/1870, p. 2, col. 8, marriage, roll missing. None give spouse's name.

Apr. 24, 1998. Dear Roger. I haven't forgotten you - I've been waiting 3 wks. on Rick Magarnell - to call back about Frank & Carrie's death dates at Laurel Hill Cem. He hasn't called yet. I was hoping to get obits for you. But since our library is open now, I'm adding your book to our shelves & add them later. I've been busy - planning stages of moving our Society to Bloomsburg in June - room set - packing, etc. I had used $30 of the $60 you sent. I'll keep another $10 and return the unused $20. Holly McEwen Opperman, S 2971 Gillem Road, Baraboo, Wisconsin, 53913. 1-608-356-5850. Sept. 17, 1998. Dear Holly: It was a pleasure talking to you over the phone about the McEwen and McEowen families. I have enclosed some information about the families that resided in Pennsylvania. As you can see there is still a lot of research to be done to complete all the family information. Anything you might add or any family history (good or bad) you can furnish me would be appreciated. Looking for obituaries, old photos, etc. Enclosed is some other family info I feel would be of interest to you. Would be glad to hear from you anytime you wish to contact me. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen.

There is as of yet no documented proof that George, Daniel and William were this Daniel's children. Summer 2004.

Hugh and son Daniel 1767 are not officially documented as the proper lineage at this point in time. This is somewhat of an assumption on my part due to the info passed on to Edward McEowen from the genealogist of Salt Lake City, Salt Lake Co., Utah. Roger L. McEowen, August 2004.

[I am currently (October 2004) not sure to whom this news article refers to; I do believe it is a descendant of this Daniel, a member of the Pennsylvania branch of McEowens.] Berwick, PA Enterprise, Saturday, July 30, 1955. Marlan McKinney becomes bride of F. McQuown, Jr. A pretty July wedding took place in the First Presbyterian Church recently, when Miss Marlan McKinney, daughter of Mrs. Kisie McKinney, became the bride of Frank McQuown, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McQuown, Sr., in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. C. P. Lewis before an altar set with baskets of bridal flowers, palms and candlebra. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Ray Davenport, and Miss Jacqueline Kline, of Corning, N. Y., sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly". The bride, given in marriage by Phillip Campi, of Mocanaqua, wore a rose art gown designed with a princess bodice of French chantilly lace with an off shoulder of shirred lace. The sheer nylon yoke featured a jewel neckline. Long, fitted lace sleeves formed diamond points over the wrists. The very full lace skirt was designed with scalloped bottom, ballerina length. Her double tiered veil of French silk illusion was designed in a Cathedral length and was fashioned with a pleated lace cap trimmed with lily-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of white orchids with baby breath on a white Bible, gift from the groom. The matron of honor, Mrs. Lorraine Strong, wore a gown of daffodil with a lace princess bodice and a matching net stole. The very full net skirt featured a ballerina length. She wore matching net gauntlets, and matching pleated net hat with lily-of-the-valley trim. She carried a colonial bouquet of pompons, asters and carnations. Miss Roxann McKinney, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink net featuring a very full net ballerina length skirt. She wore net gauntlets and matching pleated net hat with lily-of-the-valley trim. She carried a contrasting colonial bouquet identical to that of the matron of honor. Misses Melanie McQuown, Barbara Hickman and Merle McQuown, bridesmaids, wore gowns similar to that of the matron of honor, but in Nile green, pink and blue. They wore matching hats and carried colonial bouquets of pompons, asters and carnations. Miss June Elaine Edwards, niece of the groom was flower girl, and ring bearer was Phillip Gray, nephew of the groom. James Strong, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man. Ushers were Robert McQuown, David, Bennett and Kenneth Allen. The bride is a graduate of Garrison Memorial High School, and is employed by the Luzerne Outerware Corporation. The groom attended Garrison Memorial High School, and served four years in the Air Force. He is employed at the ACME store. Following a reception in the church basement, and at Wee Green Inn, the couple left on a trip to Canada. They are residing in their apartment on North Main street. Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Leitz, Plymouth, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Benson and son, Chesapeake City, Md.; Mrs. Ralph Hartman, Miss Gail Hartman, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kline, Mrs. Elizabeth Kline, Corning, N. Y.; Harold Everhart, Wilkes-Barre.

"Around Mason, Ohio: A Story" by Rose Marie Springman. p. 17 (1828): Henry Hageman and his wife, Rhoda Stout Hageman, came to Deerfield Township from New Jersey with a wagon and team. It was a 21 day journey for the Hagemans and their young children. He was 30 years old and she was 23. Most of the couple's ten children were born in Deerfield Township. Hageman built a saw mill and farmed in Section 33, south of Palmira (Mason) for the next 30 years. p. 29 (1845) In Socialville the Methodist Church congregation had erected a church for $800 on the lot purchased from Henry Hageman for $40 on August 12, 1844. p. 45 (1857) Ralph Stout Hageman, age 20, was the new teacher at Students Hall in the fall of the year. Hageman, who had been born to Henry and Rhoda Hageman nine years after they moved into the area from New Jersey, had attended the district schools and by the age of 16 had been licensed to preach... p. 47 (1859) Henry Hageman was paid $150 for an acre of land in Section 33 by the Board of Education of Lick School on April 25. p. 49 (1861) Henry Hageman, who had built a sawmill in the Socialville area when he first came to the township in 1828, bought another sawmill along Muddy Creek in Mason from R. H. Cunningham. Hageman paid $1,000 for the site on East Street on January 11. He was 62 years old. One of his employees was William McVey, age 36. In a tragic accident on October 29, McVey was killed at the sawmill. Hageman died 18 months after his purchase and his heirs sold the property and business. p. 103 (1893) On February 17 Rhoda Hageman died at the age of 87. She was the widow of Henry Hageman who had died 31 years before. Among her children, some of whom were born before the Hagemans came to Deerfield Township in 1828, was Rev. Ralph Stout Hageman.

township name; the actual image should be checked again. Another reference, the 1830 Federal Population Census, Ohio, Volume 2, lists the same information as this latter record.]

Sources for the John Millet family include:

-John Millet's will dated 7 April 1831, Darke County, Ohio, presented to the Court of Common Pleas 16 May 1833. Copy in possession of Alice Allen.

-Handwritten document shared by Jim Stevens which was written by John Millet Jr., dated 24 August 1878.

-Mary Moore Millet's death date from "Master Index of White County Indiana Burials," published by White County Historical Society 1996: d. 12/7/1851, aged 69 years, 8 months, 18 days, buried in the Wilson Cemetery, Monon, White County.

-1850 Census, White Co., Indiana.

-1850 Census, Darke Co., Indiana.

The names of John Millet's two youngest daughters were not given in his will, so the "Mary" and "Wealthy" listed above are not proven descendants of John Millet, Sr. There are marriage records for both Mary and Wealthy in Darke Co., Ohio, hence our speculation on their lineage.

Research of Alice Allen.

88. David Black was born in 1770.

Notes for David Black:

Brief History of the Black Family.

On July 4, 1776, when the congress of the original thirteen colonies of the United States of America adopted the Declaration of Independence, three children, by the name of Schwarz, were living in Germany - David, Daniel, and their sister. These three immigrated to the United States in the late 1790s and were among the first pioneers in southwestern Ohio between Cincinnati and Middletown. They adopted the name "Black", which is the English version of "Schwarz" for their surname and have been known as the Black family since that time. The sister married a Mr. Bates and later moved to Illinois. No other record has been obtainable. Daniel Black is buried at Eaton, where he died in 1863. His son Thomas moved about thirty-five miles west and south of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, near Roann in 1843 where his descendants continue to live. The other two sons of Daniel (David and Uriah) moved to one of the western states and we have no other record of them. David Black, the brother of Daniel, had three children: Henry, of whom we have no other record except that he married a Miss Deem; Mary Catherine, who married Robert N. McAdams in Middletown on May 30, 1830, where her descendants continued to live; Samuel, who lived near Eaton and was buried at Lewisburg in 1840. We are writing more in detail regarding Samuel's descendants and they represent the majority of the present generation. Samuel Black had two sons by his first marriage; David, the first son, served in the war with Mexico in 1846. David divorced his first wife while living in Iowa, and returned to near Lewisburg, Preble Co., Ohio, where he is buried with his second and third wives. No record of his children who were left in Iowa. Abraham, the second son, died in 1880 near Eaton - he served in the Civil War and his descendants continue to live near Eaton. Samuel Black had three sons by his second marriage; Henry, the first son, married Rebecca Kelly (whose father immigrated from near Dublin, Ireland) at Middletown in 1853. Henry moved fourteen miles due north of Greenville in 1859 and was one of the early pioneers in that section of Darke County. He served in the Civil War. Foster, the second son, married Catherine Giler at Eaton in 1855. (Catherine's father Christian was born in Virginia in 1796 and her mother Hannah (Niccum) was born in Kentucky in 1801.) Foster worked on his farm during the Civil War and served with the Home Guards, to whom he belonged, during two raids. His descendants continue to live near Eaton. Uriah, the third son, settled near Greenville where he died in 1861. Samuel Black had a son and daughter (names unknown) by his third marriage. After Samuel's death in 1840, his widow with the son and daughter went to Utah with the Mormons under Brigham Young in 1846. En route the daughter was drowned while crossing one of the rivers. No information regarding the son. The Black family were pioneers in the state of Ohio when it was admitted as the seventeenth state of the Union in 1803, with a population of approximately 45,000. They contributed much to the settling and clearing of farms in this section of Ohio. It has been impossible to include the names of approximately one hundred grandchildren and great-grandchildren in this outline.

Notes for Daniel McEowen:

New Jersey Biographical and Genealogical Notes, William Nelson, page 165, 1910 and Pioneer Families of Northwestern New Jersey, William Armstrong, 1979.

Daniel McEowen came to this country from Argyleshire, Scotland, with his brothers Duncan and Alexander, and his sister Mary, in the spring of 1736, in the same ship with Alexander Kirkpatrick and his family. The Kirkpatricks located at Mine Brook, Somerset Co., and the McEowens not far away, in Bedminster Township, in the same county. The latter were accompanied by their mother, and perhaps by their father, and were all young, Mary being only eight years of age. Daniel married Ann Graham, of Somerset Co., Dec. 4, 1744. He subscribed L1, 16s. in 1756 towards the erection of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Pluckemin. No record has been found of his appointment as Judge or Justice of the Peace. His will, dated May 8, 1762, was proved June 15, 1762. In it he refers to his "honored mother Ann McEoen," and to his six children — Hugh, George, Daniel, Alexander, William and Mary. It was witnessed by Peter Penier, George Remer and John Castner, Jr. His brother Duncan married Jennet, daughter of Alexander Kirkpatrick. His sister Mary, born in Argyleshire, Scotland, Aug. 1, 1728, married David, son of Alexander Kirkpatrick, March 31, 1748; she died at Mine Brook, Nov. 2, 1795; her husband died March 19, 1814. One of their children was Andrew Kirkpatrick, born Feb. 17, 17567, who was a Chief Justice of New Jersey, 1803-1824. William McEowen, son of Daniel, was a merchant at Pluckemin during the Revolution, and bought flour for the American army. He died at Pluckemin, March 10, 1817, aged sixty-four years 10 days.

Somerset County Historical Quarterly. Lamington Burying-Ground Inscriptions. By Rev. John T. Scott, DD, Lamington, NJ. [Rev. Dr. John T. Scott, of Lamington, has very kindly supplied for the Quarterly, the abstracts of inscriptions in the Lamington Presbyterian Church burying-ground, which are published in part below, and will be concluded in the October number. The Lamington Church is one of the older churches in this County, having been organized perhaps in or before 1739, exact date not known. The first church edifice was erected in 1740. In 1826 a new building was put up, and in 1885 it was remodelled and removed to its present site, considerably to the east of the original site. Its pastors, in succession, have been Reverends John Rowland, James McCrea, Jeremiah Halsey (Dr. John Rodgers, of New York City, stated supply), William Boyd, Enoch Burt, Horace Galpin, Dr. William W. Blauvelt, Dr. John T. Kerr, Dr. J. Garland Hamner, Henry Merle Mellen, Lester Morris Conrow and Dr. John Thomas Scott, the present pastor. Many of these ministers were particularly noted men, and some of them great preachers. The church has also an unusual roll of distinguished sons who entered the ministry. The burying ground, which is adjacent to where the church building stood until 1885, also dates from 1740, and has in it a large number of burials of persons well-known in connection with the history of the church and the community at large, including former pastors, McCrea, Halsey, Boyd and Blauvelt; also Rev. Dr. William A. McDowell. The abstracts follow — Editor Quarterly.]

Abstracts of Inscriptions, 1740 to date. [Note by Editor. In October, 1913, these inscriptions were printed for the letters A to J. After that publication it was discovered that various errors, both as to the spelling of names, and dates, had crept in, owing to the age of many of the stones and their bad condition. It was then decided by Dr. Scott to have all the stones in this important old burial-place reset and cleaned, and new transcriptions made, and therefore, the publication was not continued in January. With painstaking effort this was done recently, and the result is greatly to the credit of the Lamington congregation and its pastor. A comparison of the new transcriptions with the complete list previously sent for publication in the Quarterly, shows that some names and dates, including those of persons in the list printed in October, have been given a revised reading, and various names which belonged in that list have been added from tombstones newly brought to light by the renovating process. Corrections and additions as to that October list will appear in another number.]

Roger L. McEowen, 448 West Russ Road, Greenville, Ohio, 45331-2458, 13 May 1998. Mr. Frederick A. Gerken, Registrar, Board of East Jersey Proprietors, P. O. Box 32, Barnegat, NJ 08005. Dear Mr. Gerken: I would like to obtain statistical photocopies of the original deeds to properties owned by McEowen family members who resided in Bernards and Bedminster Townships, State of New Jersey as follows: 1. Daniel McEowen (about 1685/?) purchased 170 acres May 29, 1744 in Bernards Township, Somerset County, according to enclosed copies of the Somerset County Historical Quarterly pages 270 and 271. Daniel sold the property to Alexander Kirkpatrick May 15, 1751. 2. Daniel McEowen (1712/1762) owned property in Bedminster Twp., Somerset Co., in 1753, according to enclosed list of freeholders on pages 88 and 89 of the Genealogical Magazine of New Jersey. Property was presumably purchased in 1740's or 1750's. 3. Hugh McEowen (1745/1793) owned 82 acres in Bernards Twp., Somerset Co. according to enclosed copies (1784, 1785, 1789, 1790, 1791 and 1793) of Bernards Twp. tax records. This is not Dr. Hugh McEowen (1765/1817) of whom I have information on. 4. William McEowen (1753/1817) purchased the "McEowen Revolutionary House" property about 1776. See enclosed reference copies of 1790 census and Somerset Co. Historical

Box 32, Barnegat, NJ 08005 (609) 698-8352. 17 May 1998. Roger L. McEowen [etc.]. Dear Mr. McEowen: In compliance with your recent request, an examination of Board indices has been made for conveyances from the Board to McEowen families - 1685-1817. This examination included, but was not limited to, Colonial Conveyances for the Provinces of East and West New Jersey (1664-1794). The result of this search did not indicate any conveyances from the Board of Proprietors directly. However, I should point out conveyances from individual to individual are not generally found in our records. It is suggested you search the Hall of Records of the appropriate county. Very truly yours, Frederick A. Gerken, Registrar.

Letter from Richard M. Stevens, Post Office Box 99, Greendell, NJ 07839, dated 10 August 1997, to Roger L. McEowen, 448 W. Russ Road, Greenville, OH 45331. 10 August 1997. Dear Mr. McEowen,

The Sussex County Historical Society, of which I am treasurer, asked me to reply to your letter of 22 July 1997 regarding the McEowen family in Sussex County.

My primary interest is mapping the early land ownership in Sussex County. As part of this project I have compiled a file of all the names encountered in the deed and associated records that I have abstracted. I have also been making computer transcripts of other mostly 19th century Sussex County records. Currently, I have abstracted most of the recorded deeds for the southeastern third of the county to 1878, somewhat more than half for the central third, and only a few for the northwestern third. I make it a policy not to do paid research work, but try to make available the current results of my research, and will do a limited amount of searching in the offices I regularly visit, so long as it does not seriously interfere with my work.

First for the negatives: I have found no deed references to either Permelia McEowen of Byram Twp. or any McEowen in Vernon Twp. I still have many more deeds to abstract for Vernon Twp., including most for the 1830-40 period, so something still may turn up there. I do not expect to find anything further for Byram.

I believe I can be much more helpful regarding some of the descendants of George McEowen (presumably your "son of Daniel".) Sussex County records are very sparse before 1800; most of the deeds were not recorded. There are no recorded deeds from or to George McEowen. However, the deed dated 2/2/1795 from Andrew Swayze to Nathaniel Reed for a 233 A. farm on what is now Pequest Road in Green Twp. (V3-19: This means Deeds Volume V3, page 19 et seq.) states that the land had been conveyed to Andrew Swayze by George McEowen. I believe this was George McEowen's homestead farm, in what was then Hardwick Twp. Two other deeds for adjoining properties refer to this farm as belonging to George McEowen (R2-141, dated 2/4/1797, and an unrecorded deed from Nathaniel Pettit to Aaron D. Woodruff dated 6/10/1792 which is at the Sussex County Historical Society.) There are also two earlier references. A Return of Survey to the West Jersey Proprietors dated 6/30/1775 (West Jersey Surveys Vol. Q, page 137) which refers to the "SE corner of land of George McEowen"; this property must have been further north, in what is now Fredon Twp. George McEowen was also one of the witnesses for a deed dated 11/1/1777 (L-479) for property in the western part of old Hardwick Twp., near Hope, Warren Co. This might tie in with your reference that George McEowen was a guardian of "William Simson and Henry Simson" in 1778, since there was a Simson family living in that general area at the end of the 18th century.

The Green Twp. Death Records (of which I am enclosing copies) indicate that "George & Elizabeth McEowen" were the parents of Henry McEowen, deceased ca. 1859, age 87 years; and that "George McEowen & wife" were the parents of Mary Hart, deceased 4/13/1867, age 95 years. These are copies of the same records that are officially held by the New Jersey State Archives in Trenton. Both Henry McEowen and Mary McEowen Hart married children of Nathaniel Hart, who had large land holdings in what is now Green Twp., just south of the "Nathaniel Reed farm" which was once owned by George McEowen. Wildrick Hart (32 Berva Drive, Bradford, PA 16701) has done extensive research on the Hart family. He is a direct descendant of William Hart and his wife Mary McEowen, and you can address any further questions regarding her descendants to him. Henry & Mary are the only children of George McEowen of which I have found record.

Ancestors of Roger Lowell McEowen

Moving to Henry McEowen of Green Twp. and Byram Twp. The earliest record I have for Henry McEowen is a deed dated 5/12/1801 (G-329) in which he purchased a 54 A. tract of land in Independence Twp. (earlier Hardwick Twp., and now Green Twp.) which lay between the Nathaniel Reed farm and Nathaniel Hart properties. This tract had no road frontage, and I doubt that Henry ever lived on it. On 3/28/1812 (Z-147) Henry purchased 64 A. in Byram Twp. This land lay along Lubbers Run, in the vicinity of what is now Lake Lackawanna. On 4/3/1816 (G2-504) he purchased an adjoining 85 A. in Byram Twp., on which I am fairly certain there was a house at the time. On 2/16/1828 (F3-268) he added another 52 A. to his Byram Twp. farm. On 4/9/1838 he exchanged a few acres of land with his Byram neighbors the Roses (W3-160, W3-244). On 6/11/1844 he conveyed his 54 A. tract in Green Twp. to his son William R. McEowen (C4-519). In all his deeds up to this time, he has always described himself as living in Green Twp., even though he was enumerated in Byram Twp. in the 1840 Census. On 9/7/1848 he added another 34 A. to his Byram Twp. holdings (H4-572), and he now identified himself as living in that township. By 3/26/1855 Azariah Davis (no known relation) was appointed guardian for Henry McEowen, a "lunatic," and sold the 164 A. farm in Byram Twp. "on which Henry McEowen now resides" (Q4-541). This completes Henry's real estate transactions. He was living in Green Twp. when he died between 5/1/1858 and 4/30/1859. I would guess that he might have been buried in Huntsville Cemetery or Tranquility Church Cemetery, but no tombstone has been reported for him.

Henry's first wife was Ruhama (aka Amy) Hart, a daughter of Nathaniel Hart, and the widow of John Boyles. They must have married sometime between 1/23/1792 (L4-416) and 8/22/1809 (T-226). On 1/23/1792 Nathaniel Hart conveyed 200 A. of land to Ruhama Boyles, "spinster" (L4-416) and on 8/22/1809 he conveyed another 20.60 A. to Amy McEowen wife of Henry McEowen (T-226). Ruhama was deceased by 2/2/1837 when John Parr and his wife Catharine conveyed the 1/7 interest of Catherine in the Estate of her mother Amy McEowen to Andrew Shiner and Jonathan D. Calvin (V3-24). Later they conveyed that interest to William R. McEowen (A4-518). I believe that this land is where Henry McEowen lived while in Green Twp.

There is no deed evidence as to when Henry married his second wife Rachel. I have also found no official record of their marriage. I believe they were married by 1840 and that she is the 40-50 year old woman living with Henry in the 1840 census. Henry seems to have been missed in the 1850 census of Byram Twp. I believe she is the Rachel McEowen living in the household of William T. Runion in Green Twp. in the 1860 Census. The decree for final distribution of Henry's estate shows she died 3/26/1886. If she died in New Jersey, there should be a death certificate in Trenton which might show her parents' names.

In 1859, after Henry's death, a suit was brought in the Sussex County Orphans Court for a division of Ruhama McEowen's estate. The records of this court are preserved in the Minutes books at the Surrogate's Office. For some reason, the petition for division was recorded twice; I have included copies of both, to give you two chances to read the rather illegible handwriting. The petition gives a good description of Ruhama's family. She has seven children listed there, but one cannot tell which are children by John Boyles and which by Henry McEowen. Reading the decree of distribution for Henry McEowen's estate and the will of William R. McEowen confirm that George McEowen (II), William R. McEowen, Phebe Dormida, and Mary Wilgus were children of Henry McEowen and Ruhama Hart. Presumably Lydia Swayze, Sarah Drake, and Catharine Parr were children of John Boyles. In the case of Sarah Drake this has been confirmed by a descendant who has been in touch with Wildrick Hart.

George McEowen (II) does not appear in any deed, and is described as deceased in the 1859 Petition for Division. I feel quite sure he is the George McEowen for whose estate Letters of Administration were issued to William R. McEowen and Joseph Reed (a Green Twp. neighbor) on 12/25/1829. I enclose a copy of that record. According to the 1859 Petition his children were George McEowen (III) and Catharine Hughes. I believe George McEowen (III) is the 26-year-old George McEowen in the household of Jonathan P. Stackhouse in the 1850 Census. The final settlement of Henry's estate indicates George

(III) was still alive. I find it very peculiar that the settlement does not mention the children of Catharine Hughes. Had they all died, or had they moved away and been conveniently forgotten? Hughes is not a family name that I have found anywhere in this part of Sussex County.

Finally we come to Henry's son William R. McEowen. I have included a copy of his will, which is most revealing. He married very late, presumably after the 1850 census, and definitely after his wife purchased a house in Newton on 11/30/1847 (G4-194) as Jane Doddy, which she sold on 1/3/1854 as Jane McEowen, widow of William R. McEowen (P4-114). In the 1850 census she is listed in Newton Twp. as a 30 year old widow with four female children between the ages of two and eight. By 2/18/1856 she has married again to Cornelius Hull (Surrogate Divisions Vol C, page 373.) Hers is a very complicated family that I do not fully understand, but since she had no children by William R. McEowen, I doubt this is of interest to you. I am including a copy of the death record for William R. McEowen on 4/30/1853.

I am not including any further information on the Dormida or Wilgus families, since I think the enclosed documents tell you everything you need to know, and perhaps all you want to know.

I trust the above and the enclosed documents will be useful for you. As I said before, I will not accept any payment. However, I would ask you to make an additional contribution to the Sussex County Historical Society as you feel proper.
Sincerely, (signed) Richard M. Stevens.

Letter from Roger L. McEowen to Richard Stevens, 9 August 1998.

Dear Mr. Stevens: In reference to my letter of 22 July 1997 and your letter of 10 August 1997 I have some questions to present to you. The questions are as follows: 1. Is there any marriage record for a George McEowen (McEwen) and Amelia Coleman in Sussex County about 1820-25? See enclosed copy of Iowa transcript of death for Cedar Co. George and Amelia Coleman are listed as the parents of GEorge McEowen, born 28 May, 1830 in NJ and died 1 July, 1915 in Iowa. I suspect the Parmelia McEowen listed on the enclosed 1830 Byram Twp. census is the Amelia Coleman mentioned above. She was a widow (presumably of George II in 1829) with one male under 5 years of age and two females under 10 years. Two other enclosed references to the above are the Colemans listed on Wildrick Hart's family chart and "Lineage and History of the Oscar L. Olson Family." If George III was born 28 May, 1830 there must be a mistake on the 1850 Sussex Co. census as it shows age 26. (Or there was another George McEowen.) 2. Is the inventory (page 132, vol. 3) of 1830 for George II who died in 1829 or possibly George I? 3. You did not mention David McEowen in your letter. He was listed on page 117 of the 1830 Sussex Co. census and the 1840 Sussex Co., Vernon Twp. census. Is there any record of David living in Sussex Co.? 4. The original George I born about 1747 (my estimated date) who had wife Elizabeth. Is there any more information to be found on these family members such as parents' names, death dates or burial sites? Wildrick Hart did not have any info on George and Elizabeth. Thank you for your time and attention to the above. I have enclosed a contribution of $20.00 to the Sussex Co. Historical Society for your effort in obtaining the above information. You may keep the ref. information for your files. SASE and Enclosures. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen.

Letter from Richard M. Stevens, Post Office Box 99, Greendell, NJ 07839, dated 1 November 1998, to Roger L. McEowen, 448 W. Russ Road, Greenville, OH 45331. 1 November 1998.

Dear Mr. McEowen,

I apologize for not answering your letter of 9 August sooner, but I have been rather busy. Then, I found that I had left your letter at the Sussex County Historical Society, and had to wait a week to retrieve it. I have passed your contribution on to the Society, for which I thank you.

First, I must emphasize that I wrote you just about all the information I have on the

Ancestors of Roger Lowell McEowen

Generation 8 (con't)

McEowens in my previous letter. I doubt that I will find any further information regarding the earlier generations, unless some unrecorded deeds turn up. (I understand that the Green Township Historical Society is being given some early deeds from the Huntsville area; if any of these are unrecorded, they might have references to George McEowen I.) In any case, it is most unlikely I will find anything relative to his parentage, or activities before coming to Sussex County.

To answer your specific questions. The Sussex County marriage records do not include any entry for George McEowen and Amelia Coleman. Those records are quite incomplete; however, as you will see below, I think it quite likely that they were not married in Sussex County. I would not be too concerned with age discrepancies in the Census Records. They are quite common. People frequently gave the census erroneous information; also, it would not be difficult to copy a poorly written "0" as a "6" in preparing the official schedules. On the other hand, it leaves an opening for possible reconsideration.

I have made a copy of the Inventory of the Estate of George McEowen (Inventories Vol. E, page 428). This is the one referred to in state records as (page 1321, vol. 3). As you can see, it is definitely for George II. There is also a record of the issuance of Letters of Administration for his estate on 12/29/1829 to William R. McEowen and Joseph Reed. I considered copying it for you, but decided that the original was too faded to copy well, in fragile condition, and would tell you nothing more than what I have just stated. There is also a record in Minutes Vol. B, page 472, that the Administrator's account was approved in August 1833. Again, it is not worth copying.

I have found no references in the Deed records to David McEowen of Vernon Twp. However, I have not yet abstracted the Vernon Twp. deeds recorded between 1829 and 1840, so there is still a chance I might find something. I doubt that he owned land. Now I will try to give you some hints about the Coleman family. First, there is no evidence that there were any Colemans in Green Township until Nathan Coleman purchased an interest in the "Nathaniel Hart Homestead Farm" in 1846 (F4-527). In this deed he is identified as "of Warren Co." He was living in Green Twp., probably on that farm, when he obtained full title on 3/30/1847 (F4-605). The death record for Nathan Coleman on 1/27/1858 says he was 53 years old and born in Morris Co., but does not name his parents. The death record for George Coleman, son of Nathan Coleman and Hannah (nee Hart), on 7/16/1853, says he was 21 years old and born in Byram Twp. The death record for William H. (Hart?) Coleman, son of Nathan Coleman and Hannah, on 2/7/2867, says he was 27 years old and born in Warren Co. These show Nathan was born in Morris Co. in 1805, was living in Byram Twp. in 1832, and in Warren Co. from 1840 to 1846. Looking at the 1850 census he must have married Hannah Hart by about 1825. Note that his two eldest sons were named John and George.

Next, look at the last entry in the Inventory of George McEowen's estate: "note of hand against John Coleman". Who was John Coleman? He was the only person to whom George McEowen had lent money. Almost certainly he was a close relative, probably his wife's father or brother. I have a nominee for this John Coleman. On 4/27/1818 John Coleman "of Washington Twp., Morris Co." bought a 118 acre farm just north of the village of Stanhope in Byram Twp. (K2-317.). On 1/31/1820 John, still "of Washington Twp. Morris Co." sold this farm to one Amasa Landon of Byram Twp. (P2-126). On 11/10/1828 Samuel Landon of Byram Twp., identified as the heir of Amasa Landon deceased, sold the farm to John Coleman "of Illinois" (R3-436). On 10/28/1835 John Coleman "of 7 North Range E, Fulton Co., Ill." sold the farm (C4-281). In both 1820 and 1835 the wife of John Coleman is shown as Elizabeth, so I feel reasonably sure it is the same person, who had moved from Morris Co. to Illinois. I can be less certain that this is the same John Coleman to whom George McEowen had lent money. The Stanhope farm is some distance from the McEowen farm in Byram Twp.; there is no evidence that John Coleman ever moved onto the farm in Byram Twp. Still, it all seems highly suggestive that Nathan Coleman was a brother of Amelia McEowen, and John Coleman was either their father or another brother. After the death of Nathan Coleman, Hannah Hart Coleman remarried to Andrew D. Rose (C7-451). Last year Jerry W. Rose, Route 3 Box 3035 Black Mtn. Road, Toccoa, GA

I am not sure how much information he has, if any. Our discussions and brief correspondence centered on the very confusing (to me) Rose family. You might try contacting him; he might have further information on the Nathan Coleman line. With my best wishes for the coming holidays, Sincerely, Richard M. Stevens. Somerset County Library, Somerville, NJ. NJ, REF, PAM, Bedminster Township. Know New Jersey No. 25, by G. A. Bradshaw. McEowen House at Pluckemin. The McEowen house, built about 200 years ago by William McEowen, is believed to have been the first house in the village of Pluckamin in Somerset County. It has been renovated and somewhat modernized in recent years. In 1824 it was purchased by Elias Brown, who married McEowen's only daughter, Martha. In Revolutionary days a store was kept in the building and this was ransacked by British cavalry operating in the vicinity. In front of the house is a marker erected by the New Jersey Commission on Historic Sites, which draws attention to the ... part of Washington's army encamped near the village in 1778-1779. The house is now owned by Marshall Woods.

Somerset County Historical Quarterly, memoranda concerning Somerset County Persons and Events, pages 243-244.

J. Mehelm Brown, under date of September 28, 1885, and October 6th, 1865, writes: In 1751 a tavern stood on the opposite side of the street to where the present tavern stands, on the lot now owned by Joseph D. Nevius, in which Nevius and Van Doren now keep a store in a building erected about fifty years ago by a wagon-maker named James Harriott. This tavern was kept before Christian Eoff's time by his old maid aunt, Sarah, but whether she was keeping it in 1751 is uncertain.

In 1751 Pluckemin consisted of about a dozen houses, four of which are still standing: the Sarah Parker house, occupied by her father, John Boylan, as a store; a house then occupied by Matthew Lane as a store and subsequently in 1776 by William McEowen, son-in-law to John Mehelm, the Dr. McKissick house, afterwards owned by Elias Brown, father of the writer, and the house that was used as a post-office for many years by Jacob Losey. The McKissick house was burned some twenty years ago. Elias Brown sold the property embracing a hundred and fifty acres for fifty-five hundred dollars to Hugh Gaston. Gaston was building a new house on another part of the farm, when the old house took fire from the oven while the raising dinner was being cooked and all the neighbors, after working hard all day, had to go home dinnerless. Ten years later Daniel C. Gaston sold the new house and the farm to Alwyn T. Peck for $9,000, and he afterwards sold it to the present owner, William Powelson, for $4,000.

travellers went east from the Cross-roads, crossing the river on Vealtown road, between Pluckemin and Somerville. There were no roads laid out; simply trails ran in different directions through the wood.

He also writes that William McEowen was Commissary of the American army and paid out large sums of money to the farmers for pork and buckwheat flour for the troops lying in Pluckemin and Morristown. Washington made his headquarters at the William Wallace house, near Somerville, and was constantly passing through Pluckemin on his way to Morristown. He often took tea with McEowen where he would meet John Mehelm, who was a personal friend. The country about Pluckemin was cultivated in but small patches, being mostly in heavy timber; the army destroyed nearly all the fences of the improved portion.

After the battle of Princeton, some three hundred of the British prisoners were brought to Pluckemin, many of them being confined in the old stone Lutheran church.

The pavilion in which the great ball was held in honor of the French Alliance was erected on the northwest side of the Cornelius Eoff farm, not far from the then travelled road to Peapack. It is now owned by Nathan Compton. Intermediate owners were Peter Vanderveer, Peter Garretson and Wilson Whitenack. The ball was attended by Washington and wife, Judge Lynn and wife, General Knox and wife, who were living with Stacy Vanderveer on the Ludlow farm, and several of the old stock of Frelinghuysen.

Jacob Losey was postmaster from 1830 to 1860.

Under date of Feb. 20, 1886, Mr. Brown writes: "The McEowen Revolutionary Commissary house is still standing in good repair and occupied by its owner James Brown, senior, an Irishman. It stands on the opposite corner to the old Revolutionary Locust tree. This old house and farm attached to it were owned by my father, Elias Brown, having descended to him through his mother-in-law, Mrs. William McEowen, the daughter, of my great-grandfather, John Mehelm."

Rev. Samuel Parry writes, on July 26, 1887, that no one knows when the Cornell house was built, but it is conjectured between 1750 and 1770. The Teeple farm was taken up on Dec. 12, 1727 - the first in the vicinity. Matthew Lane owned and occupied the Cornell house in 1787. He may have built it and possibly was living in it in 1777. Nothing positive is known as to where Washington quartered and wrote his report of the Battle of Princeton. Mr. P. P. Van Arsdale writes, July 21, 1887, that after the battle of Princeton, Washington quartered in the Cornell house (next door to Mr. B. C. Amerman), which was built about 1752. The 'Squire Losey house was built previous to 1740, and torn down some years ago. His Postoffice was kept in a separate building which was erected in 1839. As early as 1752, in addition to 'Squire Losey's house, there was the McEowen house, the old part of John Teeple's house, Peter Woorley's stone house, Aunt Polly Wortman's house next to the chapel, a house torn down about 1845, that stood on a lot now owned by Stuart Brown, and a house that stood opposite Jacob Losey's. The Lutheran church walls were pushed down with long poles by the school boys in 1820. The old Eoff tavern was taken down about 1843.

Mr. A. Amerman writes, Jan. 16, 1886, that the present foundation [of what not stated] has in it a stone with an inscription stating that the tavern was built in 1750 and was rebuilt in 1851.

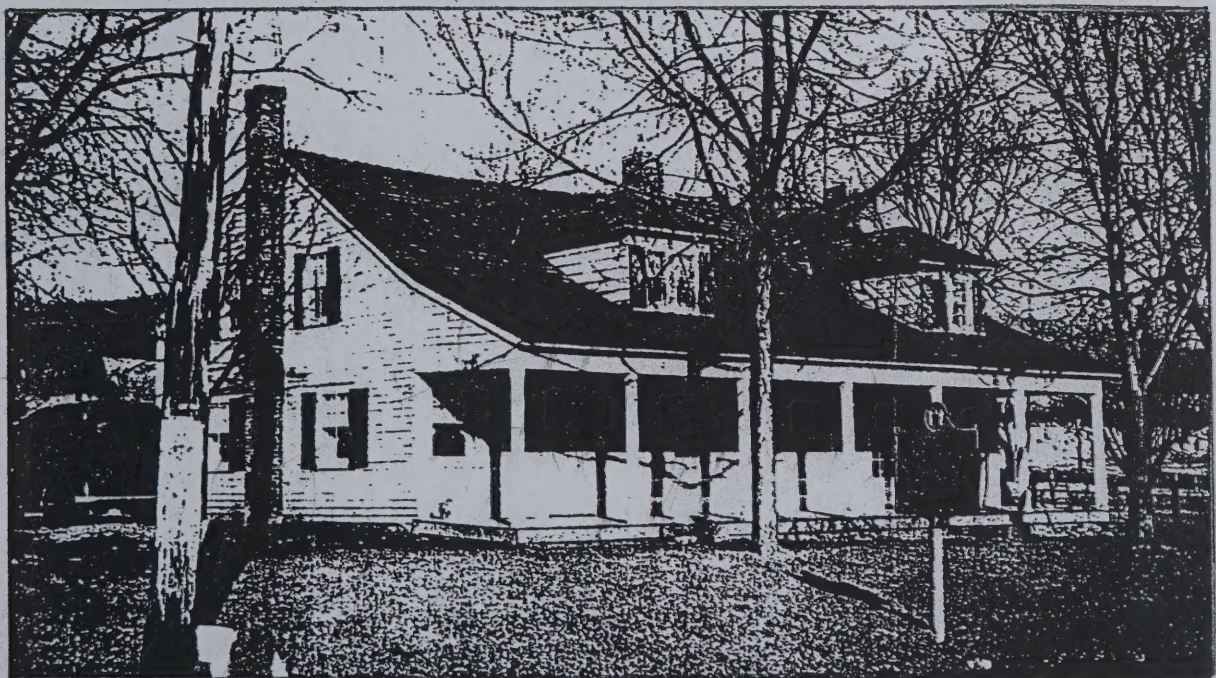

Somerset County Historical Quarterly, memoranda concerning Somerset County Persons and Events, page 247.

Abram Brown in 1787 owned 10 acres of land near Pluckemin and was the grandfather of J. Mehelm Brown. John Allen in 1787 owned 50 acres of land on the east side of the Peapack brook opposite the old stone house farm. The Allen family built the first mill on the site of Schomp's mill at Peapack brook about 1765. John Boylan known as "Capt. Bullion," was Pluckemin's first store keeper, his business stand during the Revolution being the dwelling still intact known as the Parker house. He also had stores at Liberty Corner, Bernardsville and Van Derveer's mill. He owned a farm of 150 acres adjoining the village of Pluckemin. [As to his "tavern," see preceding head. - Editor]. Commissary for the army during the Revolution, lived and died in a house in Pluckemin. He married a daughter of Col. John Mehelm and was one of the trustees elected by Lord Stirling to dispose of his estate. Robert Gaston owned 112 acres with the mill property (recently Schomp's) on Peapack brook, which he bought of the Allen family. He was the father of Joseph Gaston, who married Margaret Melick. Nicholas Arrowsmith was Bedminster's leading citizen in his day, and a Judge of the County Courts. He owned the mill property, now Schomp's, which he bought of Stephen Hunt after the Revolution. He also kept a general store on the east side of the Peapack Road just beyond the bridge crossing the stream of that name, and was the grandfather of ex-Chancellor Wm. J. Magie. He wrote his name "Arrosmith." James Wintersteen lived on what has been recently known as the Felmy farm midway between Somerville and Pluckemin. John Finley was a tavern keeper at the Larger Cross-roads in 1797. Levi Sutton was a well-to-do farmer, occupying a fine hillside farm near the Lower Lime Kiln on the Peapack Road. His wife was Jane Johnston. Adam Crips was in 1802 a miller for Nicholas Arrowsmith at what was later called Schomp's mills. Capt. John Logan commanded the Second Company of the First Battalion of the Second Regiment of the Somerset Brigade, raised for the War of 1812. He was the son of William Logan, Peapack blacksmith, whose house in 1804 was one of four that then constituted the village. Major John Todd, committeeman of Bedminster township in 1804, was of a family that came from Ireland in 1765. He was a...

Cornelius Low, Jr., and Jacob De Groot.

The house of Cornelius Low, Jr., built in 1741, is still standing at Raritan Landing, opposite the covered bridge; it is about 40 x 50, two stone stories, with a dormer-windowed hipped roof. It is now owned and occupied by George W. Metlar. He derived his title from the Lawrence family. (See letter, Adrian Vermeule, Jr., Nov. 4, 1886).

Low's family Bible repeatedly mentions the burial of members of his family in Jacob De Groot's vault. This tomb was probably in the Presbyterian churchyard at Bound Brook, as this De Groot was the same one who, in 1700, in company with George Cussart, purchased of Rudyard a large tract occupying the present site of Bound Brook. Cussart built a house and lived where now stands the Bound Brook hotel. De Groot owned, altogether, one thousand and twenty-three acres of land, and the very old house standing on this land was within a few years destroyed by fire. Jacob De Groot, a grandson of the original Jacob, died in this house the 22nd of July, 1843, aged ninety-four. (Messler-Schuyler).

[Mr. A. S. Coriell, of Bound Brook, says the house was burned in 1839 - Editor].

Lesser Cross-Roads.

Daniel Axtell, in 1740, owned all the land west of the North Branch and south of the road leading to Lamington. In 1760 he sold two hundred and eighty-three acres, adjoining the North Branch and the Minebrook road, embracing a portion of the present Cross-Roads, or rather, his son, Major Daniel Axtell, did, to Jacobus Van Doren. About 1815 Van Doren sold this land to Captain Joseph Nevius. Later, Nevius conveyed — acres, being the portion lying east of the Pluckemin road, to Cornelius W. Wyckoff, whose son, C. Martin Wyckoff, is now in possession. The present house was built about 1820, it taking the place of a little old house that, probably, had been built early in Van Doren's time. The Minebrook road was opened in 1746. F. T. Dow, one of the oldest citizens, thinks that the most ancient house in the village is the one now occupied by C. D. Todd. (From letter of C. Martin Wyckoff, Nov. 1, 1885).

Squire William McEwen was also a merchant in Pluckemin during the Revolution. He was a commissary for the army, and purchased flour in Hunterdon County of Col. John Mehelm, at the mills now known as Hall's Mills. The flour was loaded on a large wagon, and drawn by four yoke of oxen, was conveyed to Pluckemin and Morristown. He married Martha, daughter of Col. John Mehelm (who settled in Pluckemin after the war and lived there while surrogate of Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, and died Oct. 6, 1809, aged seventy-six). Squire McEwen's store was in the building now occupied by James Brown, Sr. He owned 136 acres of land adjoining in 1787. His only daughter married Elias Brown; James Mehelm Brown is a descendant. Squire McEwen died March 10, 1817, in the house where he lived and kept the store. He was aged sixty-one.

The following in reference to this store is related by Dr. A. McDowell: "At one time the British cavalry, after a defeat of our army, made a raid upon the village, took possession of the store, and carried away all the boots, shoes, teas, etc. At that time several houses were plundered. Mrs. McEwen took up her floor, concealed her feather beds and other valuables underit, and replaced the carpet. Old Mr. Eoff's fences and rails were burnt.

Peter Lane's father was appointed to collect all the pewter plates and dishes, which were much in use in those days, and deposit them at certain recognized places, viz. Pluckemin and Larger Cross-Roads. They were then melted in bullets to shoot the British. Lead was scarce, and these pewter bullets, run into common moulds, were the substitute.

Rev. J. Halsey purchased 105 acres on the east side of the Allematunk, known later as the parsonage. Feb. 24, 1772, he sold it to John Demund. July 1, 1784, William McEown purchased the property from Thomas Berry, executor of Mr. Demund, and the next day deeded it to the trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Bedminster. On this lot was built the parsonage of which the ruins are still standing.

The members of Zion Church applied to the Legislature of the State for an act of incorporation separating them from the church of St. Paul and giving them the corporate name of "Zion's Church." Under this act the trustees sold the lands and church of St. Paul to William McEwen. This sale was contested in the courts on the ground that the original charter conferred no power to sell in fee the lands of the church. The Hon. Richard Stockton rendered a decision in the matter, as follows: "I decide that lands conveyed by deed to William McEwen, Esq., are null and void, and that Zion's vestrymen have no right to sell church and lands of St. Paul's." The property then reverted to Abraham Van Arsdale, in right of his wife, Mary Eoff, the daughter of Jacob.

The Two Pluckemin Houses in the Frontispiece. The two "old houses" pictured in this issue of the Quarterly are the well-known ante-Revolutionary houses known as the McEowen and Boylan houses. The McEowen house has sometimes been called the "General Knox house," we know not on what authority, as that General quartered at the Jacobus Vanderveer house, near Bedminster church. (Mellick's "Story of an Old Farm," p. 463). But it is reputed to be still older than the Boylan house, or the Fenner house (pictured in our last number). Mr. John A. Powelson, of Pluckemin, who has given attention to the matter, believes it may have been the first house erected in the village of Pluckemin. There used to be a secret box in the floor of one of the rooms. The oldest resident of the village, Mrs. Ann N. Vanderveer, states she lived in the house when a girl, and it was then "very old." The nails in it were all hand-forged. McEowen died in 1817. About the year 1852 Jacob Vosseller purchased the property of David McCullough, and about 1871, sold it to James Brown, Sr. At his death it passed to James Brown, Jr.; then to Francis Bacon, of New York City; then to Dr. Holly, of Brooklyn, the present owner. 'Squire Elias Brown purchased it of the McEowens in 1824, before McCullough. 'Squire William McEowen was a merchant during the Revolution, his wife being a daughter of Col. John Mehelm, and McEowen's only daughter, Martha (not "Jemima," as printed by Snell, p. 712), married Elias Brown. The store was kept in this building. See further Snell's "History," supra, and "Our Home," p. 437).

115. .Lamington Church Farm. - "Recent reference to the Presbyterian church at Lamington makes appropriate a note concerning the acquisition by that congregation of a farm, of which I do not recall having seen any previous reference. This farm contained 105.2 acres, was located along the Alamatunk River, and was deeded July 2, 1784, to the Trustees of the 'Presbyterian Congregation at Bedminster in the Counties of Somerset and Hunterdon, and their successors' by 'William McEowen, yeoman, and Martha his wife,' the consideration being five shillings. The property is said to have been part of the 'lands of John Dumound, deceased,' and 'sold by Thos. Berry, surviving Executor, July 1, 1784.' In addition to the river the farm was bounded by lands of Thomas Berry, Andrew Leake, Alexander Adams, Godfrey Rhineheart, and Robert Rodenbough. (See Somerset Deeds, Liber A, p. 233). Can anyone locate this farm definitely and tell what became of it?" V. [The farm referred to was purchased for the use of Rev. William Boyd, pastor at Lamington from 1784 to 1807, and is mentioned in Dr. Blauvelt's account of the church in "Our Home," p. 170. William McEowen took the title from the estate of John Demund for one day only, being the medium for the transfer to the Presbyterian congregation. A point we have not observed in print is that, on February 25, 1802, the Board of Trustees of the congregation conveyed the land over the Rev. William Boyd, and it seems to have embraced what was and is the parsonage lot, which had been purchased by the Trustees from Colonel James Henry and wife, February 7, 1798. The graveyard lot was expressly excepted, containing two and one-half acres. The farm, therefore, adjoined the church property, and in Dr.

A Pluckemin Store in 1768 and later. As per Jacob Vosseller's Day Book and Ledger. In the year 1768 a store was kept in Pluckemin by Jacob Vosseller & Company. No mention of this store, or at least of these owners of it, has ever appeared in print so far as we know. Other storekeepers there in Revolutionary times have been mentioned - John Boylan, Matthew Lane, William McEowen and perhaps others - but no suggestion has appeared that the farmer and church warden, Jacob Vosseller, was a Pluckemin merchant, and even yet it is unknown who the "Company" was.

Historical Notes and Comments, Vol. 1, page 315.

I have before me a diagram of a survey made May 17, 1814, by John Blair (father of Rev. Robert J. Blair) marking off in the southeastern part by an irregular line, twenty-eight one hundredths of the original acre, including the old church building. This portion was sold by the trustees of Zion church, New Germantown, to William McEowen, but the sale was found to be illegal, said trustees having no right to sell it, and the money was paid back. I cannot imagine why the line marking it off was so irregular unless it was for the purpose of avoiding graves.

- 130. Jeronimus Van Neste was born before 02 May 1697 in Somerset, New Jersey, USA. He died after 16 Jun 1771 in Bridgewater, Somerset, New Jersey, USA. He was the son of 260. Pieter Van Neste and 261. Catryntje Rol Mangelsen. He married Catharine Brokaw about Jun 1743.

11. Jeronimus Van Neste, the son of Pieter Van Neste, junior (no. 1), and his second wife, Catryntje Rol, was born 1697, Somerset County, and baptized 2 May 1697 (BDC I:244), at New York City; died after 16 Jun 1771, Bridgewater Township, Somerset County (H & S: 654); married, first, ca. 1724, Susanna Van Sickle, probably the daughter of Johannes and Jannetje Van Sickle (VSG:81); second, ca. June 1743, Catharine Brokaw, the widow of Philip Welch, and daughter of Abraham and Maria (Davis) Brokaw (Rec. 86:12-13). On 22 June 1724, Pieter Van Neste, junior, conveyed 350 acres to his son, Jeronimus. This land was situated on the banks of the "Raraton River," in Bridgewater Township, and was Jeronimus' home throughout his life (H & S:654). Jeronimus married, first, probably soon after he was deeded this land from his father, a woman named Susanna (SCHQ 4:144, 145). The couple had only sons - seven in all - who were named, in typical Colonial Dutch fashion, for their respective grandfathers (the oldest two boys), and their great-grandfathers (the younger boys). The fifth son was given the very unique name of "Ferdenandus" (ibid. 2:216). This name was indigenous to but one family that settled early in the Raritan Valley - the Van Sickles. As the equally unusual name of Susanna was also to be found in the Van Sickle family, it is quite certain that the wife of Jeronimus Van Neste was Susanna Van Sickle. The first of the name to settle in the Raritan Valley was Johannes Van Sickle, the son of Ferdenandus Van Sickle (VSG:81). As Jeronimus and Susanna named their second son Johannes (SCHQ 4:145), there can be little doubt that she was the daughter of Johannes Van Sickle. Susanna died ca. 1738, and it is interesting to note that Jeronimus purchased 11 1/2 yards of "Crape" in July 1738 from the Janeway Store (GMNJ 35:92). On 13 June 1743 "Jeronimus Van Neste of Somerset County Yeoman" obtained a license to marry "Cataline Welch of Somerset County Widow" (NJMB V:22). Catharine's first husband was Philip Welch, by whom she had one child baptized in 1738 (SCHQ 2:300). She was the daughter of Abraham and Maria (Davis) Brokaw, and was baptized 6 August 1712 at the Church of the Raritan (ibid. 2:140). She is referred to as the wife of Jeronimus Van Neste in her father's will of May 1747 (NJW: 98R). Jeronimus was a frequent customer at the Janeway Store where his purchases included such items as a "Chamber pott," a "parranger," 5 "felt hatts," rum, "mollasses," a "Scyth," and "powder & shott." Many of these items were retrieved by Jeronimus' "Negro Frank," and his younger brother, Bernardus. He frequently paid his bills in rye, wheat, and on one occassion with "2 Turkeys." However, it appears that at one point Jeronimus may not have paid his bill, as on 26 March 1744, storekeeper Jacob Janeway signed a complaint against "Jeronimus Van Neste Otherwise Called Jeromus Van Nest of the County of Somerset...Yeoman" for failing to pay a bill in the amount of L73.1.4 (NJSCF:no. 20132). Jeronimus was also brought to Court by Andrew Johnson in August of 1748 on a charge of "Trespass on a Bill for L700" (ibid. no. 20133). Though Jeronimus resided all his life in Somerset County, he did have an interest in property elsewhere in New Jersey. On 3 February 1757, Jonathan Robeson of Hunterdon County sold to "Jeromis Van Est of Somerset" land in Sussex County "at pohatkunk Creek," containing 700 acres (PP). This land was subsequently surveyed, and it was found that this land "at Pohatkunk Creek" came to 670 acres. Therefore, on 14 December 1757 a new deed was drawn up between Robeson and "Jeronimus Van Esty of Bridgewater in the County of Somerset" (EJD W:163). Jeronimus' sons, George and Peter, settled on the land at "Pohatkunk" creek, and on 10 November 1762, "Jeronemus VanNeste of Bridgewater...and Catlntly his wife" sold 350 acres of this land to the two sons. Jeronimus and Catharine confirmed the sale of this land on 25 January 1763 (SuD X:157). This is the last instance in which Catharine (Brokaw) Van Neste is recorded as living. "Jeromes Van Nest" brought several of his relatives before Bridgewater Township Justice Jacob Van Noorstrand on 17 June 1767 for their failure for "keeping old Negro wench named Sarah," who had been the property of Jeronimus' father "old Peter Van Nest deceased about 50 years or above ago" (GMNJ 43:13-14). Jeronimus is last mentioned on 16 June 1771 when he conveyed a portion of his Bridgewater Township property to Jacob R. Hardenburgh (H & S:654). He was buried in his family burial ground located in what is now the town of Somerville, and which was disturbed in March 1871 during the digging of a ditch (Somerset Messenger, Somerville, NJ, 16 March 1871).

137. Jennet Edmond was born Abt. 1746.

Notes for Jennet Edmond:

Alice Allen writes that Jennet Edmund died early 1800s probably in Ontario Co., NY.

Children of Jonathan Millett and Jennet Edmond are:

i. Anna Millett.

Notes for Anna Millett:

Anna, daughter of Jonathan and Jennet (Edmond) Millet, is listed in her father's will as Anna. She was apparently unmarried at the time. I have not located any further information on her.

Research of Alice Allen.

+ 54. ii. John Millett was born 29 Sep 1764 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, USA, died May 1833 in Darke, Ohio, USA.

iii. Barbara Millett was born 22 Feb 1766 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, USA.

Notes for Barbara Millett:

Barbery/Barbara Millet, daughter of Jonathan & Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born 22 February 1766 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut. She is named "Barbara Bridges" in her father's will. No further information has been located for Barbara. She may be the wife of Joshua Bridges, who is found in the 1800 Census of Palmyra, Ontario Co. NY living near John Hurlbut, Ebenezer Reed, Daniel Millett and Samuel Millett. Enumerated in their household are 4 males under the age of 10 and 2 females under the age of 10. I also have a copy of a land record between Joshua Bridges and Nathan Morris dated 20 June 1899, Palmyra, Ontario, New York.

Research of Alice Allen.

iv. Andrew Millett was born 29 Nov 1767 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, USA, died Bet. 1830-1840 in Wayne, New York, USA.

Notes for Andrew Millett:

Andrew Millet, son of Jonathan & Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born 29 Nov. 1767 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, and died probably in Wayne County, New York between 1830 & 1840. Information on his descendants is strictly circumstantial, based on a hand-written paper in the possession of Sandy Groezinger of Jo Daviess Co. IL, and early New York censuses. There are also land records for Andrew, one dated 10 Nov. 1800, Sodus, Ontario County New York, the second dated 1 April 1825, Ontario, Wayne Co. New York. Andrew has also been located on the 1800, 1810, and 1830 censuses, information following. And he is mentioned in "History of Wayne Co. NY," by Prof. Wm. McIntosh c1877:

"... Andrew became insane and hung himself. His mind was deranged from the belief that the world would soon be without wood, as it was being so rapidly cut away. Had he realized the mighty carbon heaps stored just beneath the soil in such immense tracts, it would have gone far to affect a cure."

Attempts for more concrete evidence regarding Andrew's family have thus far proven

Ancestors of Roger Lowell McEowen

Generation 8 (con't)

fruitless.

From Census information:

1800 New York, Ontario County, Sodus twp.:

2 males under 10, 1 male 26-44; 1 female under 10, 1 female 26-44

1810, New York, Ontario County:

3 males under 10, 2 males 10-16, 1 male 26-45; 2 females under 10, 1 female 26-45

1820 (haven't located him yet in this census)

1830, New York, Wayne County, Walworth twp.:

1 male under 5; 1 male 15-20, 1 male 20-30; 1 male 60-70; 2 females under 5; 1 female 20-30; 1 female 50-60

In the 1850 census for Walworth, Wayne Co. New York, there is a 77 year old Sally Millett living in the household of Horace and Betsey Simmons. This could be the aged widow of Andrew.

Probable children of Andrew and Sally _____ Millett:

William, born between 1794 and 1800 in New York, died before 1850, possibly in Jo Daviess Co. Illinois

Alexander, born between 1794 and 1800 in New York

Hiram, born about 1797 in New York

Rhoda, born 1800 in New York, died 1859 in Jo Daviess Co. Illinois

"A daughter who married a Simmons" (could be Betsey, born 1805 in New York)

Martin, born 1809 in Wayne Co., New York, died 6 June 1878 in Madison, Buchanan, Iowa

The above children are listed as children of "Alexander and Sarah or Catherine Millett."

Checking the 1800 and 1810 censuses, Andrew is the only Millett(t) who has enough children to qualify as the father of the above. Still hoping to find a will and/or the Land donation packets for Hiram and Martin, who took out donation land claims in Illinois. These may give us the information we need to verify or disprove Andrew's family.

PLEASE NOTE: The above children are not "proven" to be those of Andrew Millett. More research is needed.

Andrew Millett was born 29 Nov. 1767 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, and died before 1840 in New York, probably Ontario Co. No definite record of his marriage has been located, but it is believed his wife was named Sally. In the 1850 census of Walworth, Wayne Co. New York, Sally Millett, age 77, is listed in the household of Horace & Betsey Simmons.

Please Note: This family has not been proven yet, it is all based on circumstantial evidence thus far.

I have a copy of a paper listing the following Millett's as siblings:

Alexander, Hiram, William, Martin, Rhoda, "and another daughter Mrs. Simmons." They are listed on the paper as children of Alexander Millett. However, the only Alexander's I have found so far were not old enough to be the father of children born before 1800. In checking early Ontario and Wayne Co. NY censuses, the only Millett(t) with enough children to qualify as the father of the above children is Andrew, son of Jonathan and Jenet. So far I have been unsuccessful in locating a will listing his children for verification. My next step will be to locate land records that may show children for Andrew. Several of these children were granted land based on an Act of Congress dated April 24th, 1820. Andrew was a veteran of the War of 1812, very possibly these children were given land based on that fact.

Hannah, daughter of Jonathan & Jennet (Edmond) Millett, was born 18 November 1769 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut. She is listed as "Hannah Hurlbut" in her father's will. The LDS IGI lists a marriage between Hannah Millett and John Hurlbut in July, 1786,

- vi. Samuel Millett was born 06 Feb 1772 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, USA, died 16 Mar 1847 in Ontario, New York, USA, married Rachel Douglass 07 Feb 1799.

Notes for Samuel Millett:

On 2 November 1798 Samuel Millet appeared before the Ontario County, New York Court with the Inventory of the Personal Effects of Jonathan Millet, deceased, which was dated 15 October 1798.

Samuel, son of Jonathan and Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born 6 February 1772 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut. He died 16 March 1847 in Ontario County, New York. He married Rachel Douglass, daughter of Samuel and Agness (Edmond) Douglass 7 February, 1799. They had the following children:

- vii. Daniel Millett was born 02 Feb 1774 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, USA.

Notes for Daniel Millett:

Daniel, son of Jonathan & Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born 2 February, 1772 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut. Not much information has been found on Daniel at this point. He seems to have disappeared, and could have possibly moved to Michigan, as indicated by "A Collection of Family Records." There was a Millet(t) family in Lenawee County, Michigan very early on who could possibly be descendants of Daniel.

I have found Daniel in the 1800 & 1810 censuses in Ontario County, New York, as follows:

1800, Palmyra, Ontario Co. NY:

1 male 10-15; 3 males 16-25; 1 female under 10; 1 female 16-25; 1 female 45 & older

1810, Ontario Co. NY:

1 male under 10; 1 male 26-45; 1 female under 10; 1 female 26-45

It appears that his mother and 3 younger brothers were living in his household in 1800. I have found no further trace of Daniel in later censuses thus far.

- viii. Nancy Millett was born Abt. 1775.

Notes for Nancy Millett:

Nancy, daughter of Jonathan & Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born approximately 1775, place unknown. She does not appear in the Voluntown Vital Records index, but is listed in her father's will as "Nancy Reed." She may be the wife of Ebenezer Reed, who is living near her brothers Daniel & Samuel and her brothers-in-law Joshua Bridge and John Hurlbut in the 1800 Census for Palmyra, Ontario County, New York. I have made no further attempts to research this family at this time.

- ix. William Millett was born Bet. 1777-1784.

Notes for William Millett:

William, son of Jonathan & Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born between 1777 & 1784. He does not appear in the Voluntown Vital Records index, but is listed in his father's will as "under age 21." He is listed in the 1810 Census for Ontario County, New York, with the following in his household:

2 males under 10; 1 male 16-26; 1 female 16-26; 1 female over 45

He may be the William Millet enumerated in the 1820 Census for Jefferson County, Indiana, as follows:

1 male under 10, 1 male 26-45; 2 females under 10, 1 female 16-26

He may also be the William Millett mentioned in a law suit brought against John Cutler by Alexander Millett in Geauga County, Ohio April 30, 1832. Briefly, the suit lists William Millett as the father of said Alexander, who was placed with John Cutler on June 1st, 1813 at Newberry, Geauga County, Ohio. Alexander was 4 years old at the time, and was to live and serve with him until he reached the age of 21 years. At that time, Mr. Cutler was to provide "80 acres of land, a good horse, saddle and bridle, bed and bedding, one bow, two suits of clothes. He was to provide reading and writing skills as well, and Alexander was to serve him faithfully during this time period. The suit claims that John Cutler turned Alexander Millett out on 16 January, 1830. Suit is for the amount of $100.00.

I have not been able to find William Millet after 1820. In the 1830 Census for Jefferson County there is a listing for "Alven" Millet. A possible son?

- x. Jonathan Millett was born Bet. 1777-1790.

Notes for Jonathan Millett:

Jonathan, son of Jonathan and Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born between 1777-1790, age calculated from the only census he appears on—the 1820 Census for Caneadea, Allegany County New York. He is mentioned in his father's will as "under age 21." He is also mentioned in a History of Allegany County New York as helping build a bridge across the Genesee River. I have not found him in any later records, nor have I attempted to search further in other areas for him. In the 1820 Census his household includes 1 male under 10, 1 male 10-16, 1 male 26-45; 3 females under 10, 1 female 26-45.

- xi. Alexander Millett was born 20 Aug 1790 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, USA, died 1864.

Notes for Alexander Millett:

Alexander, son of Jonathan and Jennet (Edmond) Millet, was born 20 August, 1790 in Voluntown, New London, Connecticut, according to the LDS IGI. He first appears in the 1820 Census for Caneadea, Allegany County, New York. Living in his household are himself (aged 26-45), one female under age 10, 1 female age 16-26. He has not surfaced in any later census. In "Allegany and Its People, A Centennial Memorial History, 1795-1895" by John S. Minard, published 1896, pg. 846:

Merritt Millett, son of Ephraim and Rachel (Graham) Millett, was born in Cuba 10-31-1845.

256. Daniel McEowen was born about 1685 in Argyll, Scotland. He died before 1762 in Somerset, New Jersey, USA. He married Ann.

Notes for Daniel McEowen:

I have a copy in my files of the "Glasgow Archaeological Journal," Volume 10, 1983, summarizing "Excavations at Macewen's Castle, Argyll, in 1968-69". Though Daniel McEowen and his family could never have lived there (it was in ruins well before his time), we believe it was the seat of our clan. Wendy Lowry, January 2005.

He purchased 170 acres in Somerest County, New Jersey, on 29 May 1744. It is not known how long he had been in New Jersey before buying the land. Note - It could have been the son who purchased the land. Roger L. McEowen.

In 1736 two Scots families landed at New Castle, Delaware after a very rough voyage. It had taken them thirteen weeks in their passage from Belfast, Ireland, during which the ship's provisions were so exhausted that both passengers and crew were half-starved upon arrival. "The first thing I got to eat after we got on shore was corn, in the state which we call roasting ears, and without roasting or boiling I ate it till the milk of the corn ran down both sides of my mouth, and I have never eaten anything since that tasted sweeter." This was the recollection of Alexander Kirkpatrick's twelve-year old son David. They were descendnats of a long line of Kirkpatricks who could trace their ancestry back as far as the reign of David I who ruled Scotland from 1124 to 1153 and from whom they had acquired the title Lords of Closeburn. Robert de Kirkpatrick had supported the great Scottish hero, Robert Bruce, in 1306, who conferred upon him the family crest, a hand holding a dagger with the motto "I make sure" in recognition of his services. There is no record of when Alexander was born but he must have married Elizabeth about 1722 or 1723 for David was born in 1724. Alexander was not only a Presbyterian "Covenanter" but sympathetic to the Stuart cuase, which was probably the reason for his moving to Belfast in 1728. With him was his brother Andrew who eventually settled in Sussex county. The other family was the McEowens from Argyile; Daniel, Alexander, Duncan and their eight-year old sister Mary. Their mother might possibly have been with them for all of the McEowens were very young, and in his will dated May 8th, 1762, Daniel referred to his "honored mother Ann McEoen." The little party looking for a place to settle in the Jerseys went up the river by boat to Philadelphia, then crossed the Delaware landing at Burlington. From there they took the lower Assinipink trail to where it joined a branch of the Minnisink trail near what is now New Brunswick, then continued westwards along the Minnisink trail to Bound Brook, walking the fifty odd miles all the way. On their journey the newcomers to this strange land were startled by a turtle in the path and mistaking it for a rattlesnake made a wide detour. Not finding anything suitable in Bound Brook they travelled further on, ran across what is now Mine Brook and followed it but into a beautiful valley, fertile and well-weatered. There Alexander Kirkpatrick settled down and built a log cabin beside a gushing spring that still flows on the property of Chauncey F. McPherson Jr. The McEowens built their cabin in the vicinity of Twin Lakes. There was an inducement for the Kirkpatricks and McEowens to come to New Jersey as well as a reason for their happening to settle on what was then William Penn's land. When the English seized the Dutch colonies in 1664 Charles II gave all the territory to his brother James, Duke of York, who, in turn, granted all the territory east of the Delaware in the forty-first degree latitude jointly to Sir George Carteret and to Sir John Berkeley. Berkeley sold his share to two Quakers, Edward Byllynge and John Fenwick, March 18th, 1674, for a thousand pounds. Carteret's interest was not sold until after his death in 1680, when, on February 1st, 1681, his widow Elizabeth sold her claim to twelve Quakers including William Penn for three thousand four hundred pounds. For a brief period, until June 1682, the whole of New Jersey was in the hands of the Society of Friends. Then the twelve proprietors associated themselves with twelve others who were not of the Quaker persuasion. The Scots were strongly represented among the new proprietors, consisting of James, Earl of Perth, John Drummond of Lundy, Robert and David Barclay Jr. of Urie, Robert Gordon of Cluny, and Arent Sonmans of Wallingford. These men actively promoted emigrants to settle on their land and in their efforts established the town of New Perth at the mouth of the Raritan, now Perth Amboy. From this point Scots and English settlers went northwest to found what are now the communities of Scotch Plains, Plainfield and Bound Brook. Single families went even further westward and from this emigration the churches at Basking Ridge and Lamington were established. William Penn had personally acquired some seven thousand five hundred acres of land here in the area of the Somerset Hills. Before the John Harrison purchase, it included all of Bernardsville and a good part of the township extending as far as Liberty Corner. Penn did not attempt to enforce his proprietary rights so what few inhabitants there were west of the Watchung mountains including Kirkpatrick and McEowen were "squatters" until 1747 when Penn's sons, Richard and Thomas, appointed Richard Peters and Linsford Lardner to represent their interests. Alexander Kirkpatrick secured 137 acres of land on a lease, one of the terms being that he should plant "an orchard of at least one apple tree for every three acres of land during the first three years; after that, one apple tree for every six acres, per year, all regular in one orchard and in good fence." In 1752 Johnathan Whitaker took title to two tracts of land a few miles south and built a log cabin on what is now the property of W. E. Willoughby at the foot of Page's hill. For 255 pounds, lawful money of New Jersey, that is twelve shillings six pence, he had bought four hundred and seven and a half acres including "a messuage, saw mill, buildings and other improvements." Johnathan Whitaker had come to America in 1720. He was born in Wiltshire from a long line of Whitakers, or Whiteacres, believed to trace their ancestry back to Sir Simon Whitacre (or Wheatacre) whose lineal descendants were King's Commissioners as well as Knights. A Rev. Alexander Whiteacre had come to Henrico, Virginia, in 1611, built a church and parsonage, baptised Pocahontas in the name of Rachel, and in 1613 married her to John Rolfe. Whiteacre had first settled in Sharon, Massachusetts, then shortly afterwards had moved to Huntingdon, Long Island, where he married Elisabeth Jervis and seven of their eight children were born and baptized. He is recorded in Hatfield's "History of Elisabeth" as having been one of the associate proprietors in 1729. The family were known to have been residents of Basking Ridge between that date and 1745 when they may have moved on to the property before taking title which was attested by Ralph Smith of New Germantown before James Alexander. The present property of Dr. Charles Woodman just over the borough line in Bedminster was part of the holdings of Alexander and James Linn, Alexander Linn, a Scots-Irishman, who with his son arrived about 1740, to become tenants to Dr. John Johnston. Johnston had purchased land from Machopoiken and six other "Sackamacker" Indian chiefs on June 6th, 1701, later known as the Peapack Patent, but the property on which the Linns settled must have been an earlier purchase in 1690 of four hundred and sixty-one acres since the boundary of the "patent" is described as being on the west side of the North Branch of the Raritan river extending as far as the Rookaway Creek. Dr. Johnston had already been established as a popular druggist in New York before he came to Perth Amboy and made a name for himself as a member of the Provincial Assembly in 1709 and for twenty years its Speaker. His son, Andrew, kept a journal of all the transactions on the property and Linn's name is frequently mentioned; "(1) Apr. 9th 1755 - John Linn tells me he has bought Albert Derlind's improvement. I consented to let him go on the place, and am to agree with him about a lease or sale when I go up. (2) Perth Amboy, June 17th, 1759 - William McClewen tells me that John Royce is gone off in much debt, and has sold his improvement to Alexander Linn. (3) The persons Tenants on Peapack Patent whose Leases are expired the 25th of March 1773 have liberty to continue on their places for another year at the following rents and at the expiration of the year it is expected they will have all the meadow cleared up, all the trees planted and every other improvement made that they were obliged to do by their leases and particularly that they will put their fences in the repair they are obliged to do by their leases and those who are in arrears for rent are desired to pay their several ballances or they may expect to have their goods distrained for the payment of such arrears. John Linn, for farm No. 1 10 pounds; John Linn No. 2 10 pounds." Even as tenants under Andrew Johnston the Linns prospered. Their "plantation" grew to six hundred acres and was maintained by a retinue of servants and twenty slaves. Alexander Linn was appointed Justice of the Peace in 1767-68 and was appointed Justice of Common Pleas in 1772, positions of honor to which his son succeeded after his father's death in 1776. Besides this little group clustered along Mine Brook there were other families living further away. John Annan from Annandale, Scotland, built a log cabin for his wife Elizabeth and their six children at Liberty Corner, close to Aaron Boylan, one of the Perth Amboy emigrants who had come from Coleraine, Ireland, with his brother James about 1732. The Boylans must have been orphans for they had been under the charge of the older brother Roger but the boys had run away and worked their passage to America. James married Mary Annan (later changed to Annin) and moved away, but Aaron settled down, married the widow of Richard Shillton, and had two sons John and James who became prominent both in Pluckemin and Vealtown. The rest of the township, about three thousand acres, including Basking Ridge, was purchased from an Indian chief Nowenock for fifty dollars by John Harrison on June 24th, 1717. Harrison had been an agent to settle Indian claims but apparently this particular purchase, known as "Harrison's Neck" because of its peculiar shape, became his personal property. Separated from Penn's land on the west by Harrison's brook and on the north by Penn's brook, it was bound by the Passaic river on the east and the Dead river on the south. After his death his son Benjamin sold the whole tract to Daniel Hollingshead and David Risarick. Half of the land was disposed to Col. John Parker of Amboy and James Alexander of New York who eventually acquired the whole of "Harrison's Neck" except for a portion of the southeast corner which Alexander sold to Cornelius Brees of Staten Island. There were already scattered settlements in "Harrison's Neck." As early as 1720 John Ayres, Henry Rolfe and James Pitney had settled there but the log meeting house at Basking Ridge was more important at that time than the town itself, for the only other places of worship were at Lamington and Hanover; so the scattered community miles away, the Kirkpatricks, McEowens, Whittakers as well as the Annins and Boylans, assembled there for Sunday worship. John Ayres, who had moved to this locality from Woodbridge gave the land, one and a half acres upon which the meeting house stood within a grove of trees in 1731, the year before he died. The first minister arrived in 1732, Rev. John Cross, whose services were entirely satisfactory for he withdrew from a meeting of the Synod without permission the day after his reception and three years later a complaint was made "that he absented himself from their meetings and removed himself from one congregation to another without the concurrence of the Presbytery." That he must have been a rather tactless, self-willed man is evident from Whitaker's complaint of certain "scandalous reports" concerning his wife, and the Presbytery admonished "Mr. Cross to use more caution in his expressions for the future, relating to Jno. Chambers (a previous complaint) and others and study the things that make for peace." His unlicensed visitations to other churches, however, may have been due to the fact that the congregation was still too weak to support a minister by itself, but as the countryside rapidly became populated with Alwards, Daytons and Dotys, the Reverend Cross became a permanent resident and served the church until 1741. Although the Scots-English were most predominant in Bernards township Germans from the Palatine were strongly represented in Bedminster and Pluckemin. George Teeple had been living in Pluckemin as early as 1726, Jacob Eoff

Typewritten letter dated March 19, 1963, Return Address Miss Laura A. Frost, 40 Greenwood Avenue, Madison, New Jersey:

Mr. E. S. Spinning, 18 Wesley Avenue, Bernardsville, N. J.

Dear Mr. Spinning:

How I wish I had the answer to all your queries. I have been looking through all my scrap books, clippings and notes for any possible clues but find no definite information, just hearsay and faulty childhood memories.

The Kirkpatricks and McEowns occupied adjoining properties as "squatters" for some years. It is said they cleared the land and built cabins. In 1746 Kirkpatrick leased of Penn 137 acres and erected a mill near the site later occupied by Barker. In 1751 Kirkpatrick purchased of his neighbor Daniel McEown 170 acres adjoining his land to the west. I presume the deed would show if the property lay on both sides of the Mine Brook road which was opened in 1746. That is the best that I can do. Without any reason whatever, I have always suspected that the McEowns lived somewhere in the vicinity of the old Sturgis property.

If James Bunn was was operating the Mine Brook mill in 1850, it must have been at least 30 years old when I recall going there with father for feed. At that time it, as well as the house seemed very old.

One of the Bunn women was called "Pan" or "Pam." She attended the Mine Brook Sunday School before I was old enough for public school (born 1874). I do not recall when they left.

Anna L. Ballentine, widow of George Anderson, married David Wright, Sr. They had two sons, David & Harry. After the death of David, Sr. (1879), Mrs. Wright and her boys moved to Mine Brook as house-keeper for "Bob" VanDoren. I presume Van Doren operated the mill. Later I think he ran the hotel opposite Bernardsville station. Mrs. Wright had a daughter Lila by her first husband. Lila and the boys, barely old enough, attended school. No help there.

About ten years ago, John Whitenack's daughter Harriet, told me that her grandfather, Daniel Whitenack purchased 300 acres of James Lynn and that all of his nine children were born on the Mine Brook farm but she did not say that it was in the present house, or that there was a house on the property when purchased. He was married in 1824 and I am wondering if he would have built then in anticipation of such a large family. I have been in the house often and it has many rooms, all very large. In the back of my mind lurks the thought that I have heard that the present house was built near but not quite on the foundation of an older one, and there was a spring house near by. That's no help. I have just finished reading your article on the School History, B'ville News 9/15/1960. I am wondering if it was accidental or intentional that you omitted poor old Prof. Maughm. When we moved to Basking Ridge in 1899, Prof. Maughm was organist at the Methodist church. He lived in the Ellis house and was principal of the B'ville School in the old church building. Miss Saunders taught the younger grades. I was a member of the choir and followed him as organist. I recall that he told me that he was sorry that he had not met me before he hired Miss Saunders.

James Frost was married in 1792, so I presume the log cabin where all his children were born must have been somewhere around the forge that he and Cyrus Sanders operated in 1797.

Sorry I cannot be of more help. I have enjoyed recalling the traditions, etc. and always glad to do what I can.

Sincerely, (signed) Laura A. Frost

P. S. I wonder if you knew that Anna Hudson and Joanna Martin (P. C. Henry's wife) taught the Mine Brook school.

10 February 1997. Dear Mr. McEwan: My name is Roger Lowell McEowen (pronounced "McOwen" by my immediate family). I live in the midwestern section of the United States in a small city called Greenville (population about 13,000). Greenville is located in the state of Ohio. I have enclosed various reference material related to my early ancestors from Argyll (shire or county), Scotland. I am searching for any existing records that will verify Daniel McEowen (born about 1685) and his wife Ann departed from Scotland or Ireland (in or about 1736) to America with their children Daniel, Duncan, Alexander and Mary. I am interested in any documentation that would verify their location of residence in Scotland before leaving; marriage, birth and lineage records (back beyond Daniel Sr.), etc. The records I have state the McEowen family and the Alexander Kirkpatrick family traveled together on the same ship (see enclosed information). Your name was taken from the Clan Ewen Society Bulletin No. 34 dated 1995. I am writing this letter because I have a deep yearning to learn more of my heritage, who I am and where I came from. I would be very appreciative if you could locate any of the information outlined above, and willing to compensate you for your time and effort. Sincerely, Roger Lowell McEowen.

Clan Ewen Society, McEwan, 25 Carnethy Avenue, Colinton, Edinburgh EH13 0DL, Scotland. 22 February 1997. To Roger McEowen, Greenville, Ohio. Dear Roger (I hope I may call you Roger), Thank you for your most interesting letter of 10 February, and the very detailed family informatoin enclosed. I'm keeping it carefully with other Clan related paperwork in my possession. You will appreciate from the work you have done so far that in going back over 300 years - 1685, Daniel McEowen - there may not actually be any information in existence; so nothing could be there to be found. Hopefully, though, there is something, but it is by no means certain. I'm currently doing some preparatory work for an article for our next Clan Bulletin magazine - due out about April/May. You may find it helpful. In the meantime, I have passed your details to our membership secretary (Mrs. Gudrun McEwan Joyce). She should be sending you a copy of the "membership invitation pack" she has prepared. I hope you will find it worth pursuing. Kind regards for now, AG Murdo McEwan.

Dear Ms. Shippey: My name is Roger Lowell McEowen, pronounced "McOwen" by my immediate family. I wrote a letter to A. G. Murdo McEwan of the Clan Ewen Society dated February 10, 1997, trying to enlist his services in checking my family genealogy and history in Scotland. I was informed by the Clan Society Membership Secretary (Mrs. Gudrun McEwan Joyce) that they are unable to undertake any family research. I am interested in enlisting your services to research the McEowen family records as outlined in the letter to Murdo. Enclosed is various material related to my early ancestors. Murdo has this same information and possibly more, as I did not record what I sent him. I would hope he would share this information if you are interested in seeing what he has in his possession. Please let me know if you are interested in pursuing this endeavor, and give me some idea of what your services would cost before proceeding. Sincerely, Roger McEowen.

Daniella Shippey, MA, Ancestry Research, 3 Warriston Cresc., Edinburgh EH3 5LA, Scotland, Tel. 031-556-4274. 8 May 1997. Roger McEowen Esq., 448 West Russ Road, Greenville, Ohio 45331-2458, USA. Dear Mr. McEowen, You have done well in researching your ancestors in the United States. Is there a family tradition that the family came from Argyllshire? There are certainly many McEowens (also spelled McEwan, McEwen, Maceown, McEoan, McEoen, McEoin, McEouen, McEoun, McKeown, etc.) in the index to baptisms in Argyllshire, but the name is also found elsewhere. Unfortunately I did not find Daniel's baptism in 1685 which is not surprising: of the 46 parishes of Argyllshire only 2 have registers going back as far as the seventeenth century, Campbeltown and Inveraray. Inveraray is the home of the Duke of Argyll and Campbeltown was settled with Lowlanders by that family. The rest of Argyllshire was Gaelic speaking and traditionally relied more on oral records than written records in English. Argyllshire is a beautiful county and that his compensation for its poor records! I'm sorry not to be able to help you. Yours sincerely, Daniella Shippey.

Mrs. S. E. Miller, 36 Branziert Road North, Killearn, Glasgow G63 9RF, Scotland. Ref. 97041 Please quote in all correspondence. Dear Mr. McEowen, Thank you for your letter & enclosures & cheque under separate cover. Please excuse a handwritten reply, but use of a keyboard is banned, pending treatment of a nerve trapped in my elbow. I cannot help with research in Dumfriesshire, that is out with my territory, but I suggest that you contact the following local organisation: Dumfries & Galloway Family History Society, Family History Centre, 9 Glasgow Street, Dumfries, DG2 9AF, Scotland. The most likely venue for "Kilaron in the Isle of Islay" is KILARRON IN THE ISLE OF ISLAY (pronounced "eye-la"). Islay is in the county of Argyll & on the west coast, & Kilaron Paris comprised the central & northern parts of the Island. The principal villages are Bowmore, Bridgend & Port Askaig. In some indexes, Killarron comes under Bowmore. Parish records fro Kil(l)arron/Bowmore do not start until c 1760, a generation after your ancestors left. Also your ancestors came from the Gaelic, non-literate, oral culture which poses further research problems. Such records as survive for the Western Highlands were often the result of an English speaker taking down what he thought he had heard being said in another language! I have not been able to find anything about an Islay Family History Society, but the following may be able to help. Islay Museums Trust, Port Charlotte, Isle of Islay, Argyll PA48 7UA, Scotland. As my expenses, search time & phone calls, do not amount to $30, I am making a refund of $20. Thank you for enclosing an IRO & SASE. The letter weighs more than the basic weight of 10 grams, so I am using a smaller one in reply! I'm sorry I can't help further, but you have done very well to get so far back & I wish you success in your searches. Yours sincerely, Mrs. Susan Miller, ASGRA.

Roger L. McEowen, 444 West Russ Road, Greenville, Ohio 45331-2458, 30 November 1997. Islay Museum Trust, Port Charlotte, Isle of Islay, Argyll PA48 7UA, Scotland. Greetings: My name is Roger Lowell McEowen and I am searching for information on McEowen family genealogy. Enclosed are various reference copies of McEowen family information relating to early ancestors from Scotland. I am searching for any records that would verify Daniel McEowen (born about 1685), his wife Ann, sons Daniel, Duncan, Alexander, and daughter Mary, were born and resided in Scotland before departing to the United States in 1736. I would like to enlist your services to research available resources that might provide documented information on the above mentioned ancestors. I am forwarding (under separate mail) an international money order for $20.00 to cover preliminary research fees. If documented information is available and the above will not cover your time and expenses, please let me know and I will pay additional charges. SASE Enclosed. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen.

The Museum of Islay Life, Port Charlotte, Isle of Islay, Argyll PA48 7UA, 18 December 1997. Roger L. McEowen, 444 West Russ Road, Greenville, Ohio 45331-2458. Dear Mr. McEowen. I'm sorry to take so long answering your letter of 30 Nov., but we are closed for the winter, and also for structural work to be done inside the Museum. I only come in occasionally to deal with correspondence such as yours. Sadly, I haven't much to offer you in the way of information. Our Birth Records don't go back as far as early 18th century. I can only find mention of McEwins as follows from the Book of Islay: - Duncan McEwin rented land at Ballaharvie in 1686. Patrick McEwin rented land at Octofad in 1686. Archibald McEwin rented land in Brayd in 1686. I cannot find the name Daniel anywhere in our library or archives. The following organisation may be able to help. I only wish I could do more. Thank you for the information you sent us, it will be filed in our records. New Register House, Edinburgh EH1 3YT (Tel 0131-334-0380) Old Parish Registers dating from 1553 to 1854 are held there. I think that is your only hope of tracing your ancestors. Good luck with it, and apologies for not being able to help you much. I would send you a list of the McEwins I've got in our records, but am waiting for parts for the photocopier. I do not think that any of them applies to you but will be glad to let you have a copy when we open again in Spring. They are all of McEwins dating past the time of your people's emigration. Yours sincerely, M. Irene Miller, Assistant Curator.

Scottish Record Office, The National Archives of Scotland, HM General Register House, Edinburgh EH1 3YY, Tel (Direct) 0131 535, research@sro.gov.uk. Roger L. McEowen, 448 West Russ Road, Greenville, Ohio 45331-2458, USA. 17 February 1998. Dear Mr. McEowen, Thank you for your letter received 6 February. I have checked for wills for Daniel McEowen (d. 4 June 1762), Mary McEowen (d. 2 November 1795) and Alexander McEowen (d. 1777) but none of them appeared to have left a will. I could not check for Duncan McEowen without an exact date of death. Some of our Non-Conformist Kirk Session records do contain baptismal, burial and marriage registers which record such events in any given church, but it is not possible to look for specific persons in these unless you know the exact parish where the baptism, burial or marriage took place. Your notes mentioned Argyll, but this is obviously a huge area made up of many parishes and any search would be impossible without knowing in which parish to look. I think that your best option would be to contact the General Register Office for Scotland who are responsible for the actual certificates of births, marriages and deaths in Scotland since statutory registration in 1855 and for the Church of Scotland

Old Parish Registers of baptisms, marriages and burials from 1553-1854. The OPR's do not all cover this date and are often patchy, missing out odd years, but they are the place to start any genealogical research in Scotland prior to 1855. I enclose the GRO(S) leaflet for your perusal. You may also wish to consult the International Genealogical Index (IGI), if you have not already done so, which has been compiled by the Mormons. This serves as an alphabetical index to those records of baptism and marriage (not burial) found among the Old Parish Registers and a copy should be available at your local library or Mormon family history centre. Once you find exact places and dates then you can start to look through a whole host of genealogical material held here at the SRO, such as wills, the Register of Sasines (title deeds), Non-Conformist Kirk Session records which can contain registers of births, marriages and death in any given parish, the Register of Deeds which record contracts between persons, often including wills and private estate papers. I enclose some of our leaflets for you to look at. Finally, it would be well worth your while buying or borrowing from a good reference library (or via inter-library loan) Cecil Sinclair's "Tracing Your Scottish Ancestors", Edinburgh, 1990, which gives you an excellent insight into the records held by the SRO, how they can be used for genealogy and how the public can access them. A new, updated edition of this book has just been published. Due to the pressures on both staff time and resources we cannot undertake extensive research on behalf of the public. If you are unable to come to Edinburgh yourself to do your research, then you may wish to hire a record agent to do it for you. To this end please find a list of names and addresses of record agents appended to one of the leaflets enclosed. With this in mind I will have to return your money order for $30 when we receive it. Finally, you should note that many of our archives are outhoused and require at least two working days notice to be brought into this building for consultation by the public. If you plan to come to visit us, therefore, we would appreciate some advanced notice. I hope this information has been of some use to you. Yours sincerely, Bob Brown, Historical Interview Room.

McColeman, Duncan. Private, Captain Maxwell's Company, Colonel Oliver Spencer's Regiment, Continental Army; enlisted April 10, 1777, for the War; prisoner, June 26, 1777. Resident of Greenwich, New Jersey. (MSS Nos. 3776, page 17, and 2400). RJH:W 6-21-32.

According to the will of Duncan's brother Alexander McEowen, Duncan and Jennet (Kirkpatrick) McEowen were still alive as of 21 April 1777. If Duncan was born about 1718, he would have been about 59 years old at the date of this will. Where Duncan and Jennet were living at the above date and what their children's names were is still a mystery at this writing. Jennet was born after the Kirkpatrick family moved to Belfast, Ireland in 1725. If she was born about 1727, she would have been about 50 years old at the date of Alexander McEowen's will.

find those on the report I sent to you about a month ago. I have since "seen the light" and removed all but Alexander from the list; it's clear to me now that whoever posted those as children of Duncan has simply confused him with Daniel (1712-1762). As you noted, though, "Jennet's father Alexander Kirkpatrick mentions grandson Alexander McEwen in his will dated 3 June 1758. This is assumed to be Duncan and Jennet's child," so I have left Alexander as Duncan's child. Which makes me wonder - where could the rest of the family be hiding? Wendy.

Wendy: It is very possible you found the children's names of Duncan in the genealogy and history of the Kirkpatrick family. See attached letters for an explanation. Duncan and Jennet are still on my most wanted list! This would be a great challenge for you to follow up on. I have always suspected Pennsylvania might be where they may be hiding. Some of Pennsylvania may have been part of Maryland at one time. Happy hunting! Before you do too much hunting, I probably should send you a few reams of research from my files.

Roger L. McEowen, 448 West Russ Road, Greenville, Ohio 45331-2458. 27 October 1998. Mrs. Amelia Allen Potter, 210 Meadow Drive, Haddonfield, NJ 08324. Dear Mrs. Potter: In reference to our phone conversation of Oct. 26, 1998 I am enclosing a copy of "The Parents and Descendants of Alexander and Elizabeth Kirkpatrick." Page 7 lists the children of Daniel and Anne (Graham) McEowen as Hugh, George, Daniel, Alexander, William and Mary. Page 8 lists the children of Duncan and Jennet (Kirkpatrick) McEowen as Hugh, George, Daniel, Alexander, William and Mary. I have in my possession a number of documents that verify Daniel and Anne's children were named as stated above. I believe there must be some mistake as to the names of Duncan and Jennet's children. In all of my McEowen family research, I have never been able to find documented proof of where Duncan and Jennet resided or what their children were named and when they were born. I am hoping that somewhere in the vast information of the Kirkpatrick records that you have accumulated, there is some information that would document the above information. I would be very elated and highly appreciative if somewhere in your records this information might be available. Thank you for your time and consideration in trying to find information on the above. Sincerely, Roger L. McEowen. Enclosures and SASE. P. S. You may keep the ref. material or discard it.

24 November 1998. Dear Mr. McEowen: Please accept my apologies for not being able to respond earlier to your letter of October 27. I am writing this while visiting my daughter in Virginia for the Thanksgiving holiday. As I mentioned in my phone conversation to you my husband, Harry Potter, died in May of 1997. He had spent endless hours years ago compiling the genealogy for my family, "The Parent and Descendants of Alexander and Elizabeth Kirkpatrick". I believe you actually have more information than Harry had and I appreciate your forwarding copies of your materials to me so that I might enjoy them and later pass them on to my daughter. Although Harry was meticulous in his endeavors, the possibility exists that he incorrectly recorded information from his resource documents. If this information does exist, it most likely would be found in one of the historical societies in New Jersey. The Greenwich Historical Society in Greenwich, New Jersey would be a good starting point. I am sorry I cannot be of further help to you. I hope you and your family had a Happy Thanksgiving and will enjoy the upcoming holidays. Sincerely, Amelia A. Potter.

Alexander McEowen was born in Kilaron, in the Isle of Isle, Scotland, in the year 1730, and reached Philadelphia when eleven years of age. He accompanied the family of Andrew Kirkpatrick in their journey on foot across the State to Basking Ridge, where he made his home in after life. He married, February 20th, 1766, Mary Cross, daughter of the celebrated Rev. John Cross, and died April 27th, 1777. His son was Hugh McEowen, and his granddaughter, Matilda, the wife of Rev. Dr. Elias R. Fairchild.

Rev. John Cross left a number of sons and daughters, several of whom were quite young at his death, and were brought up by his widow, Deborah. Joseph Cross, of Basking Ridge, was a grandson, and his daughter, Caroline, was the mother of Joseph E. Sheldon, of Hamburg.

In grateful memory of Alexander McEowen, Esq., who was born in the shire of Argyll in Scotland A. D. 1730 and departed this life April the 27th A. D. 1777 being in the 47th year of his age.

A tender husband and a father kind. A friend to virtue who in virtue shin'd. Of pleasing aspect and of heart sincere. Loved by his friends and to his country dear. He left the world just in the prime of life. Mourn'd by an only son and loving wife. Now here beneath this marble stone he'll lie. Till some archangel mission'd from on high. Shall bear him safely to the realm above. To enjoy the presence of the God of love.

Roger's Pioneer/First families of Darke County, Ohio 1817

McEowen, Alexander Hugh 1810-1880 married 14 March 1839 Sarah Schenck 1810-1883. Alexander Hugh McEowen: son of Alexander 1778-1863 and Alada (Hageman) McEowen. He was born on 2 Oct. 1810 in Somerset County, New Jersey. Alexander came to Ohio in 1822 with his parents. The family settled in Warren County, Ohio and farmed there until 1844. Alexander and his wife Sarah then moved to Twin Twp. in Darke County and farmed there for 10 years. In 1854 he moved to Greenville, bought and farmed 255 acres about 2 ½ miles east of town. Alexander was a brother to my great-great grandfather Henry H. McEowen.

McEowen, Henry Hageman 1823-1912 married 13 Sept. 1851 Melissa Millette 1834-1928. Henry Hageman McEowen was born 21 July 1823 in Warren County, Ohio. He moved to Darke County in 1850 and opened a wagon shop in Ithaca, Ohio. Later, Henry and Melissa moved east of Greenville where he engaged in the manufacture of wagons and pumps. He served in the Civil War from 1862 to 1865 and then returned to Greenville.

In 1870 Henry purchased 100 acres in Allen Twp., Darke County, Ohio where he engaged in farming and wagon making until his health would no longer allow heavy physical labor. In 1896 Henry and Melissa would move to the village of Hagerman (now Rossburg), Ohio where he would reside until his death in 1912. Henry and Melissa were my great-great grandparents and the parents of my great grandfather William Henry McEowen 1857-1944.

Millette, John Jr. born about 1799 and died near Portland, Indiana in 1878 at age 79 years, married (date and place unknown) Sybil Potter 1802-1855. Ward, David was born 9 April 1785, died 25 Nov. 1879 in Covington, Ohio. David married Elizabeth Taylor born 26 Aug. 1787 near Jamestown, VA. and she died 1852 in Wayne Twp., Darke County, Ohio.
